Phone Strike Ends; AT&T Agrees to Wage Boost

Contract Settled During Marathon Parley; Walkout Lasted Eleven Days

The Nation's 11-day-old phone strike was settled after a marathon negotiating session in New York yesterday.

The CIO strike idled a union-estimated 120,000 Bell workers, including non-striking operators who refused to cross picket lines.

Federal mediators said representatives of 17,000 CIO equipment workers, employes of the Western Electric Co., had agreed to a contract providing hourly wage increases of from 9 to 14 cents. Western Electric is a subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The contract is retroactive to November 15, and is effective for 15 months—through February 15, 1952. The members of the CIO Communications Workers of America had demanded 15 cents beyond the former basic scale of $1.55 and $1.62.

In Washington, Local 96 of Division 6, a 156-member unit of equipment installers, ratified the agreement soon after settlement was announced yesterday.

The second division represented here — Washington Local, Sales Division 18 — planned to hold a meeting of its 237 members Tuesday or Wednesday.

Both units will report to work at 8 a. m. today, their officers said last night.

Rank-and-File Must Ratify

The agreement must be ratified by rank-and-file by December 4.

Paralleling the Nation-wide strike in some respects, the strike of about 16,000 Michigan Bell telephone workers, in a separate wage dispute, also was settled yesterday.

Terms of the Michigan agreement call for a $5 raise for workers earning $78 or more before the strike. Those who made $50 to $77 will get $4. Those making $49 or less will get $3.

The dispute involved accounting, plant and traffic employes of the CIO Communication Workers.

Settlement of the national strike came about noon yesterday. The negotiators and mediators went into session at 11:30 a. m. Saturday.

Beirne Hails Settlement

Joseph A. Beirne, president of CIO's Communications Workers of America, hailed the settlement as a union victory, saying:

". . . We have made the Bell system give in on every major point in the dispute."

C. C. Randolph, personnel director of Western Electric Co., said:

"We are gratified that a solution fair to both the company and the union has been found."

The strike featured an innovatin in labor tactics—the "hit-and-run picket line."

Pickets would appear at one exchange, then would disappear to show up at another key building or exchange.

Threat of TV Strike Averted; Performers to Get Pay Boost

The threatened strike of television performers was averted yesterday morning by a last-minute contract settlement between the AFL Television Authority and three of the Nation's major TV networks.

There was no interruption in the Sunday TV schedules.

Simultaneously, the AFL American Federation of Radio Artists announced it had reached agreement with all major networks on working conditions and pay scales for radio performers.

The scales were not announced, but a union spokesman said 5000 radio performers won wage increases ranging from 15 to 30 percent.

The television agreement provides Television Authority (TV-A) with a two-year contract—the first ever obtained by television performers.

The pact gives performers increased fees for TV appearances, and greater protection in the use of kinetoscope (kinescope or "kinet" in trade terms—Ed. note:) recordings of "live" shows.

All four major networks signed the agreement with TV-A in the lengthy New York bargaining sessions: Columbia Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co., American Broadcasting Co., and Dumont. Agreement was also reached with WOR-TV, an independent New York station.

Only three of the four networks—CBS, ABC and Dumont—would have been affected by the walkout. TV-A excluded NBC in its strike call, meanwhile negotiating with it separately.

A TV-A spokesman Saturday night said that CBS, ABC and Dumont considered the continuation of negotiations "hopeless."

NBC's position, however, was that "every effort should be made to explore possibilities of arriving at a peaceful solution," he said then.

It was probably from this standpoint that separate negotiations were held with NBC.

The accord with NBC was reached about 4 p. m., after 16 hours of continuous negotiations.

Immediately, the Associated Press reported, the other three major networks announced readiness to resume contract talks.

At 5:40 a. m., 20 minutes before the strike was to have started in New York, CBS, ABC and Dumont also reached agreement. Dumont's ratification, however, was pending approval of top network officials.

In Chicago and Los Angeles, the other "major" TV cities, the strike was to have started at 8 a. m. their time.

Dog Signals Fire at GW 'Frat' House

By John Gregory
Post Reporter

The brown mongrel terrier mascot of a George Washington University fraternity house early yesterday gave the first warning of a three-alarm fire to 30 sleeping occupants, then perished in a smoke-filled dormitory room.

Residents of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity house, 1734 New Hampshire ave. nw., all fled the blaze that gutted a basement recreation room about 7 a. m. and caused an estimated $20,000 damage. There were no injuries.

Terry, the 10-year-old mascot, remained in the third-floor room of his master and suffocated. He was buried later in the back yard of the fraternity house.

The dog's coughing roused his owner, Melvin Chrisman, 24, George Washington University graduate, who smelled the smoke and ran to a fire alarm box.

Chrisman's roommate, Pete Repak, 25, of West Wyoming, Pa., awakened the other occupants who, by then unable to pass

Fire Preceded By Explosion Damages Bar

Flames, possibly thrown out by an exploding oil heater, ripped through a frame building housing the Wheel Bar at 3817 Bladensburg rd., just across the District line in Colmar Manor, Md., last night.

The first alarm sounded at 5:48 p. m. Clouds of choking black smoke brought three ambulances to the scene and at 6:20 a second alarm was rung. Fire companies from Cottage City, Hyattsville, Mount Rainier, Bladensburg and Cheverly responded.

Worst Flood In Its History Hits California

Thousands Flee Homes; Crops Damage Alone Is Placed at $10 Million

FRESNO, Calif., Nov. 19 (U.P.)—The worst flood in California's history inundated thousands of acres in the rich agricultural heart of the State tonight and drove more than 8500 persons from their homes.

Damage to farms and crops was estimated at 10 million dollars. Damage to washed-out highways and ruined homes was expected to send that figure millions higher.

Two aged men were dead as a result of the floods. Livestock drowned in uncounted numbers.

"This is the worst I have ever seen," said State Agricultural Commissioner John Dickson.

More than 10 inches of rain in the high Sierras east of Fresno melted a heavy snow and sent flood crests cascading down into the farmlands of California's Central Valley.

Tonight brown water surged into cities and towns and buried thousands of acres of farmlands. Houses stood eaves deep in water in the lowlands. Barns were afloat. Thirty thousand turkeys, valued at a half million dollars, were swept away in the southern part of the disaster area.

At 11 p. m. (EST) authorities reported swollen streams receding, but warned that heavy rain expected in the mountains could unleash new torrents Monday.

Thousands of volunteer workers turned out at Bakersfield, largest city in the disaster area, to sling sandbags against the banks of the surging Kern River. The Kern

Socialists Win at Polls In U. S. Zone

Adenauer's Party Beaten on Issue of Creation of New German Army

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 19 (U.P.).—The Socialist Party, bitterly opposed to rearmament of Germany, won two important state elections in the Western zone today—one of them by an absolute majority.

The voting was viewed as an unofficial ballot on whether German soldiers should shoulder arms to help Western Europe.

Official final results in the American-occupied state of Wuerttemberg-Baden gave the Socialists nearly a 100,000-vote victory over Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats—the strongest advocates of Germany's participation in Western European defense. In the state of Hesse, also in the United States zone, the Socialists easily outdistanced the Christian Democrats.

The Socialists made the rearmament issue the highlight of their campaign. They opposed it unless heavy American troop reinforcements were sent to Europe.

The Communist Party, which had 10 members in each of the state parliaments, was eliminated in both state elections. They polled less than five percent of the total vote.

The official figures:

Wurttemberg-Baden—Socialists (SPD) 475,872; Christian Democrats (CDU) 379,181; Free Democrats (FDP) 303,331; Refugee Party (DG) 211,599; Communists (KPD) 70,207.

Hesse — Socialists 820,444; Christian Democrats 347,803; Free Democrats (merged with the Refugee Party) 588,191; Communists 87,446.

In Wurttemberg-Baden, the Socialists will not have a majority in the new parliament where seats are allotted on a system of complicated proportional representation.

In Hesse the Socialists elected 47 candidates compared to 38 seats held in the old parliament. The Christian Democrats got 12 seats, compared to 28 they held previously, while the Free Democrats combined with the Refugee Party got 21 seats. The old Hesse parliament had 90 members, while the new one will have 80.

Man Severely Burned By Fire in Mattress

Millard Thompson, 28, of 1328 8th st. nw., suffered severe burns yesterday in a mattress blaze in the basement of the 8th street dwelling.

Police said Thompson apparently set the mattress afire with a cigarette. He was reported in serious condition at Freedman's Hospital.

U.S. Tanks Reach Point 13 Miles From Border; Red Ambush Backfires

Swift 9-Mile Push Puts GIs Closest To Manchuria; Foe Retreats in West

SEOUL (Monday), Nov. 20 (AP). — United States tanks, speeding over glistening snow under blue skies, captured the walled city of Kapsan Sunday and pushed 9 miles beyond to within 12 air miles of the Manchurian border on the northeast Korean front.

The advance came after a bloody 30-minute skirmish at the entrance to Kapsan, where Korean Communists lay in ambush around a bluff.

Some Red troops bolted at the sight of United States Sherman tanks, exposing the intended trap, reported Associated Press Correspondent Tom Stone. Dozens of the enemy were crushed to death beneath the treads of the tanks that bulldozed over their positions.

The tank column, pacing the Seventeenth Regimental Combat Team of the Seventh Division, placed American troops closer to the Manchurian border than ever before. Last month United States Twenty-fourth Division troops had pushed within 15 air miles of the border on the northwest front, before withdrawing some 50 miles.

While the Seventh plunged ahead against feeble resistance, a deadly game of "hide and seek" was under way on the Chongchon River front in the northwest, field dispatches said.

There, United States, British and South Korean patrols found strong Chinese and Korean Communist forces continuing a general pullback three to five miles ahead of United Nations troops.

At one point on the north central front, Communist campfires were still warm.

Reds Disperse Before Fire

An intelligence spokesman at Tokyo reported that Communist troops were inclined to disperse when fired upon. This was in marked contrast to the wild intensity of Chinese Red attacks three weeks ago.

In the air, fighter-bombers continued close front-line support. Superforts splattered 300 tons of incendiary bombs on six secondary towns used by the Reds for supply and staging. They met no antiaircraft fire nor enemy fighters.

The Seventh Division's drive on the northe st front overshadowed other developments Sunday.

"We have them on the run and we won't give them a chance to dig in," one officer reported to Major Gen. David G. Barr, commanding the Seventh.

Barr said the Seventh would continue as fast as it could toward the Manchurian border. Their ob-

Referendum Proposed

European Federation Plan Fails to Pass at Strasbourg

STRASBOURG, France, Nov. 19 (U.P.)—A proposal to go ahead with plans to form a European Federation without the participation of Great Britain was approved by a majority of only one vote tonight by the general affairs (political) committee of the European Assembly.

The vote was 11 to 10 in favor of the proposal with four countries abstaining. The result was so far short of the two-thirds majority that the committee adjourned in confusion to consider plans.

Those who opposed the proposal argued that a federation in which Great Britain did not take part would prove unworkable.

A Dutch Catholic leader proposed, for later consideration, a popular vote in the 15 participating countries to determine whether the people of western Europe want to create a United States of Europe.

The committee met for four hours today to study ways of building the assembly into a European parliament with some real authority, but members said there was no vote on the referendum proposal.

The committee agreed on a formula, but on other suggestions for strengthening the 15-months-old Assembly they were far apart.

The split showed clearly in the debate at the Assembly's opening session yesterday. It was certain to feature the discussion later this week.

Russia Protests U. S. Parole Of Japanese War Criminal

The Soviet government last night protested the paroling of Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japan's wartime Foreign Minister convicted of war crimes, as an "illegal and arbitrary action" by Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Shigemitsu had been sentenced in 1948 to serve seven years for war crimes. It was the lightest sentence given any major Japanese war criminal.

The legal section of the Supreme Allied Command in the Pacific announced in Tokyo on November 8 that Shigemitsu would be released from Sugamo Prison on November 21.

Shigemitsu, now 62, was one of the two Japanese signers of the Nipponese surrender aboard the battleship Missouri.

He was convicted on six counts of war crimes. At the time of his trial in 1948, depositions in his behalf were received from several Allied diplomats, including former United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew.

He has been in custody since April 29, 1946.

The Soviet Embassy made public last night the text of a formal note sent to the State Department and members of the Far Eastern Commission.

The Soviet note called Shigemitsu "one of the major Japanese war criminals, guilty of unleashing the aggressive war by the militaristic clique of Japan."

The Russians, who had already protested creation by MacArthur of a parole system for war criminals, said in their latest note on the subject:

"It is known that neither in the charter of the International Military Tribunal nor in the decision of the Far Eastern Commission of April 3, 1946, are there any provisions for paroling the major Japanese war criminals after sentence has been enforced."

Two Previous Notes

The Soviet note said Russia was confirming its previous protests, made May 11 and August 25, this year. It added that Russia "places responsibility for illegal and arbitrary actions impairing the cause of the maintenance of international peace which may be taken by General MacArthur with regard to the parole for the major Japanese war criminals, including Mamoru Shigemitsu, on the United States Government."

Delivery of the Soviet protest came almost on the eve of the scheduled release of the Japanese prisoner, since Toyko is one day ahead of the United States in time.

U. S. Doubles Rate of Spud Destruction

By John Ball
Post Reporter

So far this year the Agriculture Department has destroyed enough potatoes to meet the normal needs of the inhabitants of 16 States for a year.

Bureau of Agriculture Economics figures show that Americans each eat about 105 pounds of potatoes a year. About 26,700,000 bushels of potatoes were destroyed under the Government farm price support program up to November 15, enough to feed all the people for a year in Oregon, Nebraska, Colorado, Maine (the biggest potato State), the District of Columbia, Rhode Island, Arizona, Utah, New Mexico, South Dakota, North Dakota (another big potato State), Montana, Idaho (the home of the big potato), New Hampshire, Vermont, Delaware, Wyoming, and Nevada, with some left over for Kansas.

The potato destruction this year is running at a rate more than twice that of a year ago, Agriculture Department figures

BOSTON, Nov. 19 (AP).—Most of Boston and several surrounding communities were blacked out for about an hour tonight because of a Boston Edison Co. power plant failure.

The blackout affected theaters, newspaper plants and news services, telephone and radio stations, traffic lights and most utilities and buildings which have alternating current. Hospitals were not seriously affected.

Boy, 8, Swings Monkey Wrench, Fells Prowler

SEATTLE, Nov. 19 (AP).—An 8-year-old boy with a lot of pluck and a monkey wrench captured a 31-year-old prowler in the family home early today.

The boy, Robert Dixon, was alone in the house at 4:30 a. m. when he heard someone attempting to force the locked front door. When this failed, the man broke a front window and started to climb in. Robert was waiting just inside, however, with a monkey wrench and a kitchen knife.

Wham! He let the prowler have it over the head. Whack! He gave him another one. And, for good measure, he took a slice at the man's hand with the butcher knife.

The prowler collapsed, out cold. A few moments later the boy's parents returned. The prowler was still unconscious when police arrived. He gave his name as Joseph T. Trammell. He has declined to make any statement.

THE WHITE HOUSE

Dear Henry:

I am greatly disturbed by the enclosed from Herbert Lehman. It comes just as I am leaving. I do hope you will write him and get pressure to bear from any source you can. He simply cannot be permitted to withdraw.

You and I know what a mess would be caused by trying to find a successor, quite aside from the fact that the State and its citizens need him as Governor.

Always sincerely.

Lehman, who had served four years as lieutenant governor and four years as governor of New York, had informed the President, when he was a guest at the White House in February, that for business and family reasons he did not wish to run again. On March 17th he had written the President to reiterate his firm intention to withdraw. With Lehman not a candidate, New York would again become a doubtful state, and the party would be rent by divisions in the search for a successor.

The Morgenthau's were close friends of the Lehmans; Mrs. Morgenthau was the governor's niece.

John Fahey, Former Banker And Publisher, Dies at 77

John H. Fahey, 77, retired newspaper executive, philanthropist and former chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, died of pneumonia yesterday at Emergency Hospital.

He was stricken Thursday night after coming from his Swampscott, Mass., home to attend a meeting of trustees of the Twentieth Century Fund, a non-profit economic research organization of which he was president.

A funeral mass will be said at 10 a. m. Tuesday in St. Matthews Cathedral with burial services in Lynn, Mass.

Mr. Fahey headed the Home Loan Bank from 1933 to 1948. During his chairmanship the organization's agencies helped to rescue more than a million home owners from foreclosure during the depression and completed their work with a net profit to the United States Treasury, which had advanced four billion dollars.

Born February 19, 1873, in Manchester, N. H., Mr. Fahey began his career as a newspaper reporter and rose to the position of Eastern manager of the Associated Press. He served as New England head of the newspaper service from 1897 to 1903, when he became publisher of the Boston Traveler Co.

He owned and published the Worcester (Mass.) Post from 1914 to 1937. During that period he also published the New York Evening Post (1923) and the Manchester (N. H.) Mirror (1922-25).

In World War I he was an adviser to President Woodrow Wilson on the War Industries Council, and after the war helped or-

$5 Billion Rise Since July

Federal Reserve Board Again Warns Banks to Curb Lending

By The Associated Press

The Federal Reserve Board last night appealed to banks to fight inflation by holding down lending. It was the board's second such plea in four months.

Chairman Thomas B. McCabe voiced the board's concern over a record-smashing 5 billion dollar rise in bank loans since July 1.

"With full employment, high level production, and rising wages and prices, almost everyone's credit appears to be good," he said in a communication to the Federal Reserve System's 7000 banks.

"Further expansion in bank credit means more dollars competing for limited supplies of labor and materials. Unless such expansion of credit is checked it is bound to raise prices.

"Defense dollars will soon be added to civilian dollars in competition for available goods. The Nation's defense needs must be adequately met without runaway prices."

Despite McCabe's urgent tone, the call for voluntary holding-down on loans was interpreted as a sign that the board has decided against an order curbing lending capacity at this time, but is giving the banks a "last warning."

Board members had hinted at the possibility of an order to raise reserve requirements, thereby "freezing" some $2,500,000,000 the banks otherwise would be in position to lend.

McCabe said, "The sacrifice of some (bank) earnings at this time is a small price to pay for the defense of the dollar which is of paramount importance."

Move to End, 'Subversives' Ban Planned

By the United Press

The Administration plans to ask Congress to remove the new anti-subversive law ban on admission of former "totalitarians" to the United States an immigration official disclosed yesterday.

The spokesman said the immigration service is preparing an amendment which would permit former Nazis, Fascists or other totalitarians to enter the country, regardless of whether their past membership had been nominal.

Some standard may be included to show they have been "denazified" or otherwise "cured" of their totalitarian leanings, he said. But persons still found to be underground or active Nazis, Fascists or other totalitarians, would continue to be barred.

No change will be asked for a proviso that bars admission to persons who were once Communists, even if they have renounced their Red ties, the official said.

The anti-subversive law, enacted by Congress over President Truman's veto in September, changed the immigration law to bar U.S. entry to all persons who are, or ever were, members of "affiliates" of Communist, Nazi, Fascist or "other totalitarian" organizations.

There has been widespread confusion over application of the statute and many prominent foreign visitors have been detained at Ellis Island, N. Y. To end some of the confusion, Attorney General J. Howard McGrath recently modified its enforcement on a temporary basis.

Members of the Spanish Falange, Spain's one political party, have been barred as "totalitarians." Officials are still trying to decide whether it covers citizens of other one-party nations such as Argentina.

The immigration spokesman said he does not know whether President Truman or some other executive will ask Congress for the changes when it reconvenes November 27. But he said he is "sure someone will present a report on what we have been doing, together with recommendations for improvements."

While the changes are being prepared, McGrath yesterday reminded aliens living in this country that under the new law, they must file their current addresses between January 1 and 10, or face penalties up to $100 in fines and 30 days in jail.

This census of aliens henceforth will be made annually at the beginning of January in an effort to keep better check on the whereabouts and activities of foreigners.

Heretofore, aliens were required only to file notice of a change of address within five days after moving. The Government lost track of many of them this way. Some died. Some left the country. Others moved without informing authorities.

Kirk Host to Cabot

MOSCOW, Nov. 19 (U.P.).—John Cabot, American Minister to Finland, arrived by train today to be Ambassador Alan Kirk's house guest until Thursday. He said the visit was purely private.

WARSAW, Nov. 19 (AP).—O. John Rogge, United States delegate, jolted the second World Peace Congress here today with a rousing address in which he pleaded that the Communist-packed assemblage accept some ideas from the Western world.

In a booming voice, the former Assistant United States Attorney General said there is widespread apprehension that the Congress is becoming an instrument of Russian foreign policy.

Rogge—one of the few foreigners ever to be invited to speak before the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) in the Kremlin—was roundly applauded there last March, though he placed part of the responsibility for the East-West cold war on the Soviet Union.

But he was interrupted four times today by boos, shouts and protest and derisive laughter.

Aggression Charged

He charged that while Communists in many places talked loudly of peace, they have committed acts of aggression. He stood up against the storm of protest resolutely. The chairwoman, Mrs. Anezka Hodinova-Spurna of Czechoslovakia, several times rapped for order.

Rogge got some applause. There was a ripple of handclapping at the end of his 45-minute speech.

But the shouts of protest became loud when Rogge praised Yugoslavia for its independence of the Cominform. He commended the efforts of Yugoslavia to arrange nonaggression pacts with its neighbors.

Rogge announced last June that he was a registered lobbyist for Yugoslavia. After visiting Premier Marshal Tito earlier this year, he declared that if Yugoslavia wanted to build socialism its own way, the Soviet Union should not interfere.

Yugoslavia—on the outs with the Cominform—was excluded from the Warsaw congress and Rogge said the banning of a delegation from that country was a grave error.

He said the world today had "two troubling power concentrations"—in the United States and in the Soviet Union. He said he had supported Yugoslavia "because it has refused to join either power bloc."

Assails Russian Bloc

He said both power concentrations disturbed him but the Russian bloc was more troubling because "it is more complete" and "the Communists who support it have a missionary fervor" and "a dogmatic zeal which permits no difference of opinion."

Booing rocked the hall when Rogge told the Congress that Soviet power, backed up by Communist "religious fanaticism," is one thing that is wrong with the world. He said "this fanaticism is a road block in the path of human progress."

Reminding that religious fanaticism "has led in the past to inquisitions, persecutions, burning of heretics and holy war," he asked:

"Do we have to go through another holy war or are we going to develop a live-and-let-live attitude on both sides before it is too late?"

Rogge said the religious fanaticism of Cominform Communists had led to force and violence and those who take the Cominform position "are willing to give revolution a violent shove here and there."

"They resorted to the use of violence in Korea," he said. "They resorted to the use of violence in Tibet and, had the use of violence in Korea succeeded, German Communists, in my opinion, would have attempted to follow the Korean pattern.

American Stand on War

"We in America do not want war. The American people are overwhelmingly dedicated to the cause of peace."

He insisted vigorously, as many delegates laughed, that the United States is most kindly disposed toward China and asked the Chinese delegation to talk over its apprehensions with the American delegation here. He warned that American abhorrence of war does not mean that America will stand for a breach of world peace.

Rogge denounced declarations of some Communist leaders in Western lands that they would not fight against Russia in event of war. He named Maurice Thorez of France specifically. On hearing the name many delegates sprang to their feet in a demonstration for Thorez, who now is in Russia for medical treatment.

Rogge gave the congress another shock when he said he would not sign the so-called Stockholm peace petition in its present form because it does not flatly condemn aggression. It calls for outlawing atomic bombs and for branding the first user of atom bombs a war criminal.

He made this proposal:

"Let us suggest to the nations of the world that they agree on the covenant of human rights and then allow inspection by a United Nations body set up for this purpose to make sure that the covenant is enforced."

Hitler Faith In Suicide as 'Out' Shown

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19 (U.P.).—Adolph Hitler believed suicide was the only way out for a military leader who failed in a mission, records of his war conferences revealed today.

He also regarded any retreat on the battlefield as "cowardice."

Direct transcripts of Hitler's high-command talks with his leaders at Berchtesgaden during the last two years of World War II were exhibited at the University of Pennsylvania Library for the first time publicly.

They disclosed that Hitler repeatedly referred to suicide as "honorable" and logical for a losing military leader.

Own Apparent Choise

It apparently was the choice he himself made in the hour of Germany's defeat, although it has never been proved conclusively.

But the records of his talks reveal an obsession with the subject. At one meeting held shortly after the German defeat at Stalingrad, Hitler was quoted as saying:

"When the nerves threaten to break down, there is nothing left to do but to admit one can't handle the situation and to shoot oneself."

The transcripts — uncovered with the aid of two Germans, including Gerhard Herrgesell, Hitler's stenographer at the conferences—showed the Fuehrer's dictatorial and egocentric personality. His choice of words often was vulgar.

The records also showed that Hitler, although not entirely inaccessible to rational arguments, was reluctant to change his decisions once he made them—even on the advice of his generals.

Army Commander Guenther von Kluge asked Hitler at one conference not to take any tanks from his units for action on other fronts. Kluge, the records show, said the tanks were only "junk."

Hitler replied that if Kluge thought the tanks were junk, he surely wouldn't mind losing them.

Treatment of Vatican

A conference on July 26, 1943, concerned treatment of the Vatican in the planned German action in Rome at the height of the Italian crisis.

The transcript showed this exchange:

Walter Hewell, German Ambassador to the Vatican: "Shouldn't we say (for publication) that the exits of the Vatican will be occupied?"

Hitler: "That doesn't make any difference. I'll go right into the Vatican. Do you think the Vatican embarrasses me? We'll take that over right away. For one thing, the entire diplomatic corps is in there. We'll get that bunch of swine out of there. . . . Later we can make apologies."

President of Latvia Ousted; 'All Assignments' Canceled

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 19 (U.P.).—Communist President August Kirchensteins of Latvia has been removed from his office and "all his assignments," the official Riga radio announced today.

The announcement gave no reason for the 78-year-old president's dismissal, but it followed by only two weeks the firing of four other top Communists for "Titoism." Among those relieved of their duties were the Foreign, Agricultural and Education Ministers and a member of the Latvia Supreme Soviet.

Kirchensteins led the Latvian "exile government" in the Soviet Union and returned to his country with Soviet troops in 1946, when he was set up as the tiny Baltic Soviet republic's permanent president.

Baltic refugees here said that virtually all Communists who originally held posts in Latvia, Lithuania or Estonia have now been purged. Despite the purges, the Communists still were having difficulty "Sovietizing" the Baltics, the sources said.

Kirchensteins, a renowned scientist, was head of the Micro-Biological Institute in Riga as well as the republic's president.

Nepal Reported Urged To Popularize Rule

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 19 (AP).—India was reported by reliable sources today to be pressing Nepal's all-powerful Prime Minister Mohun Shamsher to give his Himalayan kingdom a more popular government as the only means of quelling rebellion and countering Communist propaganda from outside.

The Indian Foreign Ministry was reluctant to comment on the report, saying it was "premature."

The informants here did not disclose the form in which India might make her plea, and from all outward appearances Prime Minister Nehru's government continues to maintain a strict policy of neutrality concerning the strife in Nepal.

Bomb Blasts Windows Of German City Hall

FUERTH, Germany, Nov. 19 (U.P.).—A bomb blasted the windows of the city hall today and an hour later another exploded harmlessly in another section of the city.

German police said two men dressed in American Army uniforms planted the bomb that exploded in the street in front of the city hall.

Chinese Church Drive Opens

A $100,000 campaign to finance a new building for the Chinese Community Church began yesterday.

Several hundred persons attended an afternoon service at the church, 1011 L st. nw., addressed by the Rev. Albert P. Shirkey. The pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church emphasized the need for the church "to retard the evil forces that prey upon the community."

Greetings were also brought by the Rev. Clarence W. Cranford, pastor of Cavalry Baptist Church and president of the Washington Federation of Churches, and the Rev. Edward B. Willingham, pastor of the National Baptist Memorial Church and president of the Washington Ministerial Union.

Lodge Assails Soviet Faith in 'Just' Wars

Blasts at U. S. Greet Chinese At Moscow

MOSCOW, Nov. 19 (U.P.).—A Chinese Communist delegation en route to the United Nations Assembly in New York was welcomed today by a blast of attacks on the United States for "aggressive" policies toward Formosa and Korea.

On the occasion of the Soviet "Artillery Day," the newspapers also carried reminders to "warmongers" that Russia possesses the world's best artillery as regards both quantity and quality.

The nine-man Chinese delegation, led by Wu Hsiu-chuan, a key man in the Peiping Foreign Office, arrived yesterday on its way to New York via Prague.

(A British Overseas Airways Corporation spokesman said in London that the Chinese had made reservations on a BOAC plane due to leave London for New York Thursday night. The American Embassy in Prague has been instructed by the State Department to issue the necessary visas for the delegates to enter the United States.)

A Rome-datelined dispatch in the Navy newspaper Red Fleet quoted "authoritative sources at Lake Success, N. Y." as saying that Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had concluded an agreement for coordination of staff work of the United States and Chinese Nationalist forces. This, it was said, contradicted American assertions of peaceful intentions toward Formosa.

Red Fleet said also that "brazen reactionaries" like former President Herbert Hoover and Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) "openly urge" the seizure of Formosa.

Izvestia, the government newspaper, condemned General MacArthur's report to the United Nations accusing the Chinese Communists of aggression in Korea.

Izvestia said the complaint was intended to offset "China's just condemnation" of American aggression in Formosa.

Actually, Izvestia said, the United States wants United Nations permission to attack the Chinese Communists through Korea.

War Minister Marshal Alexander Vassilevsky ordered artillery salutes in Moscow and 15 other capitals of the Soviet Union in honor of Artillery Day.

In a newspaper article, Col. Gen. F. A. Samsonov wrote that Russian artillery was the best of all in World War II and is now and will be the best.

"Anglo-American warmongers, dreaming of world conquest, must not forget this fact," Samsonov wrote. "We do not want war. But Soviet artillerymen, together with all the armed forces of the Soviet Union, are capable of chopping off any hand that tries to raise the sword over our peace-loving socialist motherland.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The United States charged today that the basic motivation of Russian policy is the belief that war against non-Communist countries is just and virtuous.

It labeled this belief "the Vishinsky Doctrine" and warned that peaceful cooperation between Russia and the United States is impossible so long as Moscow follows it.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky is Soviet Foreign Minister and chief delegate to the United Nations.

The analysis and denunciation of Russian policy was made in a formal statement by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge (R., Mass.), issued in his capacity as United States delegate to the U.N. General Assembly.

Asks Abandonment

"We ask the Soviets to abandon this idea," Lodge said. "We believe that if this doctrine were abandoned, peaceful coexistence and the peaceful negotiation of differences might very well become as natural to us as life itself.

"We express the hope that the Soviet delegates who are here at the United Nations will explain to their government in Moscow that the doctrine that it is not aggression to attack a country with a different economic and social system is false as to fact, untrue in all its basic assumptions as to human existence and highly dangerous to the peace of the world."

Lodge said that once "this astounding concept" is understood, all previously mysterious Soviet actions become clear.

"It is the only way to explain the fact that the Soviets have described as aggressors the majority of the United Nations who joined to suppress aggression in Korea," he said. "Apparently because the majority of the United Nations have non-Soviet economic and social systems, they are, under the 'Vishinsky Doctrine,' automatically branded as aggressors even though the obvious truth is that they are trying to suppress aggression.

"Explains Double Talk"

"It is this doctrine which explains all the upside-down language and double talk with which the Soviets have shown so dramatically in the past few years how not to make friends and influence people.

"It is this big declaration which marks the place where, insofar as doctrine is concerned, the Soviets got off on the wrong foot."

The Massachusetts Senator said the United States had arrived at its new explanation of Russian policy in this manner:

State Department experts, analyzing a speech Vishinsky made at the United Nations, came across the following paragraph:

"Lenin said that just wars are those which are designed to liberate people from capitalistic slavery. According to Lenin, a just war is not an aggressive war but a liberating war which is designed either to defend people from foreign attack and from attempts to enslave it, or the liberation of people from capitalistic slavery, or else the liberation of colonies and dependent countries from the yoke of the imperialists."

The experts noted that Vishinsky then went on to observe that the United Nations Charter "enshrines and blesses a defensive war, the kind of war spoken about by the great Lenin and now spoken about by the great Stalin, the teacher of the people."

They concluded, Lodge said, that "this astounding concept means, in effect, that if one nation dislikes the social and economic system of another country, it can go to war on that country and it will not be considered an aggressor.

Speaking for the United States, Lodge declared:

"This doctrine of Mr. Vishinsky's is singled out not merely because it explains the opposition of the Soviet Union to the various attempts of the United Nations to prevent aggression. I am putting the magnifying glass on this significant paragraph because it may lead to a cure of this disease of ever-threatening war from which the world is now suffering.

"There is, of course, no doubt whatever that countries with different economic and social systems can live side by side without war. But this cannot happen if one country considers it a virtue to go to war on another country simply because that country is different."

Indonesia Arrests Communist Agitators

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—In lightning moves, the Indonesian government today raided Communist Party headquarters and rounded up hundreds suspected of inciting political disorders which have hampered development of the young republic.

The government also fired its prosecutor general for failure to carry out properly the duties of his office. Among those arrested was one of the Dutch directors of the Java Bank, a Dr. Spiess.

Italian Liner Launched

TRIESTE, Italy, Nov. 19 (U.P.).—The Augustus, Italy's most modern and best-equipped liner built with E.R.P. funds was launched today amid siren screams and the cheers of 30,000 spectators. The 25,000-tonner will serve on the North and South America routes.

Navy Bureau's 'Operation Toy' Will Brighten Christmas of Refugee Children in Germany

Five hundred refugee children in Germany faced a drab Christmas, but a letter from a State Department officer in Hoffheim, Germany, to his former coworkers in the Navy Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, has changed the outlook.

The letter sent by Charles T. Butler, who lived at 2723 S. Buchanan st., Fairlington, told of the children's plight. It started Operation Toy. The bureau's workers not only are sending toys and money for other gifts, but also wrapped presents at lunchtime.

Indorsed by Rear Admiral Clifford A. Swanson, surgeon-general, as an example of "the American way of life," the project will be handled on the other side of the ocean by Butler and his wife. They will provide movies and refreshments for the children on Christmas.

Chairman of the committee for Operation Toy is Al Celich, 6317 Patterson st., Riverdale, Md.

Aliens Reminded They Must File Annual Report

The Justice Department reminded aliens last night that under a new law they must report themselves once a year.

Attorney General McGrath said the Internal Security Act of 1950 requires all aliens in this country on January 1, 1951, except those here legally on a temporary basis, to report their current addresses to the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization. The reports must be made within 10 days of that date, and follow-up reports must be made in the same period each year thereafter.

Lutheran Loyalty Drive Held Success

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 19 (A.P.). Preliminary reports on the American Luthern Church's "Loyalty Sunday" campaign today indicate a successful drive, church officials announced tonight.

The campaign was aimed at 100 percent turnout of the church membership.

Attendance of 59,270 was reported by 246 congregations—and at that rate, tabulators said, it could mean an attendance mark of nearly 99 percent for the church.

India Reported Near Shift In Policy Toward Red China

NEW DELHI, Nov. 19 (U.P.).—India may break off her exchange of notes with the Peiping government protesting Communist China's invasion of Tibet, informed sources said today.

The latest note from Peiping, the second, is being studied by Indian officials, but it probably will not be answered because the issue is now before the United Nations, these sources said.

These quarters also pointed to the peech last night by the president of the powerful Indian Congress Party in which he was reported to have urged revision of India's policy toward China.

"The wanton attack by China on Tibet and its entry into the Korean war surprised everyone in India," Purshotamdas Tandon told a reception. He was quoted by the newspaper Statesman.

"By these acts China has lost the sympathy of India, which has been pleading for China's entry into the United Nations."

Informed sources believed India, which has tried to establish friendly relations with the new Red Peiping regime, may soon announce the revision of policy Tandon urged.

Only yesterday Transport Minister Gopalaswamy Iyengar, who is a member of the Cabinet's Foreign Affairs Committee, announced that India will espouse Tibet's appeal to the United Nations for aid against Chinese Communist aggression.

Pennsylvania Opens Turnpike Extension

CARLISLE, Pa., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Pennsylvania's newest turnpike addition—the $87 million, 100-mile Eastern extension—makes its debut to the public tomorrow.

The new eastern link will be thrown open to traffic for the first time at 7 a. m. The new toll road extends from the original eastern terminus of the 160-mile superhighway here to King of Prussia, Montgomery County, about 15 miles from Philadelphia's city line.

ECA Official Ambush Fails In Indo-China

SAIGON, Indo-China, Nov. 19 (U.P.).—Three Communist guerillas, lurking along the route of a scheduled tour by U. S. Marshall Plan Administrator William C. Foster, were shot and killed in a gun duel with French troops today.

Officials said they believed the Viet Minh guerillas may have been lying in wait to assassinate Foster, whose plans to travel along the road a few miles west of Saigon this afternoon were changed at the last minute.

Further information of the shooting on the Sampan Road was withheld.

Bad weather, blanketing one of Indo-China's trickiest air fields at Dalat, forced Foster to cancel a private conference with Emperor Bao Dai this morning. Then Foster decided to tour a village north of Saigon instead of traveling along the Sampan road on a 30-mile inspection trip. He encountered no trouble.

A United States Air Force Dakota carrying Foster, United States Minister Donald Heath and their aides circled for an hour in the clouds above peak-ringed Dalat, the Emperor's mountain capital, 125 miles north of Saigon, where he was waiting beside the airstrip.

Pilots decided a landing attempt would be too risky and returned to Saigon. The canceled conference had been suggested by Bao Dai.

Foster later traveled by convoy through the battle-scarred countryside to Bien Hoa, a French stronghold about 15 miles above Saigon. On the way, Foster inspected villages where the 23-million-dollar ECA program for Indo-China is taking hold.

GIs Depress Price Of Smokes in Korea

HAMHUNG, Korea, Nov. 19 (A.P.). What are you paying for cigarettes in the United States these days? Come to Hamhung and you can get all you want for the equivalent of 5 cents a package.

American soldiers glutted the market. They had no Korean money so they swapped cigarettes for fresh eggs and souvenirs.

Red Cross to Stop Indicating Race Of Blood Donors

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Plans to delete from American Red Cross records whether a blood donor is white, Negro or oriental were endorsed today by the organization's board of governors.

Red Cross officials said it has long been known that human blood is all alike, regardless of race.

The board, at its annual meeting, endorse a recommendation of the ARC's medical policy committee. It asked that medical history cards be studied so data for research purposes can be gotten without recording the race of the blood donor.

Officials said the ARC's racial designation of blood donor cards has been protested by the Negro press and others who claim it is a form of discrimination. The card carries facts about the donor which aid doctors in using the blood and in research.

By Albert Parchey Mesirow

HAVING had the very great pleasure of hearing the Arlington Civic Symphony Orchestra in its first concert of the season, I am very gratified to learn that the very able conductor, Bernard Rosenthal, has resolved the difficulties that for a time threatened to wreck the organization. There was some sort of Union involvement, as I understand it. As you perhaps know, the Arlington Civic Symphony Orchestra is strictly a community "for fun" enterprise. Although some of the members are professional musicians, they perform on their own time, without any sort of compensation except their own satisfaction. To my untutored ear, their performance on the 9th was professional in every respect. After going home, I compared their version of Dvorak's "New World Symphony" with my recording of the Philadelphia's performance, and for the life of me, I cannot say that the Philadelphia's rendition was obviously superior. By all means hear the Arlington's next concert. As Mr. Earl Campbell has repeatedly pointed out in his Sunday "editorials," good music helps one to achieve the calm perspective that comes only when one enjoys peace in his own soul. So, I may add, does good food. And particularly . . .

In deference to the old American custom of the family dinner at home on Thanksgiving Day, Parchey's will be closed on Thursday, November 23. We like our family dinners at home, too. Hope you enjoy yours!

Just a reminder: if you make a practice of doubling your usual tip to the cab driver, you'll give his family something to be truly thankful for. He needs the extra money this year more than ever!

Anybody can scramble eggs, but an omelet is a true work of culinary art. There's no half-way point in an omelet. It's either fluffy or flat; either high or low; either deliciously dry or soggy. An omelet, a sage once said, is made of eggs, seasonings and poetry. We take a lot of pride in ours. The fresh mushroom omelet that's regularly on our menu (for only 60c) is a masterpiece of delicious frippery. And yet it's very nourishing. We make it with our prize fresh, white mushrooms, sliced and then sauteed in creamy butter. We add a dash of fine wine and some secret seasonings, and Chef Charles Walker supplies the wizardry. It's a glorious, golden, mouth-watering delight that once tasted, is called for again and again. On Fridays, we offer for luncheon, the most succulent (and most complicated) of all omelets, Chef Walker's own creation, the Omelet Crab Flake Creole. In a pannikin of creamery butter, he sautees chopped celery, tomato, green pepper and minced onion. To these he adds some freshly ground spices and a pinch of mysterious herbs which he keeps under lock and key. A moment more of sauteeing marries these delicious flavors; then they are mixed thoroughly with fresh flakes of Chesapeake Bay crab meat and folded into egg yolks, stirred together with the separately and stiffly beaten whites. We cook our omelets in creamery butter, and yours is served to you steaming hot and savory, its fresh-from-the-sea fragrance haunted by a flavorsome suggestion of sombre bayous and lazy Creole days! Try our Omelet Crab Flakes Creole this Friday. The whole luncheon, including your choice of soup or salad, two vegetables, the famous Parchey roll basket and a beverage is only a dollar-and-a-quarter. Our address: 19th at K sts. nw.

If you enjoy reading this column, I'd enjoy hearing from you about it. Or, if you have any objections, I'd like to know about them. We scriveners are a spoiled lot, and thrive on the occasional kind word. I can tell when you like our food at Parchey's, because most of you enthuse about it. Even those who say nothing, come back again. But how can I tell whether my writing amuses and entertains you, unless you let me know? I'd appreciate even a penny postcard of comment, addressed to me at Parchey's, 19th and K sts. nw.

U.S. Tanks Strike Close to Manchuria

jective is the border town of Hyesanjin, a rail and highway terminus.

Stone reported that behind the advance elements of the Seventeenth Regimental Combat Team long convoys of men and equipment of the Seventh Division crawled along ice-coated roads.

The Reds apparently had been caught by surprise at the entrance to Kapsan. After a half-hour battle on a hillside commanding the approach to the walled town, dozens of dead Communists littered the field.

A spokesman said 60 prisoners were taken. There were no American fatalities, but three or four soldiers were wounded.

Elsewhere on the northeast front:

On the extreme northeast, the Republic of Korea Capital Division chased the retreating Reds 6 miles north of the Orangchon River fork and reached Yongchon, a railroad center. This placed the Rok 29 ail miles southwest of their objective — Chongjin, last major port in Communist hands.

Cruiser Lends Hand

United States fighter-bombers hurled 32 air strikes at Red trucks and gun positions while the United States cruiser St. Paul offshore fired 79 rounds to smash Red resistance.

To the southwest the United States First Marine Division circling the Chanjin Reservoir on the west side sent artillery fire crashing into Munchon. This town is 3 miles northwest of captured Hagaru, which is at the southern tip of the big power reservoir.

Associated Press Photographer Frank Noel with the Marines reported that although the Chinese Communists have not attempted counterfire, the Leathernecks suspect a number of Red artillery pieces and large mortars are hidden in Munchon.

Noel said a sudden snowfall cost the Chinese Reds two tanks near Changjin Saturday. They had been hidden under what appeared to be haystacks—but when the snow fell it quickly melted off the hot tanks, leaving them the only part of the landscape not mantled with snow. Marine planes quickly destroyed the tanks.

Red guerillas were active one mile northwest of the big Allied east coast port of Wonsan, where 400 reportedly looted a village.

Red Building Watched

On the northwest front:

AP Correspondent Don Whitehead reported a suspected Chinese and Korean buildup some 25 miles east of Tokchon in the north-central sector, about midway across the waist of Korea.

The Reds were said to have cleared civilians out of an area of five square miles. American patrols scouting the region had no reports on the size of the enemy force believed grouping there.

Civilians reported that after clearing out of their homes, the Reds had booby-trapped the structures. Civilians also reported without other confirmation that Chinese Red troops have several American prisoners of war with them.

Eighth Army headquarters reports said Red troops facing the ROK Sixth, Seventh and Eighth Divisions have broken contact, meaning they have pulled back from their front positions. How far the Reds retreated was not known, but ROK patrols ranged 2 miles north on the sector west of Tokchon without resistance.

A headquarters spokesman said enemy pressure along this front had been "pretty firm" until Sunday.

Reds Killed Behind Front

Farther west, north of the Chongchon River, United States First Cavalry, Twenty-fourth Division and British Twenty-seventh Commonwealth Brigade forces still moved out slowly toward the Yalu River border. Chinese Reds were reported dug in 3 to 5 miles north of the Allied troops.

Behind the front some 45 miles east of the former Red capital of Pyongyang, United States Second Division elements clashed with two Red patrols.

Some of the bloodiest fighting Sunday took place deep in southwest Korea. ROK troops reported 247 Reds were killed in an engagement around Namwon. The ROKs have been steadily hunting out enemy pockets bypassed in the big Allied push northward two months ago.

U. S. 'Mass Air Raids' On China Charged

MOSCOW, Nov. 19 (AP).—The Soviet press charged today the United States has begun mass air raids on Chinese territory.

A Tass dispatch based on information from the Hsinhua Chinese News Agency was printed in Pravda, Izvesta and other major papers. It did not identify the tarthe United States Air Force in gets of the reported raids but said recent days had increased the tempo of violations of the Chinese border.

The dispatch said one raid was carried out by 68 American planes.

Royal Couple Arrives

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP).—Crown Prince Olaf and Crown Princess Martha of Norway arrived today by plane from Oslo for a two-week visit in the United States. They left for Washington, where they will stay at the Norwegian Embassy for four days.

Federalists Give Peace Play

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19 (AP). A score of prominent American writers, educators, entertainers and politicians put on a spirited plea for world government, pictured as the only way out of the "age of the great confusion."

The plea was contained in a play-pageant by a number of writers headed by Oscar Hammerstein 2d, and presented under the sponsorship of the United World Federalists, Inc., a group made up of some 40,000 persons.

Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, spelled out the purpose of world government as aiming at keeping "the points of dissimilarity between peoples from becoming the fuse caps of an atomic explosion."

Cousins said "the world's peoples are going to decide the peace. People who are looking for a square deal on this planet, and a more meaningful life, and this time the statesmen of the world, all the world, will have to listen."

Harold E. Stassen, Republican political leader and president of the University of Pennsylvania, said "nothing can stop us save the running-down of the clock of history before we have given enough voice or have been sufficiently heard. It is my fervent prayer that we will beat the clock."

Cousins and Stassen were among a score of persons who took part in the play, "The Myth That Threatens the World," directed and adapted by Hammerstein. The play also featured actors from the Hammerstein-Richard Rodgers musical, "South Pacific."

Stassen said "the purpose of the United World Federalists in America is, of course, to impel American leaders to alter American foreign policy."

Navy Pilot Saved Over Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 19 (AP).—Ensign D. A. Tuck circled his Navy fighter plane above fog-blanketed Indianapolis for almost three hours today—his instruments dead and his fuel dwindling to a 15-minute supply.

His radio and an Air National Guard instructor saved him.

Maj. A. W. Lewis, 113th Fighter Squadron instructor at Stout Field, told Tuck by radio to fly above the overcast. The instructor took off in an Air Force F-51 fighter, found the lost ensign and guided his F-4 Corsair to a perfect landing.

F.D.R. to John Cudahy in Warsaw

THE WHITE HOUSE,
April 15, 1936

My dear John:

I am delighted to find yours of March twentieth on my return from a two weeks' cruise in the Bahamas.

The excitement seems still to continue throughout Europe, and the situation changes from day to day.

Things over here seem to be in pretty good shape—socially, economically and politically. We had a splendid meeting that packed the big armory in Baltimore.

Let me know when you expect to come home. There will be, of course, much work to be done but I imagine the active part of the campaign will not commence until after the conventions.

With my warm regards,

Always sincerely,

In an amazingly clear-sighted letter, Ambassador Cudahy had reported from Warsaw that the repudiation of Locarno meant that only a miracle could now prevent a war. Unless Hitler were overthrown, war was certain, whether it was a matter of two or five years. He regretted that, with these facts so obvious, peace societies back home were still circulating petitions against defense appropriations.

The meeting in the armory was one held by the Young Democratic Club of Maryland on April thirteenth.

F.D.R. to Senator Joseph T. Robinson in Little Rock

THE WHITE HOUSE
October 26, 1936

Dear Joe:

It is good to get your letter and since October sixteenth things seem to be continuing the improvement.

I am going into Pennsylvania next Thursday for a last whirl and to Wilmington, Delaware, just to assure myself that the DuPonts are not broke!

In regard to the Middle West, I have but one slight worry and that is Indiana. I cannot get it out of my head that we are weaker there than in Ohio and Illinois.

The New England trip brought out the most amazing tidal wave of humanity I have ever seen. I think we have a real possibility in Massachusetts and some chance in Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Keep up the good work.

As ever yours,

F.D.R. to William E. Dodd in Berlin

Hyde Park,
Aug. 5, 1936

My Dear Dodd:

Many thanks for your note. I am sorry, indeed, that I have not had the chance of seeing you again before you sail.

The election this year has, in a sense, a German parallel. If the Republicans should win or make enormous gains, it would prove that an 85 percent control of the Press and a very definite campaign of misinformation can be effective here just as it was in the early days of the Hitler rise to power. Democracy is verily on trial. I am inclined to say something a little later on about the great need for freedom of the press in this country, i. e., freedom to confine itself to actual facts in its news columns and freedom to express editorially any old opinion it wants to.

Drop me a line soon after your return. I should like to have your slant, in the utmost confidence, as to what would happen if Hitler were personally and secretly asked by me to outline the limit of German foreign objectives during, let us say a ten year period, and to state whether or not he would have any sympathy with a general limitation of armaments' proposal. You cannot, of course, ask any questions regarding this in such a way as to let any inference be drawn that we were even thinking of such a thing. I should merely like to get your own opinion on the probability of his attitude under certain conditions.

My warm regards,

As ever yours,

F.D.R.'s request to Ambassador Dodd to sound out Hitler related to his efforts to find some practical way by which to delay war. He was at the time testing out on visitors a plan for a conference of the heads of the seven great powers, which would include Hitler and Mussolini.

Dodd, on the basis of conversations with the head of the German Foreign Office, von Neurath, and with Hjalmar Schacht, the German Finance Minister, reported that Hitler would participate in a peace conference only if a previous commitment were made to Italy and Germany that their colonies would be returned to them and that Russia would be condemned. The plan for the conference seemed to have foundered primarily on this rock.

F.D.R. to Claude G. Bowers in Hendaye, Spain

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Sept. 16, 1936.

Dear Claude:

I need not tell you that during the past months you have been much in my thoughts and I am delighted to have your letter of August 26. What an unfortunate and terrible catastrophe in Spain!

You are right about the distortion of the news—another example of the lack of freedom of the press similar to that which confronted Jefferson in the early days. Over here the Hearst papers and most of the conservative editors are playing up all kinds of atrocities on the part of what they call the Communist government in Madrid—nothing about atrocities on the part of the rebels.

You are absolutely right about not coming home at this junction; also, about what you say of our complete neutrality in regard to Spain's own internal affairs. I am glad that practically every American who wants to get out is out. Those who remain have had plenty of opportunity and we can do no more. I am only worried about what might happen to a Consulate in the possible sacking of a city.

We miss you, of course, in this drag-down-knock-out fight of the campaign but you must stick to your post.

The new book has just come and I have begun it to my delight.

Take care of yourself and do write me some more marvelous letters like that last one.

As ever yours,

Ambassador Bowers had reported from Hendaye, to which the foreign embassies had been moved with the outbreak of civil war in Spain, that nine-tenths of the press reports from Spain were false.

F.D.R. to James A. Farley in New York

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Nov. 4, 1936

Dear Jim:

You were right—so right that I thought you were more of an optimist than a prophet. I find I am the one who needs to have his long-range spectacles adjusted. But in this instance, Jim, I don't mind being wrong at all.

The note was written just after the 1936 returns came in.

On November 2d, Farley had sent the President by special messenger a book containing letters from leaders in every State reporting on election prospects at the end of the campaign. Farley's conclusion, which has now become a part of the saga of American politics, was: "After looking them (the reports) all over carefully and discounting everything that has been given in these reports, I am still definitely of the opinion that you will carry every State but two—Maine and Vermont."

F.D.R. to Josephus Daniels in Mexico City

THE WHITE HOUSE,
November 9, 1936

Dear Chief:

I am beginning to come up for air after the baptism by total submersion on Tuesday night last! The other fellow was the one who nearly drowned!

Thank the Lord it was not a close vote or even a gain for Brother Landon over what Herbert Hoover got in 1932. If Landon had got the 120 or 130 votes in the electoral college as most dispassionate observers, including Emil Hurja, thought he would get, the reactionary element would have used that fact everlastingly during the next two years.

We have—all of us—been leaning over backward in taking the general victory calmly and in asserting that there will be no reprisals.

Nevertheless, the campaign, as Jim Farley predicted in June, was a dirty one, but I am thankful that the dirt was about 99 percent on the Republican side, including, of course, the Coughlin and Liberty League and "Jeffersonian Democrats" outfits, all of them without doubt financed with the full knowledge and approval of Hamilton.

One of the most amazing of the undoubted facts of the campaign was the discrediting not only of the Hearst papers, the Chicago Tribune, the New York Herald Tribune and Sun and The Boston Herald, but also of dozens of smaller papers which aped the others in coloring every news story and crowding their editorials with every known form of misrepresentation. As a matter of fact I think this type of newspaper so overdid things that the public saw through it at least by September and since then the attacks gained us votes. The same thought applies to the attack on the Social Security Act in the last two weeks of the campaign. It was so obviously untrue and unfair that we were helped.

My greatest regret of the whole campaign was that you could not have been in the thick of the fray yourself, and I missed you very much.

It the shipping strike is in a fair way to being settled, I shall leave the seventeenth and go to Buenos Aires at twenty-five knots an hour. Again, I wish you could be with me.

Love to you both.

Affectionately,

THE WHITE HOUSE,
November 9, 1936

My dear Dodd:

I like your "long story" even though it is not an optimistic one.

I am off in a week to, I hope, Buenos Aires. That visit will have little practical or immediate effect in Europe but at least the forces of example will help if the knowledge of it can be spread down to the masses of the people in Germany and Italy.

Incidentally, I think the results last Tuesday may have made the German and Italian populace a little envious of democratic methods.

I hope to see your daughter before I leave.

As ever yours,

Dodd has asked despairingly how the people could be led to a correct understanding that modern civilization was in danger and that cooperation of the United States with European democracies remained the only hope. "These dictators mean to dominate Europe," said Dodd, "and there is a fair chance of their doing it without war."

Referring to F. D. R.'s request that soundings be made about the possibility of a peace conference, Dodd said, "Hitler and Mussolini intend to control all Europe. If that be agreed to beforehand, a Peace Conference is quite possible; but what sort of peace?"

Emil Hurja was a statistician in the employ of the Democratic National Committee, whose forecasts had carried great authority. In this election his polls had indicated a heavy Landon drift in many areas, and he had predicted only 376 electoral votes for Roosevelt.

Josephus Daniels had written F.D.R. that the "one thing that heartened me above all others is that in no appeal for votes . . . have you retreated an inch from the so-called radical policy essential to complete recovery." He went on to state his distress at seeeing "so many of our old associates lending aid and comfort to old enemies by such speeches as Al Smith and John Davis have been making and the silence of the Newton Bakers. I was glad to see you give a thrust at corporation lawyers, in one of your speeches. They are the most dangerous forces in our life—men who are so anxious to win law suits, which bring them big fees, that they surrender the political faith of a life time to argue for political privilege for their clients."

THE WINNAH!—Bob Hartley collects Phi Sigma Kappa's many trophies and carries them to safety after a three-alarm fire swept through the GWU fraternity house yesterday through the smoke in the front hall, climbed from second and third-story windows down fire escapes and fire department ladders.

Firemen from Engine Companies 1, 9, 16 and 21 arrived shortly after 7:12 a. m. and immediately sent up ladders for the occupants of third-floor rooms.

The fire, though confined chiefly to the basement recreation room, was spreading up the basement steps when the firemen arrived.

Closed basement doors kept the fire from spreading through the 30-room house, firemen said, though they were forced to rip out oak panels in the living room.

The fraternity house president, Kenneth Beach, said that some of the damage was covered by insurance.

Lieut. Charles Laschalt, acting fire marshal, said cause of the fire was undetermined. It started in the basement recreation room.

Some 60 couples had used the basement clubroom for a Saturday night open-house party that ended shortly before 2 a. m. The living quarters are two and three flights above the basement.

Smoke and heat damage to the house and clothing of the occupants was extensive. Many of the students, roused from sleep, grabbed only bathrobes or trousers on their way out the windows.

The smoke became so heavy, occupants said, that they were unable to see across their rooms to the windows. Many tried unsuccessfully to salvage books and term papers from their rooms.

Heat peeled the wallpaper and damaged the oak-paneled dining room and living room of the 40-year-old Georgian mansion, formerly owned by the late Theodore W. Noyes, editor of the Evening Star.

The fraternity bought the dwelling in 1946.

A total of 36 pieces of fire-fighting equipment answered the three alarms, along with three battalion chiefs and Chief Engineer Joseph Mayhew. The blaze was declared under control about 8 a. m., 50 minutes after the first alarm.

crest passed without damage to the city.

Some of the thousands of persons who fled their homes were forced to perch in trees to await rescue from the waters washing across the valley.

Near Sacramento an 87-year-old pensioner, Frank Irwin, was trapped and drowned in his riverbank shack. At Kernville, a 75-year-old man died of a heart attack while being evacuated from his home.

National Guard, Coast Guard, Red Cross and other disaster crews worked to evacuate refugees and care for them. Health officials blanketed the area with warnings against drinking unboiled water, since municipal supplies might have been contaminated.

So widespread was the disaster area, it was difficult to obtain a complete picture of the destruction. Flood crests swept down the Kern, Ging's, St. John's, Tule, Tulare, Chowchilla and Merced Rivers. Flood damage centered in King's, Kern, Merced and Tulare Counties.

Near Centerville, a Baptist church was washed off its foundations and carried downstream a city block. A $200,000 fish hatchery was destroyed on the Kern River.

At Chowchilla 2500 persons were evacuated from their homes; at Kernville and Isabella, 1000; near Visalia, 3000; at Woodville and Woodlake, 600; at Rosedale, 200. Small groups were evacuated at rural points all over the floor area.

Almost every highway in the area was closed and at least eight bridges were washed out. Highway 99, the main north-south route through the valley, was cut for a time.

Five hundred persons were isolated in Yosemite National Park when floods and rock slides cut the two highways into the area.

Chicago Newspaper Printers Get Pay Hike

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (U.P.).—Local 16 of the AFL Typographical Union said today that members approved, by a 400-to-121 vote, a wage agreement with Chicago newspapers.

The union said the agreement called for a $2 weekly wage boost for printers, retroactive to July 23, plus an additional boost of $2.50 to take effect February 15, 1951. The present contract, with the wage changes, was extended to January 15, 1952.

Anti-U.S. Sentiment Sweeps W. Germany

BONN, Germany, Nov. 19 (U.P.)—American authorities said today they were "disturbed" by a sudden wave of anti-American sentiment among German officials.

The epidemic of criticism of Americans and their policies in Western Germany was ascribed to "muscle flexing" by Germans who see themselves growing stronger and more important internationally, particularly over the issue of German rearmament for Western defense.

The panning of things American has been concentrated in the popularly-elected lower house of parliament (Bundestag.) But both the British and French occupation authorities have come in for some heckling as well.

Wide Criticism

The criticism has ranged from quibbling about how much chlorine Americans put into drinking water to full-throated denunciation of United States policies toward the mammoth coal and steel industries of the Ruhr.

Most of the sniping has come from rank-and-file politicians. But American observers, knowing the effectiveness of German party discipline, pointed out that political chiefs have not raised a finger to quiet the barrage.

Most of the criticism accuses Americans—who helped win the war—of "undue interference in internal affairs."

Some of the fields in which evidence of sharp disagreement with United States policy has appeared include:

Trust-busting — although all three elements of the Allied High Commission are committed to breaking up such cartels as I. G. Farben and the giants of the Ruhr, it is correctly deduced that without American pressure the policy would collapse. From all sides, American deconcentration of industry plans have been condemned.

Civil Service — After literally years of American prodding, some liberalization of the old Prussian-style civil service is in the works. But those who have examined German draft legislation say that, while it pays lip service to American-sponsored reforms, no implementing machinery is set up. If present plans are made law, the net amounts of progress will be close to zero, according to these sources.

Reform Objections

Freedom to engage in trades and professions—Before the birth of the Bonn government, United States authorities proclaimed an end to restrictive licensing legislation in their zone. Present indications are that such reforms have little chance of permanent adoption.

Extradition and execution of German nationals—An all-party Bundestag resolution protesting extradition and capital punishment of Germans in other European countries was brought to High Commission attention by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. He cited several cases in the United States Zone and mentioned rumors of executions at the American jail at Landsberg. United States High Commissioner John J. McCloy promised to investigate.

Hunting—Recently restored to hunting privileges, Germans in the Bundestag have criticized American sporting rules, claiming that occupation personnel are allowed to hunt too much while German hunters are too severely restricted.

Water—The Bundestag has also heard complaints about American insistence on use of chlorine to purify drinking water in the United States zone. The Germans said they were perfectly capable of deciding this question for all consumers. It has been pointed out that chlorine spoils the flavor of Bavarian beer.

The reason for making the Americans the primary target is twofold, these observers said. First, the United States, far more than either Britain or France, is the advocate of reforms which the Germans themselves find not at all desirable. Second, American opinion is generally regarded as the decisive one in the three-cornered High Commission. If pressure, argument and persuasion can sway United States policy, eventually the other two can be expected to fall in line.

Report Shows Military Aid Given Allies

The United States has sent more than 350 aircraft, 5000 vehicles and several hundred tanks to Allied countries under the military aid program, it was learned yesterday.

In addition, some 9000 military personnel from foreign countries will be trained here during the next calendar year, an official said. About 1600 military personnel from Allied countries have completed such training.

The training is primarily in the use of United States equipment being supplied to friendly Nations. Trainees from France, the Netherlands, Norway, Belgium and Italy are undergoing courses at 12 United States training areas now.

A military aid official said more than 400,000 tons of military equipment has been sent to friendly nations. He said this does not include aircraft and naval vessels transferred to other countries under their own power.

Officials gave no breakdown of this equipment, but most of it is known to be in the small arms category—rifles, side arms, machineguns and ammunition along with a large number of mortars and artillery pieces.

High priority has been given to the French in the Indo-China area. Forty small patrol-type Naval craft, 50 aircraft and various types of combat vehicles have been transferred to Indo-China during the past several weeks.

Poles Stress the Why of War

The Polish American Congress concluded a two-day conference yesterday with a plea for greater spiritual mobilization to match defense production plans.

A resolution unamiously adopted by more than 250 delegates meeting at the Hotel Raleigh said in part: "We stress the importance of enlightenment and inspiration on an equal basis with the production of guns and bombs.

'The 'Voice of America is telling the world about our social ideals but it is weak and only whispering at home. The cause of war in Korea has taught us what we have forgotten at Yalta and after Yalta, namely, that a citizen of a democracy fights well only when he knows what he is fighting for . . ."

The resolution also warned that "no form of isolation is possible any more, be it political, economic, social or cultural. The danger of communism and of Soviet imperialism knows no boundary."

Chairman of the annual meeting was Charles Rozmarek, president of the Polish American Congress, Inc.

U. S. Business Leader Slain by Philippine Thugs

MANILA, Nov. 19 (AP). — An American businessman out sightseeing only a few hours after his arrival from Tokyo, was shot and killed by bandits today south of Manila.

The United States Embassy identified the victim as John P. Herber, 55, an exporter from Seattle, Wash.

Police said Herber and some friends had gone riding and were stopped by a crude road block on a well-traveled highway south of Manila. Three men stepped from hiding, fatally wounded Herber and shot A. A. Krivenko, a Manila businessman. They were robbing two other members of the party when a Philippine constabulary unit arrived. The killers fled after an exchange of shots.

Coal Issue Delays Ruhr Steel Decision

BONN, Nov. 19 (NYHT).—Western Allied negotiations for agreement on an increase in the steel production ceiling in Western Germany has deadlocked over a French demand for simultaneous Allied enactment of an export quota on German coking coal, it was learned today.

The Allies have not had too much trouble on the steel question itself and appeared to be in general agreement on a new level of around 14.5 million tons annual production — an increase of 3.4 million tons over the present 11.1-million-ton ceiling which was fixed for Western Germany in 1948. But the French have introduced their demand for simultaneous enactment of a coal export quota with strong insistence, seeking to protect their own steel industry which is largely dependent on German coal supplies.

In Allied Hands

The issue is in the hands of an Allied study group in London which is working out new agreements not only on German production levels but also on the prohibited and limited industries list in order to clear the way for Western Germany to contribute to Western European rearmament. If the deadlock continues much longer, however, it is expected here that the study group will refer the issue on up to governmental level for settlement.

The French evidently do not believe that either the Ruhr authority or the forthcoming Schuman Plan treaty contain enough controls to insure that they get the coal they want from the Ruhr mines without a fixed proportionate quota requirement. In the last quarterly allocation of coal for exports, which the Ruhr Authority ordered the Germans to set aside, the actual tonnage required for export was 600,000 tons short of the coal which was sought by France and other importing countries.

France, meanwhile, has a new blast-furnace development coming into operation in the Lorraine orefields which will mean even higher French demands for German coal. At the same time, German industrial production is mounting steadily with a serious internal coal shortage already threatening here. Coal supplies have tightened all over Europe and the French are evidently moving to try to make certain that they are not hurt, come what may this winter.

Bad Drop in Summer

The West German government has taken some steps to boost coal production which has sagged badly during the summer months. In fact through the addition of two extra working shifts per month and better overtime pay rates they got to a record daily of 391,000 tons last week. There is, however, no certainty that this can be held, and both long-term capital investment and new housing for new miners will be necessary to stabilize the situation.

In the meantime, the German steel industry is growing increasingly restive at the failure of the Allies to come up with some clear decisions on the steel level and other industrial questions. Production is running at 13.2 million tons per year already with the tacit permission of the Allies, but it is growing increasingly difficult for the industry to plan or expand.

Military Security Board regulations which govern such details as shifting of machine tools and reopening of production units are a particular complaint of the Germans. The industry says that it takes an average of nine months to get decisions out of the board on questions that should take no more than two weeks to answer.

Britain Calls Asia Talks on Rice Nov. 24

LONDON, Nov. 19 (U.P.).—Britain has invited 12 rice-producing and consuming countries to a conference at Singapore November 24 to take stock of the current rice situation, an important factor in the stability of the Far East.

The conference will be a follow-up to one held at Singapore last September, when there was evidence that Southeast Asia's needs were being jeopardized through exportable surpluses finding their way to Japan, leaving Communist-threatened countries hungry.

China's needs have been studied by experts since the September conference and will be considered at the forthcoming conference.

Experts said South China's harvest before the war was 50,000,000 tons. Civil war in China reduced this to 46,000,000 tons and recent floods are believed to have reduced it further to 44,000,000 tons.

In addition South China now has to go without Formosa's exportable surplus of 600,000 tons, which goes to Japan.

The areas invited to the Singapore conference are India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Malaya, Indonesia, Hongkong, Sarawak and North Borneo as consumers, and Burma, Thailand, Formosa and Korea as producers. Indo-China's rice position was said to be so uncertain that no invitation had been sent until further information has been received.

Britain and the United States will send observers.

Production, Trade Policy Changes Needed

GENEVA, Nov. 19 (AP).—A fundamental change of the production and trade policies of countries participating in the Schuman Plan will be necessary if the plan is to serve its economic purpose, the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe said today.

The principal economic benefit seen by the commission was the possibility of specialization which the plan would give to the western European iron and steel industries.

General Romulo's Son Wins 'Voice of Democracy' Contest

Ricardo Romulo, 17, son of the Philippines delegate to the United Nations, Gen. Carlos Romulo, last night won the District Voice of Democracy contest sponsored by the Washington Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Speaking over a WTOP-TV program, young Romulo told what freedom meant to him after seeing democracy destroyed in his homeland during the Japanese occupation. Concluding his five-minute talk he said: "I want to live and die a free man."

Romulo now will compete in the national finals of the Voice of Democracy contest with entrants from the 48 States, Hawaii and Alaska. He attends St. John's College and lives at 3422 Garfield st. nw.

Other District finalists were: Elinor Suchs, 17, of 3130 Wisconsin ave. nw., a student at Western High School; Reuben Lattimore, 19, of 3411 15th st. se., who attends Dunbar High, and Joseph N. Powers, jr., 17, of 1346 Spring rd. nw., a student at Roosevelt High.

Judges were Senator Matthew Neely (D., W. Va.), Representative Lansdale Sasscer (D., Md.) and Lieut. Col. C. H. Whitesell, assistant to the District engineer commissioner.

RICARDO ROMULO
... Winner of "Voice" contest

The national contest is sponsored by the United States Chamber of Comerce, the Radio Manufacturers' Association, and the National Association of Broadcasters.

A national panel of judges will decide the four winners who will come here to a banquet, meet government officials, congressmen and President Truman. Each will receive a $500 college scholarship.

Also on the television program were: James D. Bligh, jr., president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; Patrick Gorman, national vice president of the organization, and Everett Steinem, chairman of the group's Voice of Democracy committee.

Detroit Faces Riot in Death Of Policeman

DETROIT, Nov. 19 (AP).—A policeman was killed today and another wounded in a shooting that spread the ugly fear of "race riot" around Detroit's teeming East Side.

Police rushed out their riot squads and called 100 reinforcements to guard against an outbreak.

But after an afternoon of tense watching, while 2000 Negroes lined the street and crowded upon bayonet-armed police, danger was declared abated.

Police said a 53-year-old Negro, Charles Marshall Gordy, sr., admitted to them he shot a patrolman while they were taking Gordy's son away for questioning on a holdup charge.

Killed was Patrolman Andreas Nellert, jr., 30, a veteran of three years on the police force. Wounded was Patrolman David Morgan, 23. His condition was reported not serious.

Police said they were charging Gordy with first degree murder. He was captured after 62 policemen surrounded Gordy's house and forced out Gordy's family by laying down a barrage of shots and tear gas.

Freedmen's Gets $20,000 Gift

Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing said yesterday that "the eventual stamping out of tuberculosis in the United States is a definite possibility."

"In fact," he said, "this may be only a matter of a few years."

He spoke at Freedmen's Hospital after accepting a $20,000 check to further tuberculosis research. It was given by the Ancient Egyptian Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of North and South America and its Jurisdictions, Inc.

The gift was presented by Dr. Raymond E. Jackson, imperial potentate of the fraternal order. The United States Public Health Service, under the F.S.A., operates Freedmen's.

Ewing said this money will not be "spent"—it will be "invested" in the lives of "men and women, boys and girls."

While tuberculosis has dropped to seventh as a killer in most of the United States, he added, it is still in fifth place in the District and Maryland.

Father Who Never Saw Baby Son Is Missing; Marine Wed Just Before Sailing Is Wounded

Casualty List 155, issued yesterday by the Defense Department, looked just like any of the other 154 lists.

That's the trouble with war. All the casualty lists look alike.

Yet behind No. 155 was the story of love and marriage and family of two Washington area servicemen whose careers as husbands and fathers collided with their careers as soldiers. As usual, the Army took priority. So today No. 155 contains sorrow for two young families.

Army First Lieut. Albert J. Knechtel, 23, father of a 5-month-old son he has never seen, is missing in action.

And Marine Pfc. Henry H. Maini, 21, who was married seven days before he shipped for Korea, is wounded.

Missing Since Sept. 23

According to the telegram received by Mrs. Joan E. Knechtel of 738 Longfellow st. nw., her husband has been missing since September 23, but no details were available.

The lieutenant's first son, Mark, was born in June, a few months after he had been sent to Japan. While a student at George Washington University, Lieutenant Knechtel met his wife, the former Joan Scovell, a GW co-ed.

They married in August, 1949, a year after his reenlistment in the Army. During World War II, he was stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., and Fort McClellan, Ala.

He was shipped to an air base in Japan with an antiaircraft artillery unit last March. The last letter received from him was mailed from a reassignment base in Tokyo, September 15.

Since receiving it, Mrs. Knechtel heard through her husband's friend, now in the Charleston (S. C.) Naval Base Hospital, that Lieutenant Knechtel had been assigned to the First Cavalry Division.

Lieutenant Knechtel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Knechtel, of 516 15th st. ne.

Wounded November 4

Mrs. Cleo Maini received word that her husband was wounded November 4.

Lieut. Knechtel Pfc. Maini
. . . Their names on casualty list

Mrs. Maini, who lives at Holly Hill rd., Avenel Village, Silver Spring, Md., said her husband wrote he had been shot in the right arm and ear. The letter arrived before the telegram from the Department of Defense.

Another message came Friday, advising her that he would be up in about five weeks.

A native of Melvindale, Mich., Pfc. Maini enlisted in the Marine Corps upon graduation from high school in 1948. Following basic training he was stationed at Naval Ordnance Laboratory, White Oak, Md.

They were married on July 25. Mrs. Maini is a transcriber-typist for the National Geographic Society.

Court to Rule Today On Political Refugee

THE HAGUE, Nov. 19 (U.P.).—The International Court of Justice will give its decision Monday on the bitter dispute between Peru and Colombia over Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, Peruvian political leader who has been a refugee in the Colombian Embassy in Lima for nearly 23 months.

The court's decision is final and Peruvian and Colombian spokesmen said tonight that, whatever it is,

There was PLENTY for ALL

. . . only when men were Free to work for Themselves!

DID YOU KNOW that the Pilgrims nearly starved to death? That they suffered hunger for two long years, with never enough food in the Colony's storehouse?

Have you heard how the Governor and his councilors had complete control of the land and what people produced? How they tried to rouse the Colonists to raise more grain; and how they found a way that worked?

During their first year, food was scarce. Even after the 1621 harvest was gathered, the daily ration was only about a quarter of a pound of bread for each person.

In the spring of 1622, the Colonists complained they were too weak to work raising food. Although they were, on the whole, deeply religious, some were so hungry that they stole food from their starving fellow-workers.

Young men complained because they had to work hard to feed other men and their wives and children. Strong men who were heads of families griped. They said that even though they put in long hours and raised good crops, they and their children received no more food or clothes than men who were unable or unwilling to put in more than a few hours' work a day.

Women rebelled when ordered to cook for men not their husbands, or when requested to wash their clothes. And what about the husbands of women who had been set at these jobs? Their wives, they growled, were little better than slaves, and many men declared they wouldn't permit their women-folk to do that kind of work.

After months of bitter complaints, the Governor and chief men of the Colony came to the conclusion that they were making a bad mistake. As Governor Bradford said, they had thought they were "wiser than God."

And so, in 1623, they turned away from government dictation and gave each family a parcel of land for its own use.

Then what a change took place! Even the women went into the fields willingly, taking their children along with them. All — men, women and children — planted as much corn as they felt they could possibly work.

People who had formerly complained that they were too weak to dig or hoe, declaring that it was tyranny to make them undertake field work, gladly undertook to plant and cultivate for themselves.

And when the harvest was gathered, instead of famine they had plenty. And so they all gave thanks to God. And what a Thanksgiving they celebrated!

No wonder they gave up for all time their sharing of poverty . . . their belief that it was good for all to suffer scarcity together. They found that it is better for each man to work for himself to produce plenty, because that benefits everyone.

Aid For Yugoslavia

President Truman bases his appeal to Congress for prompt action in giving emergency aid to drought-stricken Yugoslavia solely on the ground of our own strategic and political interests in that area. Tito's armed forces can, he explains, render invaluable service in defending western Europe against Soviet aggression. But unless the distress caused by acute food shortages is relieved, their ability and their will to resist attack will be weakened and Tito or a successor might be forced to come to terms with the Kremlin.

No doubt the announcement last week that Spain is to obtain loans immediately from the fund appropriated by Congress was designed to prepare the way psychologically for a Yugoslavian aid program. From the viewpoint of the United States, however, the Spanish loan offer is a political liability on balance, whereas aid to Yugoslavia is a net asset. At any rate, with loans to Spain in prospect, the Administration cannot be accused of ignoring a congressional directive to aid a Fascist regime, while appealing for funds to help a Communist dictator. As a matter of fact, Spain could have obtained loans from the Export-Import Bank long ago, if the Franco government had been prepared to insure their productive utilization.

It is a sad commentary on the disturbed state of the world that the President found it necessary to base an appeal for the relief of starving people on grounds of military expediency, in disregard of humanitarian considerations. But the hard fact is that we cannot afford to aid more than a tiny fraction of the distressed and starving millions of the world. Moreover, we dare not risk employment of our limited resources to build up the strength of potential enemies. We must, in short, pick and choose, as has been done in the case of Yugoslavia. In return Yugoslavia will be expected to insure constructive use of American supplies and money. This aid program does not, of course, imply any indorsement of Yugoslavia's totalitarian form of government. Nor does it commit the United States to support of Tito's industrialization plan or his efforts to collectivize agriculture—policies in part responsible for the prevalent distress in Yugoslavia.

Agrarian Reformer

Almost the last word in contempt is to be called an "agrarian reformer." It is the equivalent of fellow traveler in disputations relating to Asia, applied by believers in the status quo to those who see all Asia in the throes of decades-long revolution which nothing can stop. Secretary Brannan invites the epithet in his excursion into policy toward Asia. Nevertheless his talk before the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities is a dissertation on the basic problem in Asia, viz, land reform. It makes more sense than any pronouncement of recent years about Asia, and for this reason it could more appropriately have been made by the President or the Secretary of State. The fundamental desire of the Asian is to own the land he tills, but the opportunity has been dwindling in the last generation because of two factors: the growth of landlordism and overpopulation. Hence, the agitation in which all Asia is caught. To be sure, the intellectuals are bemused by nationalism or communism, but at the root of the revolution in Asia is the demand of the man with the hoe—or 85 percent of Asia—for land. To the Asians the words about freedom and democracy that the Voice of America wings to other countries are abstractions even to the intellectuals.

Among all peoples this revolutionary ambition should be appreciated by the people of America. It was land hunger that drove millions of pioneers across the seas to this country. They came not for gold and the precious metals, like the European migration to South America, but to tame the wilderness, bring it under the plough, and enjoy the possession of the good earth. On the testimony of his speech Mr. Brannan is one American who can draw out of his bones an appreciation of the Asian feeling. It is familiar, real, and authentic. It is the feeling that must govern the approach of our policy toward Asia and have the sympathy of the American officials who go to Asia. Of course, we cannot divide the land ourselves, but we need not be associated with the men who are resisting land reform. Alas, this is the impression we have been giving of late years in our support of the worst reactionaries in Asia. We can, moreover, keep this "gospel" (as Mr. Brannan calls it) in view in our administration of aid programs. To help the Asian is to help the man who is actually on the soil to do better what he is already doing—not to engage in large-scale projects, such as were undertaken in the days of imperialism, which, insofar as they have benefited Asia, have mainly enriched the moneylender and the speculator in Asia.

Counsel For Pariahs

The request of the 11 convicted Communist leaders that a London attorney be permitted to argue their case before the Supreme Court is a serious reflection on the American bar. In making that plea and asking for a postponement of the hearing from December 4 to January 22, the Communist leaders assert that no fewer than 24 American lawyers have refused to take the case. Some of the 24 are leaders of the bar. According to the petition, some of them have expressed the belief that the Smith Act is unconstitutional. It was under this act that the Communists were convicted of conspiring to teach overthrow of the Government. Yet even the lawyers who held that belief were unwilling to have their names identified with the Communist case because of the adverse effect it might have on their professional standing.

So far as the Communists themselves are concerned, there will be little sympathy wasted on them. The tactics they and their lawyers pursued at their trial were so outrageous as to discourage any self-respecting lawyer from having anything to do with the case. Seldom has there been a more flagrant attempt to obstruct justice. Having employed every device to make a mockery of the judicial process, they are now in a poor position to complain about the reluctance of lawyers to let their names be associated with the case. Interest in the appeal now before the Supreme Court does not end, however, with the fate of these individuals. A vital question of constitutional rights has been raised, and the public interest clearly demands that both sides be ably argued before the Supreme Court. It is also clear that a lawyer can argue the appeal without resorting to the Commie technique that marked the conduct of the trial.

The basic factor is that our judicial system demands expert counsel on both sides of a legal controversy. Even the lowest criminal is entitled to a competent lawyer, and the finest tradition among lawyers is that they will not hesitate to represent an unpopular client merely because of a clamor against him. Some men still at the bar will remember the wave of hysteria that swept over the country after World War I, engulfing Socialists as well as Communists. Five Socialists who had been duly elected to the New York Legislature were unceremoniously and illegally ousted from their seats. Many lawyers thought it was dangerous to defend them, but under the leadership of Charles E. Hughes, then a practicing lawyer, the Association of the Bar in New York appointed a committee to fight for the right of the hated Socialists to occupy the seats to which they had been elected. With the passing of the years the service of Mr. Hughes, Morgan J. O'Brien, Louis Marshall, Joseph M. Proskauer and Ogden L. Mills on that committee has become a mark of special distinction.

We need similar courage at the bar today. It is true that the public and especially politicians running for office are likely to assume that a lawyer shares the views and possibly the taint of his unpopular clients. But this is an erroneous and dangerous assumption that the bar should insist on disproving instead of accepting. Any lawyer worth his salt can defend a disreputable character without himself becoming disreputable. If the leading attorneys of this country have lost the courage to argue against statutes they believe to be unconstitutional because the individuals testing the statutes have earned the contempt of their fellow citizens, we have come to a sorry state of affairs. Civil liberties cannot exist when there is no courage at the bar, for the most difficult cases involving the Bill of Rights are almost always brought by individuals who have aroused the public animosity.

Justice Jackson pointed out a few weeks ago the urgent need for leadership of the bar in this field. No one seems to have taken him seriously. Have we in the entire profession no Holmes, Hughes or Brandeis who dares to stand out against the public clamor for the sake of enabling our judicial system to operate properly? It is difficult to believe that that is so. Yet evidence of want of courage accumulates, and if the convicted Communists have to go to London for an attorney to carry their case to the Supreme Court we suspect that many a lawyer will blush with shame.

Press Freedom

It would be a matter of keen and legitimate concern to North Americans as well as to South Americans if Argentina's two great independent newspapers, La Prensa and La Nacion, should be forced to suspend or interrupt publication. In General Peron's Argentina, the government controls newsprint—as an effective means of controlling the press. Many of the country's dailies have been starved into submission or silence. But La Prensa and La Nacion, although kept on something very like a starvation diet of newsprint, have thus far managed both to stay alive and to continue kicking.

The interest of the outside world in their survival stems from their importance as sources of information. It is not so much the freedom of these papers that is important as the freedom of men to read whatever they may print. Thus Peron's attack upon the independence of the Argentine press is an attack upon men's minds everywhere. This is an aspect of the problem of which Mr. Stanton Griffis, who has just retired as American Ambassador to Argentina, has been too little aware. He said recently in a speech in New York that he hopes Argentina will become part of "a great union of free people." It is a laudable hope. A free Argentina will be welcome and valued as an ally. But only a free people can join a union of the free. We think that Ambassador Griffis' successor can best serve his country's cause and the cause of freedom too by making known to General Peron the vital significance which North Americans attach to freedom of the press as an indispensable foundation for all other freedom.

Return Of The Prodigal

Well, the latest fellow traveler to alight from the Stalinist omnibus is O. John Rogge, sometime Assistant Attorney General of these United States. Mr. Rogge, as probably you know, has been over in Warsaw attending another of these World Peace Conferences that he obligingly helped the comrades to organize. He has been making very heavy weather of it; for at some time between the first meeting of the congress at the Waldorf Astoria about 20 months ago and the meeting at Prague last August it occurred to Mr. Rogge to wonder whether the Stalinists are really as much in earnest about world peace as they proclaim themselves to be. Mr. Rogge's emotions on this subject, since the Korean affair, might be summarized in the famous lines from a not very famous old song.

> It was all very well to dissemble your love,
> But why did you kick me downstairs?

Mr. Rogge had worked himself up to the point of speaking his mind about this in the address that he was scheduled to make to the congress today. Evidently he had also been speaking it in the foyers and in hotel lobbies and such places, for he was abruptly notified that his time had been cut in half. Mr. Rogge, indeed, was fearful that he wouldn't be allowed to talk at all, and so took the precaution of giving his text to the press associations. But in the course of yesterday's discussion (we use the word for want of a more accurate one) he found an opportunity to have his say.

Mr. Rogge said that if he had known last summer what he knows now, he would never have signed that Stockholm peace petition. He finds that the main difference between the United States and Soviet Russia is that over here we talk a good bit about war, but nobody really wants another war, whereas in Russia the Stalinists talk incessantly about peace but "they believe in the use of force and [have] in fact employed it."

We hope we know our Christian duty toward one who, however belatedly, has seen the light. We shall, therefore, carefully refrain from asking Mr. Rogge why he couldn't have saved himself a lot of embarrassment by making this discovery long before he helped to organize the World Peace Congress. But we doubt, alas, whether this forgiving attitude will prevail among a large section of Mr. Rogge's compatriots, or even among a large section of what is now a vast army of disillusioned enthusiasts of the Bolshevik revolution.

We find that among the former fellow travelers there is a well established set of hierarchies. The aristocracy, or elite, consists of those who were disenchanted within the first 10 years after the revolution. (They correspond, after a fashion, to those families whose ancestors came to this hemisphere before 1750.) There is a much larger but quite respectable upper middle class consisting of those who found themselves unable to stomach such manifestations of Soviet socialism as the Ukrainian famine, the liquidation of the Kulaks, the terror that followed the assassination of Comrade Kirov, and the official records of Mr. Vishinsky's purge trials. Beneath them is a sort of petit-bourgeoisie which did not join the ranks of the penitent until the time of the Ribbentrop-Molotov pact. At the bottom are the Johnnies-come-lately whose conversion is of less than five years' standing. Even these, however, have their own subtle social strata; so that Mr. Rogge must now be prepared to take his place as the humblest of the humble.

Vital Post

Senator Morse has let it be known that he will put up a stiff fight, if necessary, to win the seat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the election has opened to the Republicans. Senator Vandenberg's recent letter to Mr. Morse suggests that, if a fight develops, he will throw his full support to the Oregonian. If the Taft faction insists on promoting Senator Knowland to this vacancy, therefore, the Republicans will begin the January session of Congress with an unfortunate internal row. Among his colleagues Senator Morse's strongest claim to the post is likely to be his seniority over Senator Knowland. Though we have opposed the seniority system, we think it would be farcical to depart from the seniority rule in this case while following it in all others. But a far stronger reason for hoping that the place will go to Senator Morse is that he could be expected to uphold the forward-looking policy that has come to be associated with the name of Senator Vandenberg. The Republicans would make a very poor start indeed if they should kick over the seniority rule in order to weaken the influence of Mr. Vandenberg in shifting our foreign policy to a more secure bipartisan basis.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

"The Best Chance"

ACCORDING to the estimates on which American planning is based, the Kremlin has, today, a stockpile of between 20 to 25 atomic bombs. If you ask the best of the air defense experts how many of the bombs could be expected to get through to targets in this country, in case of surprise attack by the Soviet fleet of TU-4 strategic bombers, you will get a rather bleak answer—"Almost all of them."

As this answer suggests, the effectiveness of the American air defense today stands very close to zero. This is not the fault of the Air Force. During the period when Louis A. Johnson was Secretary of Defense, the Air Force, starved for funds, concentrated very largely on strategic bombing capacity.

This decision was demonstrably the correct one, for, as General Omar Bradley pointed out the other day, since Korea "the free world has been left without adequate reserves except for the atomic bomb." But the policy of concentrating on the strategic air force left this country, when the Johnson regime ended, with a totally inadequate radar net, and without any modern radar-equipped night-fighters at all.

Under the new Defense Department regime, this situation is being corrected as rapidly as possible. The radar screen is being vastly improved, and it will soon be extended well out into the Atlantic by means of picket ships. Plans for the creation of an over-all "theater of the United States," commanded by a single commander to whom all three services will be responsible in case of attack on this country, are being studied by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The continental air defense is being reorganized and greatly strengthened.

PLANS ARE ALSO being prepared for very strict air traffic control. This is a much more important matter than most people realize. Obviously, the first requirement of a serious air defense is to be able to distinguish between friendly planes and hostile planes. Any unidentified plane may be an enemy plane.

Until very recently, an average of about a dozen planes a day which were never identified at all were spotted on the radar screens in the area assigned to one of the country's seven air divisions. This area included New York City, and the planes might, of course, have been Russian. The average has now been more than cut in half. But a serious defense will require that every plane flying over American territory can be instantly identified.

Yet even the most serious defense, the experts warn, can never come close to a total defense, bar the discovery of some entirely new scientific principle, like the discovery of nuclear energy. The very best that is hoped is that an air defense can be built within the next eighteen to twenty months capable of knocking out between twenty and thirty percent of an attacking force. And those who should know emphasize, with all the fervor of men who will be blamed if disaster strikes, that even this ratio would be little short of miraculous.

This ratio must be considered in the context of a further fact—that according to the accepted estimates, the Soviets should have a stockpile of between 100 and 130 atom bombs by the beginning of 1953. If this estimate is correct, the Kremlin would thus have the capacity of delivering at least 70 bombs to selected targets in this country in about two years from today.

THERE IS NO use blinking the fact that this means the capacity to wound this country very terribly. Survival itself must then depend on the ability to recover from the initial wound, and to retaliate overwhelmingly—for the threat of devastating retaliation will then be our only real safeguard.

This is why those who have faced up to the facts are becoming convinced that it is time to begin to think very seriously indeed about a real, rather than a fake civil defense. The first necessity is to protect by dispersion, or by other means, such absolutely essential facilities as telephone exchanges, power stations, and marshaling yards. The ability to come back and win after a surprise attack would depend on an industrial economy which, however badly hurt, still functioned.

Perhaps it is also time to begin to think very seriously about what Winston Churchill has been preaching for a good many years now: "We must never abandon hope that a peaceful settlement may be reached with the Soviet government if a resolute effort is made on the basis not of our present weakness but of American atomic strength. This is the policy which gives the best chance of preventing a fearful war and of securing our survival should it break upon us." Churchill has been right very often before, and we will not have "the best chance" for very much longer now.

Letters To The Editor

Communications must be addressed to the editor and must carry the complete name and street address of the writer, though pen names will be permitted at the editor's discretion. Letters of less than 200 words will be given preference, and all letters are subject to condensation. No communication can be returned.

'The Confused Repatriate'

I had never before been as baffled as when I read in The Washington Post of November 15 a letter signed "Repatriate," with comment alleged to be on my column of November 12. And I was apparently not the only one baffled. Several people called to ask what column the writer of the letter referred to in his insistence that the Marshall Plan should be ended. Indeed, there was not a single word in my column on whether the Marshall Plan should be continued or not. It was merely a summary of the European reactions to our recent elections—the prevailing anxiety that American interest might shift from Europe to Asia. It ended with the comment that European fears were unjustified and that Republicans like John Foster Dulles and Henry Cabot Lodge had as good an understanding of European problems as the Democratic Administration.

The letter by "Repatriate" is, I am afraid, just another expression of the present great confusion. Its author must have been aware of this, since he assured us that he "is not talking through his hat." I hope this is true. But he certainly hung his hat on the wrong peg! ANDRE VISSON.

Washington.

German Rearmament

In answer to the few men with memories who still have the voice to warn us against a rearmed Germany, the Let-Hans-Do-It boys are demanding to know: "Who else will hold the line at the Elbe against the Russians?"

I will.

You will laugh. Until the Germans, who now are agreeing with the wife of the United States High Commissioner "to sacrifice for freedom," get their chance to sacrifice for the freedom once again to invade their peaceful neighbors. And show us that the only laughable matter is the United States Government's ridiculously inept "reeducation program" for Germany.

Though I can outshoot my brother, who won a chest full of marksmanship medals in the last war, I was glad until this issue came up that an effort still was being made to exclude half the human race from the fighting front. Now I would carry a gun if I could take it away from a single German. Only because, on the basis of two years in postwar Germany and one in France, I know my personal safety will be greater if I carry the gun than if a Wermacht-oriented German does.

ELEANOR SPALDING.

Washington.

"Maryland Migraine"

My congratulations on your editorial observation of November 10 concerning the recent Maryland campaign and elections, that there comes "from all the fog of confusion and irrelevance . . . one gleam of intelligence and clarity," in that control of the Montgomery County Council was kept from the hands of Mr. Brooke Lee's Democratic organization.

But an article appearing in the same issue, headed "County Plans for Patronage Face Snag," and giving no source or further identification, would serve to dim this "one gleam of intelligence and clarity" by implying that Governor-elect McKeldin and Montgomery County Republicans are anxiously preparing for patronage in the way of appointments to the important local commissions and boards.

This entirely overlooks the basic facts of the county campaign, wherein the Republican candidates drew the wholehearted backing of Home-Rule Council-Manager supporters by their promise to fight for the return to the county control over all local affairs, including transfer from the Governor to the County Council power to appoint the members of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, Suburban Sanitary Commission and the Liquor Control Board.

With respect to this issue of the campaign, the record of the county's all-Republican delegation to the State Legislature between 1946 and 1950 was sufficient evidence to support their 1950 platform. This was in distinct contrast to the record of Governor Lane and his followers in Annapolis.

Mr. McKeldin in a post-election statement (Montgomery County Record, November 9, 1950) has reassured the people of the county on his stand that the heads of the above-mentioned commissions should be appointed by the county government. This assurance of the cooperation of the executive and the county legislative delegation at Annapolis will certainly brighten the "one gleam of intelligence and clarity" in the State of Maryland. GORDON L. HAWK.

Bethesda.

Fairfax County

I should like an opportunity to make it perfectly clear that my informal remarks at the recent meeting of the Federation of Fairfax County Citizens' Associations were not intended to leave the impression that Circuit Judge Paul Brown had formed any opinions about redistricting in Fairfax County.

Redistricting in Virginia—desirably or otherwise—is largely a matter for judicial determination. It, therefore, would be highly unfortunate if the judge were to be put in the public position of appearing to prejudge the issue. There is no indication that he has done so.

I am perfectly satisfied that the misapprehension left by my remarks involved no error on the part of The Washington Post reporter. In fact, I find on talking with other federation members present at the meeting that my discussion left an entirely unintended impression with them, as well.

The federation, incidentally, is not committed to any specific set of new districts. Concensus of the organization is that the county should have an odd number of districts—to avoid tie votes by the supervisors—and that these districts should be of approximately equal population. We feel, however, that determination of details must be left to the judge and to any redistricting commission that he may appoint.

DR. R. A. OSBORN,
Chairman, County Government committee, Federation of Fairfax County Citizens' Associations.

Educating Our Children

Mr. Muse's column in The Washington Post of November 12 unmasked an opposition to school programs which would turn back the clock in school buildings and educational offerings, and thereby turn out half-educated children.

The readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic of the little red school house may have been adequate for its day. These fundamentals have been and always will be important parts of the work in a public school. As a matter of fact, in the very same readin,' 'ritin,' and 'rithmetic tests their fathers and mothers took, today's students make better scores and show better understanding than their parents. Evidence of this is around us all the time; in the larger offerings of newspapers and magazines on the newsstands; in the huge book club memberships; and in the increased numerical work of tax returns, check book balancing and credit buying.

However, it would be foolhardy to expect that limiting the school program to these subjects alone would be sufficient to prepare a child for today's world. There has been a continuous effort to make the public school keep pace with the changing times. In the school of the American Revolution period, the age of 12 was considered a proper time to start writing numbers; while the total law library of Harvard University was 15 volumes!

Courses in home economics may not have been needed in grandma's day. There was usually a nearby relative to call on when setting up a household, and only a limited number of family "reliables" from which to choose. But today's average family is small, easy transportation has encouraged new starts away from the old homestead, and competing advertisers who offer wondrous preparations of foods, clothes, and home appliances create a confusing picture. The stable community is based on a stable family group, and the schools are helping the family group to prepare the future homemakers in the expanded environment of today.

Mr. Muse's objections to the so-called "frills" of the curriculum are flung in the face of the rapid progress of the atomic half of a twentieth century industrial revolution and its impact on our way of living. Problems of mental health, of leisure activities, and of gainful employment of the aged and infirm did not face the little red school house. Either they were not recognized, or they couldn't exist in a time when work was necessary from sunup to sundown to provide for the family bread.

In totalitarian states, solutions to those problems are imposed from above, and the individual is sacrificed to the benefit of the ruling class. The democratic solution is to equip each person to solve as many of these problems in his own way, and for the greatest good of the greatest number. To that end, modern American education is dedicated.

Teaching the fundamentals of readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic must be ever more efficient to permit the addition to the curriculum of the subjects which will equip Americans to grow, each and every one, into the fullest realization of his capabilities. America's greatest single resource is its manpower, and survival of our way of life may depend upon how well the people have been prepared to solve the twentieth century's problems, not the nineteenth's.

Mr. Muse feels the defeats of the school bond referendums were defeats of the school boards. He is wrong. The defeat weighs most heavily on defenseless school children. These children were deprived of their full share of educational preparation in Arlington County by the combination of:

1. Well-meaning citizens who failed to register or vote,
2. Voters who were confused by a campaign of deliberate lies and half truths issued over the signature and title of a county officer,
3. Party politicians who paid lip-service to educational progress while working to discredit a selfless, hard-working, nonpartisan school board, and
4. Reactionaries who do not want the public to be more than half-educated.

JEROME E. LEVY
Chairman, Education Committee, C.C.S.I.

Arlington, Va.

Taft-Hartley Act

The proof that the rank-and-file workingmen of America do not share the labor bosses' characterization of the Taft-Hartley Act is found in the fact that Senator Taft, the act's coauthor, was not only reelected to the Senate from Ohio by an unprecedented majority of 430,000-odd votes, but Taft carried the big industrial counties where labor organizations are the strongest.

Labor voted not as directed by labor bossses, but as good American citizens.

The Taft-Hartley Act does not hamper union bargaining or union organization. The Taft-Hartley Act is designed to reduce the labor boss to size and that's why the boss doesn't like it.

Mrs. Roosevelt Hits TV Ad on Children

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (U.P.).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today decried as "horrible" a television industry advertisement saying that children get inferiority complexes if their homes do not have TV sets.

The widow of the late President said she refused to allow the industry to use her name in the advertisement.

"I thought the ad was dreadful and I didn't want to have anything to do with it," said Mrs. Roosevelt. She added that she had been assured that a statement she had made on the aims of television would be used in "a different ad."

The advertisement appeared in newspapers last week, urging purchase of TV sets, suggesting that children in homes without them suffered "humiliation" in "begging" to see those of neighbors.

The ad also quoted Angelo Patri, expert on child guidance, as saying lack of a television set made it "practically impossible for boys and girls to 'hold their own' with friends."

Patri was reported planning to return a check for $1000 for his statement.

Mrs. Roosevelt's son, Elliott, said his mother had prepared a statement saying she "feels the television industry has a great responsibility to the children of the Nation in providing good programs" and that "she also feels the parents of this country also have a great responsibility to see that their children see proper shows on television."

Her statement said it was "equally important for parents to supervise what a child sees on television as the books a child reads."

Mrs. Roosevelt said that unless she saw the "improved" ad in advance, she would not authorize use of her statement.

Elliott Roosevelt said his mother would permit her statement to be used without charge if the ad were for educational purposes but if it were used "for commercial purposes" she would expect "a regular fee."

He said he understood the previous ad was to be withdrawn and a "new campaign" started.

The ad has been condemned by the Family Service Association of America as "cruel pressure" on parents and "nonsense."

The Advertising Trade Magazine, Tide, called the ad "a blow to advertising." and "the worst case of poor taste that advertising has had in years."

The ad showed a boy and girl who lacked a television set. The girl was crying, and the ad was captioned "there are some things a son or daughter won't tell," and it said the children felt "left out" among friends.

The campaign, of which the ad was a part, was sponsored by the 1950 American Television Dealers and Manufacturers.

TV Strike Threat Averted

ican Federation of Labor entertainment unions. It claims membership of 25,000.

Union members this week will vote on formal ratification of the contract agreement.

To Run Two Years

The contract becomes effective December 1 and will run for two years.

If agreement had not been reached before the scheduled strike times in major cities, "live" entertainment on TV screens would have been curtailed throughout the Nation.

Almost all the big-name "live" shows on ABC, CBS and Dumont networks would have been canceled. The networks planned to use films to fill out schedules.

Washington is not considered a "major" city by TV-A.

Wallace Cohen, regional counsel for TV-A, said "live" shows originally scheduled to be telecast out of Washington would have been permitted to go on.

But had the affected networks attempted to produce other "live" shows from their Washington stations, said Cohen, picket lines would have been established.

Could Promote Local Here

Bargaining for Washington members of TV-A, Cohen added, was included in the New York sessions. He saw the contract settlement as giving Washington and the other cities strength to establish their own locals.

The Associated Press in New York quoted George Heller, national executive secretary of TV-A, as saying:

"We believe that this first contract for performers in television will set standards long needed to protect television performers."

Heller announced the following terms, the Associated Press reported:

Actors with five lines or more on a 15-minute show, $70, with five hours of rehearsal; 30-minute shows, $125, with 12 hours rehearsal; 60-minute shows, $170, with 22 hours hehearsal, plus $5 for each extra hour of rehearsal.

Less Than 5 Lines, $50

For actors with less than five lines, the contract provides for $50 for a 15-minute show and four rehearsal hours; 30-minute shows, $62.50 and six rehearsal hours; and 60-minute shows, $75, with nine rehearsal hours, and $5 for each extra rehearsal hour.

For specialty acts, the contract provides $200 for single act, $275 for two performers, $375 for three, $475 for four—with $100 for each additional person over four, and includes six hours of rehearsal in two days, with one of those days being a broadcast day.

Sportscasters, for play-by-play announcing of Class A contests, will receive $200 per event or $550 weekly for seven events in the same sport; assistant play-by-play reports, $125 per event and $350 weekly; minor sports, play-by-play, $150 per event and $350 weekly; assistant minor sports play-by-play, $100 per event and $225 weekly.

Walk-ons and extras will receive $20 for 15 minutes, with three hours of rehearsal; $35 for 30 minutes with six rehearsal hours; $45 for a one-hour show with nine hours of rehearsal, and $3 per extra hour of rehearsal.

Live signature numbers—company announcements—$40, including dress rehearsals, and $50 for brief sponsor announcements, termed in the trade as cutters, hitchhikers and cow-catchers.

The contract provides, Heller said, that kinetoscop recordings to supplement live programs may be shown within 60 days of the original broadcast only in areas where the live program has not been previously telecast. Details for payment to performers appearing on kinetoscope programs are still to be worked out, union spokesmen said.

Disputes over film productions shown on television would be subject to rulings by the National Labor Relations Board, Heller said.

He said the rates for sustaining programs—nonsponsored shows—will be 80 percent of commercial rates. These rates, he said, were "much higher" than those prevailing in radio.

The contract also includes a clause, he said, which is designed to protect individual contract holders from company action if they take part in strikes and work stoppages authorized by the television authority.

Dumped-Spud Total Mounts

show. Up to November 15, 26,700,000 bushels had been dumped. A year ago on November 15, only 10,700,000 bushels had been thrown away.

Although the net cost per bushel to Uncle Sam is less than half last year's cost, the total crop cost is running far ahead. Until November 15 the cost this year was about 20 million dollars, with the unit cost going up. The price Uncle Sam is paying under the support program has recently jumped from around 70 to 80 cents a bushel. Last year it was approximately $1.40—it varies in different areas, and the total had reached about 15 million bucks.

The whole program last year was $83,798,000. That's a lot of money in anybody's bank account, but it was small potatoes compared with the 24 million plus the 1948 crop cost.

It develops, too, that that wasn't the total cost of the 1948 program, big as it is. Agriculture Department potato men last week were trying to get some alcohol makers to take a lot of potato starch, made by the Government out of surplus Maine potatoes that year, that Uncle Sam still has on his hands.

This month's Commodity Credit Corporations catalogue, listing the surplus commodities CCC has for sale, shows about 6,100,000 pounds of potato starch in storage since 1948, "somewhere in the Boston area."

Reports from Boston indicate that the "Boston Area" is an Army warehouse there, but Army officers won't give out any details about the hoard of potato starch, declaring it is to be "a military secret."

CCC is offering the starch for sale at two prices. For export, the price is $5.10 per 100 pounds, freight at shipside, Boston. For domestic users, the price listed is $4.50 per 100 pounds, f.o.b. "Maine shipping points."

Domestic distillers, in spite of the dangerous shortage of alcohol, have turned down the offer. First, they are afraid the starch may be deteriorated due to its long storage, and second, the price is too high to make alcohol. It takes 13 pounds of starch to make a gallon of alcohol. At that price for starch, a gallon of alcohol would cost around 65 cents, without any other expenses—and that is more than alcohol will bring, even when sold to the Government.

The story behind the starch stored at Boston is interesting in itself. In 1948 there was a potato shortage in central Europe, but it wasn't feasible to ship whole spuds there. So the Army got a brilliant idea to ship potato starch and flour. They used 30 million bushels of potatoes and made 347 million pounds of flour and "a few million pounds of starch" for Germany. But the Germans didn't like it. It wasn't cooked. The potato flour they make is cooked. what was left of the potato flour was distributed domestically, and the starch stored in Boston.

The Agriculture Department would like to get rid of that potato starch stored in Boston. Then, maybe, they can forget about the 1948 potato scandal.

Phone Strike Ends; Pay to Rise

union said they have not established a picket line here since Friday and would not reestablish them today "because the strike is settled."

Throughout the strike, A. T. & T. maintained that service was not hampered by the walkout. In all, the dispute affected workers in 43 States and the District.

There was some violence in Washington last Wednesday, when two men were injured in a picketline fight.

In New York, the union at one point claimed the company was locking out operators who would not agree to pass through picket lines if established.

Neither the company nor the union would estimate immediately what the new contract terms would cost the telephone system.

The company said, however, that the increase would average about 11.3 cents an hour for installers, 10.3 cents for distributing workers and an average of 10.1 cents an hour for 685 workers at Western Electric's Haverhill (Mass.) plant.

The Haverhill settlement adds 7 to 15 cents an hour to a current scale of about $1.62 an hour.

Merit Wages

In addition, the company said, the contract provides wage progression payments as employes accumulate service and for periodic merit wages for workers with long employment records. Over the period of the new contract, the company added, these progression and merit increases will average from four to five cents an hour for an undetermined number of workers.

Included in the settlement terms were:

Maintenance of dues clause.

One added holiday for employes in two unspecified cities. Holiday schedules vary from city to city.

An additional four cents an hour increase for 200 employes in Denver and Milwaukee whose classifications were upgraded.

Bargaining on a new agreement to begin 30 days before the expiration of the new contract.

The union said that the contract terms were the largest negotiated this year in the Bell system.

Coffee Shortage to Continue

The world coffee shortage that sent prices skyrocketing a year ago apparently will continue if not grow worse for another year, the Office of Agricultural Relations forecast yesterday.

"World coffee production this year is expected to amount to about 28.4 million bags of 132 pounds each, compared with 29.1 million last year, 30.5 million in 1948-49, and an annual prewar (1935 to 1940) average of 35 million."

The decrease, the Office of Agricultural Relations said, is chiefly attributable to the smaller crop in Brazil, due to extremely dry weather during the flowering season. Brazil normally provides more than half the world's supply. The Brazilian harvest runs from May to September, and is marketed from July to the following June.

"The amount of coffee from Brazil's 1950 harvest, available for export is estimated at only 13,600,000 bags, cmpared with 14,950,000 last year, 15,740,000 in 1948-49 and an annual prewar average of 21,740,000 bags," the report stated.

(The recent rise in coffee prices to almost three times the price of 18 months ago, has resulted in a sharp drop in the use of coffee in this country, according to the Senate Agriculture Subcommittee that recently probed into the coffee situation.)

The eduction in exports from Brazil, the Agriculture report said, have been only partly offset by higher forecasts for Africa and Asia.

The second largest South American coffee producer, Colombia, is also suffering from a short crop. The Colombian shortage is due to heavy rains during the normal dry season.

African coffee production has about doubled since prewar years. Exports are estimated at 4,295,000 bags this year, compared with 3,805,000 last year and a prewar average of 2,315,000. The largest increases were forecast in Angola and British East Africa.

Legion Sets Up Group To Fight Communism

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 19 (AP).—The American Legion tonight set up a new national committee of 139 lawyers and law enforcement officers to fight communism in the United States.

Legion Comdr. Erle Cocke, jr., of Dawson, Ga., said the committee would help the Government enforce the antisubversive control law, expose Americans who ship war materials to Communist countries, and offer legal and research aid to persons accused of libeling Communists. Walter E. Alessandroni of Philadelphia was named chairman of the committee. Other chairmen approved included Donald R. Wilson, Clarksburg, W. Va., national foreign relations commission; William O. Farricy, Washington, D. C., president of the Association of American Railroads, transportation committee, and Ralph A. Johnson, Richmond, Va., accident prevention committee.

Israel to Dedicate Washington Colony

Givat Washington Youth Village in Israel, known as the Washington Colony in the Holy Land, will be dedicated December 10, the last day of Hanukkah, the Jewish Festival of Dedication.

Rabbi Green

The time of dedication was announced yesterday by Rabbi Zemach Green, founder and president of the project and former spiritual leader of the Ohev Sholom Congregation here.

The first group of children arrived at Givat Washington recently, he said. The group includes 30 boys and 15 girls, 12 to 14 years old, who came originally from Egypt, Morocco, Tunisia and Tripoli. Another group is scheduled to arrive at the village December 1.

Eight Structures Completed

Eight structures, including dormitories, class rooms, dining hall and kitchen, infirmary, chapel and quarters for the staff, have been completed, Rabbi Green said.

More than $100,000, most of it raised in Washington, already has been invested in these buildings. Plans call for some 300 youths to be sheltered and educated eventually at Givat Washington. A campaign for funds to continue its construction and expansion is now in progress in Washington and other cities.

Fragments of stone from the United States Capitol, the White House and Mount Vernon were sealed in the cornerstone of the main building. The stone fragments were flown to the American Consul in Jerusalem in January, 1946.

The name Givat Washington means Mount Washington. The village is located about 20 miles south of Tel Aviv and about five miles from the Mediterranean coast.

Chief Rabbi in Charge

Built as a center of democratic culture, religion and other agricultural science, Givat Washington will be a home for boys and girls who will be given a high school education as well as practical training in agriculture and crafts.

A committee, headed by the Chief Rabbi of Israel, Dr. Isaac Herzog, is in charge of the project in Israel. Moshe Shapiro, Israel's Minister of the Interior, is vice chairman of the Board of Trustees.

The local executive committee, helping Rabbi Green, includes: William H. Simons, chairman; N. M. Cohen, treasurer; Abe Beyda, associate treasurer; Harry W. Goldberg, secretary; Matthew Tepper, auditor, and Rabbi Joshua Klavan, Rabbi Arthur Bogner, Rabbi Simon Burnstein, Rabbi Harry Kaufman, Rabbi Herman J. Waldman, Jac J. Lehrman, Harry S. Klavan, Hyman Viener, Joseph Viener, Joseph Andelman, Dov Kosatchkoff and Wilfred Schooler.

Former President Herbert Hoover is honorary president of the project, and the Right Rev. Angus Dun, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, and Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, are honorary chairmen.

Edith Stern to Speak

Edith M. Stern, writer and lecturer, will discuss "What Parents Can Do" at a meeting of the Association for the Advancement of Exceptional Children at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Georgetown Hospital, Wisconsin ave. and R st. nw.

Mobilization Plan Hit by CIO Head

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (AP).—CIO President Philip Murray tonight called for "drastic" changes in America's mobilization program.

Murray said that "as it now stands" the Defense Production Act will "serve only to weaken the mobilization effort."

He made the statement in his annual report to the CIO national convention opening here Monday.

Murray, for 10 years the CIO's head man, also:

1. Claimed that "never in all human history has one single organization brought so much good to so many people" as has the CIO in the past decade.

2. Predicted that "before long the influence of the Communist Party in the American labor movement will have been erased once and for all."

3. Said the ouster of 11 allegedly Communist-dominated unions has brought an "unprecedented degree of unanimity into CIO ranks and given the CIO more effectiveness and militance."

Lists Complaints

Murray concentrated largely on what he called serious faults in the Nation's defense setup.

"Unfortunately," he said, "the Congress fell far short of the Nation's requirements in providing the basic legislation for the mobilization program." He went on:

"It is obvious that in the near future, our basic mobilization legislation must be drastically altered and improved."

Murray listed these complaints about the program:

Labor has not been given enough voice.

Price control provisions are inadequate to stem the inflation spiral.

Wage controls could be invoked "without regard for economic reality."

Credit controls "squeeze wage and salary earners who depend on credit to meet many of their needs."

Asks 'Equality of Sacrifice'

Murray said any satisfactory mobilization program should give priority to military and essential civilian production; should protect the living standards "of all the people," and should contain "effective anti-inflation measures based on equality of sacrifice."

The President's report on political action, prepared before the recent elections, said labor's political arm is "stronger than it ever has been within the past 10 years."

It said this has brought about "even greater and more direct activity in politics by the Nation's big industrial corporations."

The report called for increased labor political action, particularly on the ward and precinct levels.

Referring to the expulsion of the 11 left-wing unions—the hottest issue at last year's convention—Murray said he was "glad to report that the CIO has overcome this campaign of obstructionism."

No Travel Curbs Anticipated

Assurance that there are no plans on foot for curtailment or "priorities" in civilian travel was given yesterday by Director James K. Knudson of the Defense Transportation Administration.

The country has the best transportation system "with which we have ever faced a national emergency," Knudson said in a radio interview.

If a three-million-man Army is activated, military movement will cause some travel inconveniences, Knudson said, and munitions-hauling at times may delay the movement of goods by rail, highway or water. But for the average citizen "there are no plans presently afoot that would curtail his coming and going."

"Of course, if we get into a full-scale emergency of any kind, it may become necessary to handle transportation on a priority basis. That is precisely what we are trying to avoid at the present time," he added.

The supply of motor fuels will depend, he said, on military developments and the ability of refineries to handle defense shipments along with high civilian demand, but it is "premature" to expect rationing.

Some transport difficulties are being encountered, he said, including a "chronic and persistent shortage of railroad rolling stock which must be corrected without delay."

On DTA's recommendation, an allocation program setting aside steel for 10,000 freight cars a month has been ordered, as well as a program to build 12 Great Lakes vessels to haul increased tonnages.

Knudson said the menace of sabotage has not been overlooked. Some steps are benig taken and more are planned, he said, to protect railroads and inland waterways from "the possible threat of insecurity in this field."

Air Travel Setting Record

The Nation's 16 domestic trunk airlines are piling up a new record for passenger travel this year with an indicated volume of 7,754,107,000 passenger-miles.

This is nearly 20 percent greater than the record total of 6,562,580,000 passenger-miles in 1949. It would be the second largest year-to-year increase in airline history. The greatest jump was about 77 percent from 1945 to 1946, the first postwar year.

The 1950 estimate was compiled from industry information gathered by the Air Transport Association representing the scheduled carriers.

For the first 10 months of this year, the figure was 6,563,846,000 passenger-miles, or slightly more than for all of 1949. The November estimate, based on partial reports for the first two weeks, is 625,178,000 passenger-miles, or 25 percent higher than in the same month last year.

December is expected to add 565,083,000 passenger-miles, a gain of 20 percent over last year.

Unofficial estimates of industry profits for this year run as high as 50 million dollars, or more than double the $23,562,699 earned last year. Both figures are before Federal income taxes. The industry earned more in each of the four war years than last year, which was the peacetime high. The 1949 profit followed three years with an average net loss of around eight million dollars.

The domestic airlines now are operating 983 planes, of which nearly 40 percent are four-engine. A year ago they had 870 planes in service.

Industry spokesmen attribute the heavy gain in travel this year to large-scale air coach services, special travel rates such as "family fares," good weather in periods of normally heavy travel, and the generally faster pace of business due to the Korean war.

Five Groups Assail Gray Ship Report

By The Associated Press

Maritime recommendations of President Truman's foreign economic adviser were challenged yesterday by a group of shippers', labor and veterans' representatives as unwise "radical departures."

Gordon Gray, former Secretary of the Army, last week urged several changes in the method of governmental support for American overseas shipping, including negotiations with other countries for examination of cargo preferences.

Yesterday's statement was made public following a meeting of spokesmen for the Metal Trades Department of the AFL, the CIO Maritime Committee, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, the Shipbuilders Council of Amercia and the National Federation of American Shipping.

Citing a recommendation that Government protective measures be limited to the amount necessary to maintain American flag shipping to the extent required for national defense, the group declared:

"In such a recommendation the Gray report is in direct conflict with existing law and policy fixed by the Congress in every Merchant Marine Act since 1916."

It said the most recent report of the Senate's Subcommittee on Merchant Marine reaffirmed a policy that looks toward a merchant marine sufficient to carry a substantial portion of the water-borne foreign commerce of the United States.

Under law, Army and Navy supplies and one half the shipments under Government aid programs must be carried in American ships.

"Every other martime nation favors the ships of its own flag to a varying degree," the group said.

"We challenge anyone," the conferees said, "to tell us precisely who will be our allies in any subsequent war and whether they will have the ability to supply any substantial part of the merchant ship support for United States military operations."

World conditions "make it imperative that we do not depart from our established maritime laws and policies in favor of the radical departures contained in the shipping policy recommendation of the Gray report," the group concluded.

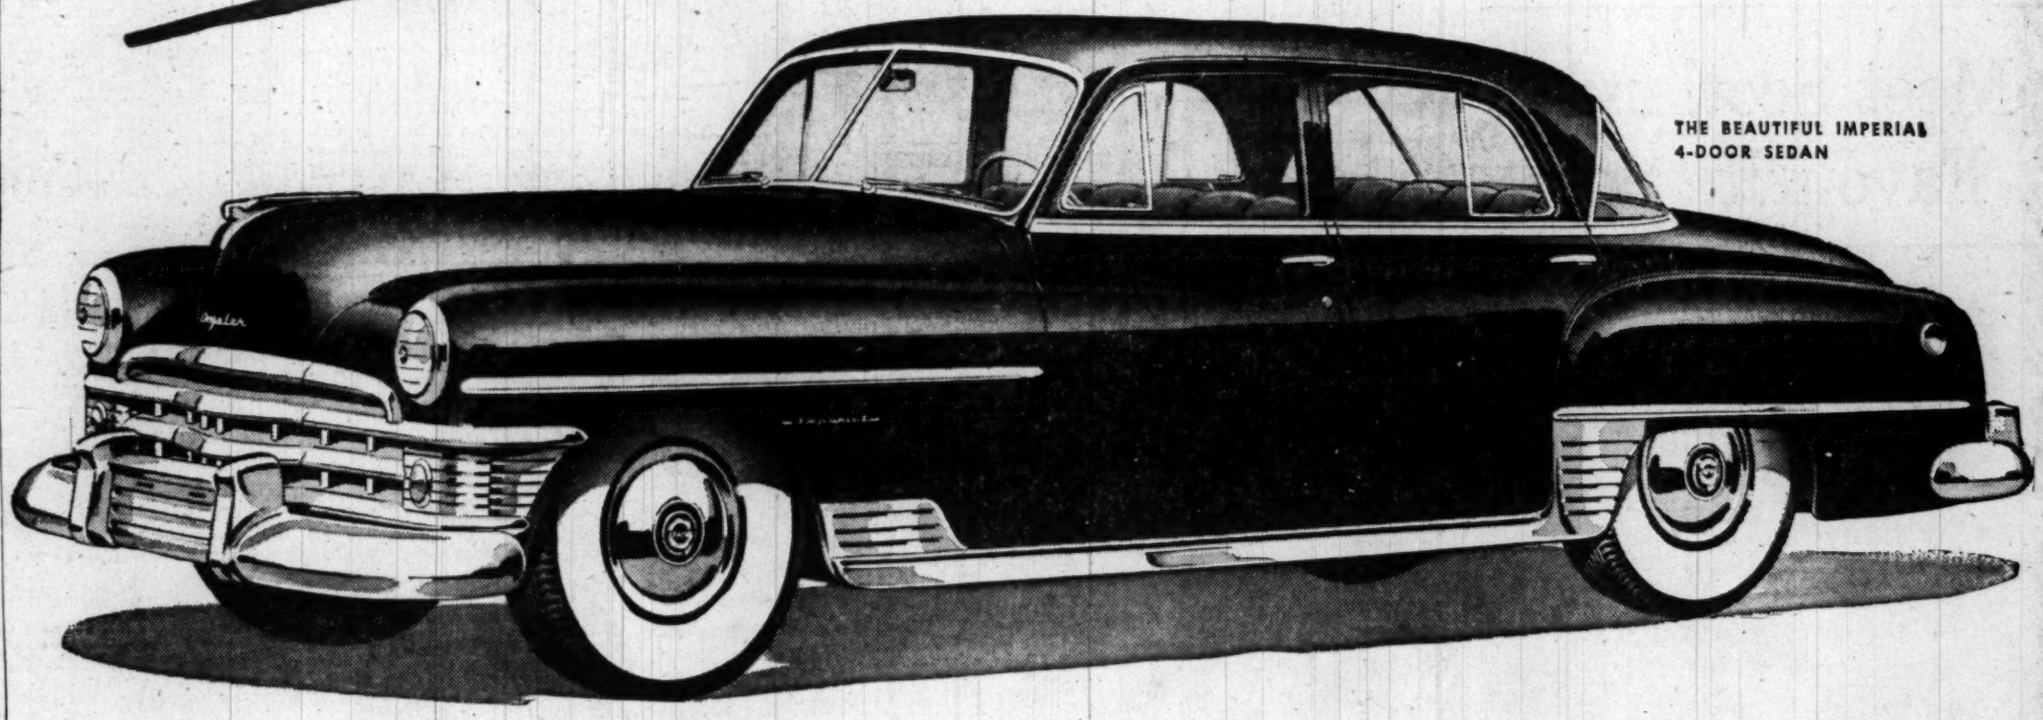
Want the greatest value of them all?

Come see Chrysler!



THE BEAUTIFUL IMPERIAL 4-DOOR SEDAN

If you never owned a Chrysler, it may be hard for you to believe. But it is exactly true . . . You get more for your money when you buy a Chrysler than you get in any other fine car today!

When you get waterproof ignition, exclusive Superfinished parts, exclusive longer wearing cylinders . . . all in the mighty Spitfire engine that leads the world for dependability, economy, and performance . . . that's more for your money.

When you get under-coating, done at the factory, at no extra cost . . . that's more for your money.

When you get wider doors, more comfortable seats, greater roominess, up, down, and sideways . . . that's more for your money.

When you get Chrysler-built Safe Guard Hydraulic Brakes . . . and Safety Rim Wheels . . . and Chrysler's driver-controlled automatic transmission . . . that's more for your money.

When you save on upkeep, because Chrysler bodies are the best-constructed in the business today . . . and designed so that fender repairs are simpler and quicker than in most cars today . . . that's more for your money.

When you get eye pleasing style, topped with baked-on enamel that's the toughest all-round metal coating known to man . . . that's more for your money.

These are times when value counts as it never has before. These are times when careful buying can make a big difference to a man and to his family. These are times when the built-in greater money's worth of Chrysler is something no car buyer can afford to overlook.

Come on in and talk it over . . . soon!

One On the Aisle

There Are More, But Also Less

By Richard L. Coe

FOR A VARIETY of reasons we are now seeing some of the lesser British films, that is of more average quality than, say, "Henry V," "I Know Where I'm Going" and, let us hasten to add, collections of Maugham short stories.

Two of these are on view at the Trans-Lux and the Plaza. The former has a sort of Lady Macbeth of Brighton in "Pink String and Sealing Wax," while the latter presents an involved family story in "My Brother Jonathan," as well as an immensely satisfying visit to Grandma Moses.

"Pink String and Sealing Wax" is the better of the two, but its present condition is the subject of this report. For in an hour's running time and with the material I've obtained about it, it's quite evident the picture has been roundly cut. While this may be a good idea, all things considered, the fact remains it's not being shown as it left the studio, and in other recent imports I've noted suggestions of the same situation.

Diana Morgan's script, adapted from Roland Pertwee's successful play, concerns the wife of a pub-keeper who, in order to satisfy her craving for a snakey lover, does in her husband with poison. She tries to extricate herself from the noose by involving the young son of a pharmacist, who does up his prescriptions with pink string and sealing wax, thereby supplying a nifty title that has very little to do with anything else.

The yarn is told from the viewpoint of the pharmacist and his family; his strict discipline, it is clear, has brought about the situation that makes the pub-keeper's murder possible.

The redeeming feature of the picture is the playing, especially that of Googie Withers as the seaside Lady MacBeth of Victorian days. Googie's fine and so, too, is Catherine Lacey as a pub-frequenter whose tongue is as loose as her habits. Mervyn Johns and Mary Merrall, a fine pair, are the parents, John Carol the worthless cause of the jealousy, and Gordon Jackson the impressionable lad.

Snipped from the film seems to be a concurrent tale of the music-minded daughter, all of whose adventures, hinted at in the beginning, seem to have been snipped away. But I don't suppose "Pink String and Sealing Wax" ever did come off before the operation took place.

At the Plaza

"My Brother Johnathan," telling a long tale in flashback, probably would have improved with cutting, though where that could have taken place if it already hasn't, I know not.

It concerns an ageing couple who finally tell their grown-up son that he is not their's, a matter which takes us back to World War I, medical customs in the Midlands mining area and through quite a dreary succession of events.

However, the Plaza's two short subjects are especially noteworthy. The visit in color to Grandma Moses captures the flavor of that fabulous lady and though the color seems wan at first, it reproduces scores of her paintings most effectively. The commentary by Archibald MacLeish is generally agreeable, though one regrets he felt it necessary to wave the flag; Grandma Moses and her countryside speak for themselves.

The second short is a visit to the Sadler's Wells ballet company. Robert Helpmann gives a brief introduction to the dancing art and then a group including Gerd Lawsen, Alexander Grant, Michael Bolton and Elaine Fifield appear in an original ballet set to the music of Arthur Benjamin by Andree Howard. While the lensing leaves much to be desired and the whole is anything but inspired, it's still an interesting short.

JOHNNY JOHNSTON, that immensely personable fellow whose songs have highlighted films, radio, TV and who's now headlining at the Capitol, was understandably grieved about the tricks that stage mike played on him opening show Thursday. . . . "You liked me the last time," he tells me, "but, gosh, you didn't this and it was that first show mike business that came between us. . . . Everything's going fine now, so come on back . . . And I've always prided myself on the fact that I can shake the rafters" . . . Johnny's wife, Kathryn Grayson has just elected to split their marriage so he's pretty blue . . . But a darn good performer; so keep it up, Johnny, you'll be okay.

GENE KLAVAN'S Saturday night broadcast from Arena Stage was in the nature of a tryout, but his audiences for that 12:30 to 2 ayem show have gotten so large he's needed a real studio to work from . . . It's a good idea and I hope he'll keep it up.

ETHEL BUTLER, dancing with her group on the Lisner stage tomorrow night at 8:30, puts in a good word for that G. W. auditorium . . . "Ideal," says she, for "modern dance stories."

WELCOME to Max Gordon. . . . Tonight the hit producer's banner will fly in Washington for the first time since the National disappeared into the shadows. . . . He'll be presenting Judy Holliday in the role she turned into star-making stuff after Jean Arthur left the cast of "Born Yesterday." . . . And—a welcome, too, to Judy, who was so wonderful as another lady who wanted to do in her husband—in "Adam's Rib."

ALSO: "Community Recreation," a program created by General Electric, will be shown this afternoon to an invited Press Club audience . . . "A Chance to Play" is the short subject, produced by March of Time, and Meivin A. Glasser, of the Midcentury White House Conference on Children and Youth, will be the speaker. . . . "The Ordering of Moses" will be repeated tonight at 8:30 in the Shiloh Baptist Church, 9th and P sts., for the National Negro Opera Co. Foundation. . . . Sneak Preview tonight at the Palace between showings of "All About Talulah." . . . Ooops.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

Monday Morning Quarterback:

THERE OUGHT to be more respect now for Ivy League football, which supposedly had gone soft in the last decade. What with Princeton racing to its twelfth victory and Penn slapping down one of the Big Ten powers, Wisconsin, 20-0, the ivy-hung schools of the East are resurgent in the national football scene.

It is interesting to note that both Princeton and Penn are single-wing teams, and if their successes launch a trend away from the T-formation it will be a service to the fans. The T, with its quick openings and faking by the close-up quarterbacks was a sensation as a novelty, but too often the play was half over before the customers knew what was taking place.

POVICH

With the single wing, the fans can watch the play develop, and that's more fun. Michigan, Princeton and Penn have been the most interesting teams to watch behind their swing blocking, even if the T-teams like Army and Oklahoma have won higher national ranking. The T-formation with its proficiency may be the coaches' game, but the single-wing holds more fascination for the fans.

For that same reason, perhaps, my favorite pro football team is the Pittsburgh Steelers, the only one of them that plays the single-wing. They aren't the best team in the league, but they show you more football.

AT NEW HAVEN last weekend, you were given to wondering if there was a college team in the Nation that could have licked the Princeton team that was giving Yale that 47-12 going-over. Or if there was a fancier, or faster back that the Tigers' Dick Kazmaier who averaged 8 yards every time he was handed the ball.

When Kazmaier wasn't tucking the thing under his arm and going far places, he was completing 8 of the 10 passes he threw for the Tigers. They had Yale bewildered by the blockers, including the running guard from the other side of the line, that they threw in front of their ball carriers on their sweeps, and the Princeton buck-lateral was the finest play I've seen all season.

Kazmaier didn't figure in the 63-yard sweep that went for Princeton's second touchdown, except as a decoy. The ball went on a direct snap to Fullback Davidson who faked into the line, then handed off to Quarterback Chandler, who in turn handed off to Kleinsasser, the wingback who had to come from far on the flank to get the ball behind center. All that took immense precision, plus tremendous holding power in the Princeton line for a space of several seconds.

WHEN GEORGE MARSHALL invited Baltimore into the National Football League, exacting only a $150,000 cover charge for his good deed, he scarcely dreamed that his Redskins and the Colts would be playing next weekend for the league's booby prize. But that is what is happening. Each of them have only one victory to show for their first nine starts of the season.

For four years, Marshall looked down his nose at the All-America Conference, but he ought to be feeling a sense of gratitude that there was an AAC. The Colts, one of its former members, could be the step out of the league cellar for the Redskins.

The Redskins' latest defeat, at Cleveland, was at the hands of a former AAC club, incidentally. The Browns had no breeze of it in winning, 20-14, but they showed the mark of a good team when they came from behind to take it away from the 'Skins.

The constant reference to Bill Dudley's two missed field goals by the radio voice of the Redskins was getting irksome yesterday to this listener, at least. If Dudley had kicked them both, the Redskins would have had only a tie. To single out Dudley was going a long way to find a topic.

THE NEWEST REPORT on the pro football scene is that Green Bay would pull out of the NFL after this season, and reduce the league to a 12-club circuit. And it is entirely believable, what with the Packers going bad and operating from a small town in these days of inflated operational expenses.

It was evident years ago, that big league pro football had passed Green Bay by. Even shifting some of their games to Milwaukee made the task of providing the $20,000 guarantee to visiting clubs too much. Last year, the townsfolk rescued the Packers' franchise with new subscriptions, but they'd probably balk at a yearly assessment.

It's too bad, too. Pro football was cradled in Green Bay, and the Packers were the most colorful team of their era. When good linemen could be hired for $3000 a season, Green Bay was a power in the league. If Green Bay drops out, it will be because the game got too big for them.

Colts Lead 20-0, Giants Roar Back, Win, 55-20

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19. — The Baltimore Colts got off to a 20-0 lead over the New York Giants in Memorial Stadium here today but even their 14,573 delirious fans thought it was too good to be true.

And it was. The Giants eventually blasted out a 55-20 victory to move prominently into the American Conference title picture of the National Football League.

With the Philadelphia Eagles losing, the Giants moved into second place with a 7-2 record. The league-leading Cleveland Browns also have lost two but have an extra win.

The expected result of both this game and the Redskins' also means that Washington and the Colts will take identical 1-8 records into their crucial battle for the cellar next Sunday at Griffith Stadium.

For 28 minutes of today's football game, it didn't look like the Colts were going to cooperate. They smashed to three touchdowns and had Steve Owen's A-formation looking feeble indeed.

Even when the Giants scored just before the half ended, it still was a 20-7 ball game for the Colts. But the New Yorkers came out after intermission to grind out three touchdowns in the third quarter and four in the final period. By then, people were forgetting about the Colts' surprising early showing.

Baltimore got off winging on the third play from scrimmage. Fullback Jim Spavital got loose from his 31 and, when tackled at midfield, tossed a wide lateral to center Joel Williams, who lumbered all the way without being touched.

It made Williams as celebrated as the time he was the central figure in the lawsuit when the Redskins tried to lift him from the Richmond Rebels.

Minutes later, the Colts threatened again but Chet Mutryn fumbled right at the goal line and the Giants recovered.

Clem Crowe's boys, with Y. A. Title piercing the famed Giant pass defense, kept on threatening and cashed in on two plays.

Chick Maggioli made his second interception of a Chuck Conerly pass pay off for Baltimore. Earlier, he went 37 yards to the Giant 35 in vain. Next time, he went 40 to the New York 27.

Coach Crowe made one of the smartest substitutions he ever did. He put Billy Stone in for one play and it was a spectacular 15-yard scoring play on a pass from Tittle to Stone who rolled into the end zone.

Later in the second period, Bob

COME TO ME BABY—Hugh Taylor, Washington Redskins end seems to say as he reaches for a pass from Harry Gilmer in the fourth quarter of yesterday's games against the Browns in Cleveland. ## Ref., Umpire Differ on Pass Play

CLEVELAND, Nov. 19. — If Roland Gibbs, who refereed today's Redskins-Browns game, would have known the Redskins' pass patterns, the result of the game may have been different.

Gibbs and Umpire Jim Beirsdorfer differed on what happened on a play in the fourth period and their difference cost the Redskins a vital first down.

Here's what happened. On third down on the Browns' 16-yard line, Harry Gilmer tried a short pass down the middle to Bill Dudley. The pass fell incomplete.

Beirsdorfer ruled pass interference against the Browns on Dudley. If his decision stuck, it meant the Redskins, who were trailing, 20-14, would have had a first down on the Browns' 6-yard line, the spot of the foul.

But Referee Gibbs ruled Gilmer had intentionally grounded the ball. Since one foul offset the other, it was finally ruled no play.

According to Al DeMao, Redskins' captain, Gibbs admitted he did not see Dudley.

"How could he?" DeMao asked, "when a Cleveland linebacker had knocked Bill down?"

On the next down, the Redskins failed to make a first down, the Browns took over and nursed the ball for a minute and a half to seal their victory.

Washington Leads, 14-13, Crumples on 80-Yd. Drive

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

CLEVELAND, Nov. 19—Faced with a humiliating defeat at the hands of professional football's "nobodies"—the Washington Redskins—the vaunted Cleveland Browns had to score a touchdown in the last 4 minutes of the game to squeeze out a 20-14 victory today.

Trailing 14-13, the 20-point favored Browns moved 80 yards for their payoff score to cement their grip on first place in the NFL's American Conference and also deal the hapless, battered Redskins their eighth straight lacing.

The hard-won triumph was a big win for the four-time champs of the defunct AAC. With only 2 games to play, they are a half game ahead of the second place New York Giants, who routed Baltimore, and a game and a half in front of the defending champion Eagles, who were upset by the Chicago Cardinals.

With the frantic shouts of 21,908 customers—the smallest turnout of the local season—ringing in his ears, Halfback Dopey Phelps scurried 8 yards for the clinching touchdown.

Phelps' encirclement of the Washington right end voided a 40-yard scoring run with an intercept pass by Hall Haynes in the second quarter and a 2-yard scoring burst by Rob Goode in the third period which brought the Redskins a 14-13 lead.

It also wiped out two great Redskins' goal line stands inside the 10-yard line which stalled Browns' touchdown drives, forcing them to call on Lou (The Toe) Groza to boot two field goals.

He responded nobly, with a 15-yard 3-pointer early in the second period for the first score of the game and another late in the same quarter, a 14-yarder, to boost Cleveland's half-time lead to 13-7.

The Redskins weren't completely licked even after Groza had kicked the extra point after Phelps' scoring sortie. Little Eddie Saenz, a magnificent figure in Washington's magnificent stand today, legged the ensuing kickoff back 71 thrilling yards before Ken Gorgal finally brought him down on the Cleveland 31-yard line.

With Harry Gilmer, who went the route at quarterback despite a painful shoulder injury, passing, the Redskins moved down to the Browns' 16-yard line in the waning seconds of the game. A fourth-down pass failed to make the yardage necessary for a first down and the Browns took over, stalling the rest of the time to ice their narrow escape from defeat.

The Redskins turned up with only 29 players. Sammy Baugh, Lauri Niemi and Pete Stout, banged up so badly, didn't even make the trip. And Bill Dudley, Haynes, Gilmer, Al Demao—playing with a cast on his fractured left hand—weren't among the healthiest citizens in Cleveland today either. But they all played, giving it the good ole college try which almost paid off in a dazzling victory.

Charlie Justice, playing his best game since joining the Redskins last month, committed a costly bobble early in the second quar-

Cards Upset Eagles on 82-Yd. Run

Paul's Punt Return Wins 14-10 Battle

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19 (AP).—A spectacular 82-yard punt return by Don Paul gave the Chicago Cardinals a 14-10 upset victory over the Philadelphia Eagles today before 28,368 fans at Shibe Park.

It was the third defeat in nine starts for the defending National Football League champions, who now will have to win their three remaining games to keep in the 1950 title picture.

The Cardinals trailed, 10 to 7, late in the third period, when Philadelphia's Frank Reagan booted a high, wobbly punt that took a long bounce toward the Chicago goal line.

End Jack Ferrante hovered over the ball and could have touched it down, but suddenly Paul grabbed the pigskin, raced laterally to his left across the field and, behind crushing downfield blocking, went 82 yards into the end zone.

Jerry Davis applied the key-

Bears Win Seventh, 17-0, Over 49ers

Chicago, Nov. 19 (AP).—The Chicago Bears warmed up for next Sunday's showdown with the Los Angeles Rams for the Western Division title with a 17-0 National Football League triumph tover the San Francisco Forty-Niners today.

A Wrigley Field crowd of 38,105 saw the Bears score all the game's points in the first half on a 32-yard field goal by George Blanda, a 39-yard touchdown jaunt with a pass interception by John Hoffman, and Johnny Lujack's 39-yard payoff pass to Ken Kavanaugh.

The Forty-Niners failed to get beyond the Bear 28 during the entire game. That was reached in the third period mainly on the passing of Frankie Albert to Al Beals.

It was the seventh win against two defeats for the Bears, who had been tied for second with the New York Rams. The Rams' 43-35 win over the Yanks at New York today left Los Angeles with an 8-2 mark, a half game ahead of the Bears.

The Rams and Bears meet at Wrigley Field next Sunday.

Bland's fiield goal opened the Bear scoring late in the first period. That resulted after the Bears' Harper Davis intercepted an Albert pass in midfield.

With less than two minutes of the opening period left, another errant pass by Albert was filched by Hoffman on the Forty-niner

Caps Stop Boston, 81-75

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—The Washington Capitols fought off a last-period drive to send the Boston Celtics down to their first defeat in eight games, 81 to 75, before 5272 fans this afternoon in their National Basketball Association game at the Boston arena.

The Caps led throughout, but their third-period 52-33 margin melted to only 4 points midway through the final quarter. Coach Bones McKinney, pressed into service when Chuck Halbert and Don Otten fouled out, steadied his team, however, and it hung on to win its fourth game of the season and second in a row.

Bob Cousy, sensational in Boston's late surge, and Ed Macauley led the scorers with 23 points apiece. Frank Kudelka, with 15, was the Caps' high man.

Each team sank 25 of 73 shots from the floor, but Washington's 31 of 37 free throws spelled the difference. Boston missed 10 of its 35 foul shots.

Rebels Knock Jersey Out of Title Race

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 19 (AP).—The Richmond Rebels displayed their 1949 American Football League championship form today by trouncing Jersey City, 42 to 7, before 3000 chilled fans here.

The victory moved the Richmond team into second place, and eliminated Jersey City from titular contention

St. John's Routs Gonzaga For Catholic High Title, 37-0

By Bill Gilbert

St. John's Cadets came out fighting after holding a slim 6-0 lead at halftime and swamped Gonzaga's Eagles, 37-0, to win the Catholic High League championship before 8000 fans yesterday at Griffith Stadium.

Tom Garrity gave the Cadets their six points with a 33-yard scoring slant off tackle in the second quarter. The Eagles' dreams of an upset were shattered when St. John's scored late in the third period, then added four more rapid touchdowns in the final quarter.

St. John's drove to the Gonzaga 34 midway in the third quarter but the drive stalled there and the Eagles took over.

Two plays later, St. John's had the ball again. James Kennedy intercepted a pass by Bill Cody and returned it to the 25. Garrity powered to the eight, and three plays later Bob Reese went over from the one.

Kennedy rose to the occasion again early in the fourth quarter, intercepting another Cody pass. On the return, he lateraled to Tom Collins and Collins battled to the Gonzaga 28-yard line. Reese hit End Tom Dwyer fo 14 yards and the score.

On the first play following the ensuing kickoff, Cody once more passed to the wrong man. This time it was Nick Poulos, a substitute back, who intercepted for St. John's and returned it to the Eagles' 21. On the next play, Joe Hands took the ball on an end-around and passed to Jack Daly all alone in the end zone. Hands

Tech's Rice Is a Hard Fellow to Discourage; Perkins Wins a Sports Coat--and He Gets It

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

WHEN McKINLEY Tech Coach Ed Solomon talks fondly about the spirit of the team he sends into Friday night's Interhigh Championship Game at Griffith Stadium, he likes to tell this little tale about Joe Rice:

"Rice is a little fellow, 5 feet, 8 inches and 155 pounds. He's our regular right end. He has a sure pair of hands, ideal for pass catching, and he's not afraid to plow into an opponent 50 pounds heavier.

"In one of our early games last year, Joe went charging in on an enemy punter, and blocked the kick with his eye. Blood vessels were ruptured, and he was taken to the hospital. There was fear that he'd lose the eye.

"Joe didn't even talk about that; rather he was anxious to know if he'd be fit enough to play in the last few games of the season. Fortunately, he didn't lose the eye, and he did come back to play in the last two games.

"I thought he would be gun shy for awhile. But do you know what he did on the first play? He charged in and blocked another kick, this time with his chest.

"How many other boys would have had the guts to do that?" asks Solly.

STAN ZIOBRO, Tech's line coach, is a snappy dresser, and his sports jackets are admired by the boys who play for him.

Early in the year, when Ziobro was displeased with the way his linemen were playing, he made them this offer:

"To every tackle, guard and center who scores a touchdown after blocking a kick or recovering a fumble, I will present a jacket."

Then he promptly forgot about it.

But not Conway Perkins, the 185-pound left tackle. Against Western, he picked up a fumble by Tommy Turco and raced 21 yards for a touchdown. Then to the amazement of everyone, he raced off the field to the Tech bench, pulled the jacket off Ziobro's back and put it on his own, and had to be restrained from returning to the field to partake in the point-after-touchdown play with the coat on.

TECH TAILBACK Stan (Snookie) Kernan, though only a junior, promises to take his place alongside some of the school's all-time greats.

He is the first Techite in 15 years to win three varsity letters as a sophomore. He was alternate tailback on the Tech team which lost last year's Interhigh championship game to Wilson, 21-20. He was second high scorer on Tech's Interhigh championship basketball team. And he took second place in the Interhigh 100-yard dash.

Santa Clara Wins Over St. Mary's 9-0

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19 (AP).—Santa Clara's Broncos scored a second-period touchdown and a fourth-quarter field goal to defeat their traditional football rivals, St. Mary's Gaels, 9 to 0 in the annual "little big game." Quarterback Len Napolitano led the Broncos to their fourth consecutive triumph over the Gaels. He threw a 25-yard touchdown pass to Left End Gern Nagler in the second quarter. John Daly placekicked a 14-yard field goal in the final period.

Walker Gets 24 Points in 24-21 Victory

DETROIT, Nov. 19 (AP).—Smooth operating Doak Walker slammed over all 24 points for the Detroit Lions today as they battled their way to a 24-21 decision over the stubborn Green Bay Packers in a National Football League game here.

The former Southern Methodist star picked up three touchdowns, three conversions and a field goal on the rain-soaked gridiron.

He climaxed his great day by catching an 8-yard touchdown pass in the last two minutes of play to enable the Lions to come from behind and nip the Packers.

That touchdown enabled the Detroiters to snap their four-game losing streak, while it cost the Packers their sixth successive setback.

Walker collaborated with his former Dallas High school teammate, Bobby Layne, who hit him with passes for Walker's first two TD's.

After Layne was hurt in the third period, Fred Enke took over the Detroit passing chores and it was he who tossed the final six-point pass to Walker.

The brilliant Walker contributed a second-period field goal—eventual margin of victory—on a dead center boot from the 31-yard line.

Walker's feats nullified brilliant performances by Green Bay's Tobin Rote and Jack Cloud, who were the chief offensive weapons for the packers in their bid to snap their long losing streak.

Rain and darkness, which necessitated use of the stadium floodlights all the way, made for a scoreless first period, but both clubs broke loose in the second.

They piled across 24 points within 10 minutes in that free-scoring quarter which saw Detroit score first with a 33-yard Layne-to-Walker pass. Rote evened that up with a 9-yard touchdown pass to Steve Pritko, and Jack Cloud dove over from the 2 for another Green Bay score.

St. Anthony's Wins Crown

In a preliminary to the Gonzaga-St. John's game yesterday at Griffith Stadium, St. Anthony's won the Catholic Youth Organization championship by defeating St. Michael's, 20-0, with Halfback Jack Renehan doing just about everything for the victors.

Renehan scored two touchdowns, took a pass from Charlie Facchina for an extra point and scored another touchdown on a long run, only to have the play called back because of a penalty.

Jack scored in the second quarter on a 26-yard run around right end. In the third period he galloped 70 yards with an intercepted pass but defensive interference against St. Anthony's nullified the play.

In the final quarter, Renehan, on a reverse, took off around his own right end again and covered 74 yards to pay dirt to give St. Anthony's a 12-0 lead. Jack caught a pass from Facchina for the conversion.

St. Anthony's wound up the scoring when Facchina passed 19 yards to Pete Manning. Manning rushed over the extra point.

St. Anthony's finished with seven triumphs in eight starts, while St. Michael's won six games, lost one and tied one.

Hoerner Scores Three Touchdowns

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP).—Bob Waterfield and his rambling Los Angeles Rams scuttled the New York Yanks in a sensational, adding-machine game today, 45-35, and retained the lead in the National Division of the National Football League.

With both clubs scoring five touchdowns, the margin of difference was three field goals booted by Waterfield's trusty toe, as a Yankee Stadium crowd of 42,673 remained glued in their seats until the final gun.

Waterfield never scored a touchdown, but his accurate passes, plus the running of Dick Hoerner, Glenn Davis, Vitamin Smith and Elroy Hirsch shot the Rams ahead and they never gave up the lead after the second period.

New York, trailing 33 to 14 at the start of the final quarter, shoved across three touchdowns in the final 15 minutes to almost catch the red hot Los Angeles club.

But Waterfield's final field goal, a 30-yarder with about a minute left, put on the clincher in the torrid battle which saw fists fly on occasion.

Hoerner got three Ram touchdowns, Hirsch and Davis the others. George Ratterman, the Yanks' passing ace, was a big cog in the New York attack, but he had six of his heaves intercepted. This put a heavy brake on the New York attack, and gave the Los Angeles crew the ball on several vital occasions.

The crowd was looking for a high-scoring duel between the league's two top scoring clubs, and they got a bangup thriller from the moment Hirsch took a screen pass and bolted 36 yards for the first tally in the opening period.

Throwing 37 passes, Waterfield completed 21 for 248 yards.

New York tied the score at 7-7 in the second period, when Johnny Rauch pitched to Zollie Toth for a 60-yard gain to the Ram 20. Then Buddy Young, squirming like a rabbit in a pack of greyhounds, went to the 2. Ratterman came back and sneaked over. That was as close as New York could keep the score.

With the score knotted and the crowd looking for a tie just before halftime, Waterfield and Davis went to work. Davis finally rounded end 18 yards for a touchdown. Then, with seconds left, Waterfield kicked a 37-yard field goal.

Hoerner sailed around right end 32 yards in the third period for a score, and Waterfield added a 31-yard field goal after the Yanks scored on a 15-yard pass, Ratterman to Sherman Howard.

AT BOWIE

Dear Folks:

With the closing of this track, Joe Culmone will fly to Florida to swing into action immediately at Tropical Park. Some of his friends had suggested that he go to Charlestown, where he doubtlessly would have had a pick of the horses in small fields and a better chance to outdistance Willie Shoemaker in the jockey race. However, Joe, born and raised in sunny Sicily, is no lover of cold weather. His agent, Slim Edwards, will leave for Tropical a few days ahead of the boy to line up mounts. By the way, Culmone doesn't play cards in the jockey's room any more. Not that he wasn't good at it but rather to please Edwards. See you at the rail.

rushed over the conversion and the Cadets had a 25-0 advantage.

That score prompted St. Johns' followers in the bleachers to jump onto the field and tear down the goal posts.

After Gonzaga couldn't go anywhere, the Eagles punted from their own 20. Poulos picked up the ball after chasing it to his 35 and threaded his way to a touchdown, running through the entire Gonzaga team and reversing his field twice.

St. John's wound up the scoring with 3½ minutes left in the game when quarterback Danny Cookman, former Eastern High star, passed to Tim Flynn for 30 yards and 6 points.

It was only the sixth triumph for the Cadets in their long-standing series with the Eagles, Gonzaga has won 15 times and two contests ended in ties. The victory was St. John's ninth straight this season, while Gonzaga concluded its year with a record of five wins and four defeats.

72 Happy Golfers Win Turkeys in Tournaments

By Dave Heller
Post Reporter

The toll among turkeys was terrible yesterday. No less than 72 were given away as golf prizes in pre-Thanksgiving tournaments at local courses.

Ironically enough, the best golf score of the day, a 4-below-par 34, 34—68 by Bob Chandler of Prince Georges Country Club, failed to win one of the toothsome fowls.

Chandler was declared ineligible because he had previously won a turkey last week. He had four birdies and not a single bogey on his round.

PRINCE GEORGES: George Voigt's 1-over-par 73 took low gross in the turkey tournament. Art Woodside, 74—6—68, won low net and Dr. L. E. Herman, 84—13—71, was second in the 15-and-under handicap division. George Ross, 89—16—73, and Doc Duval's net 75 won the turkeys in the over-15 handicap class.

In the women's turkey tourney, Marie Walper took low gross with 88. Mrs. Ken Dinton's 103—30—73 won low net and Mrs. Roland Rank's net 74 was second.

WHITE FLINT: The Japanese-American Community Golf Association held its annual Thanksgiving Turkey tournament yesterday with G. Nishio's 94—25—69 winning first low net, Dr. Otagaki's 89—18—71 was second.

ROCK CREEK: Results of the Turkey tournament: (First flight winner gets a 20-pound bird, others taper down to a six-pounder.)

FIRST FLIGHT
Tommy Emmons beat Del Todd, 4 and 3.
SECOND FLIGHT
Paul Catloth defeated Bob Alquist, 2 and 1.
THIRD FLIGHT
Jim Reece beat C. McKnight, 3 and 2.
FOURTH FLIGHT
J. C. Bibb beat S. R. Evans, 2 and 1.

INDIAN SPRING: The eight winners of the turkey tournament blind bogey are C. B. Hartman, J. H. Mullendore, Ted Cohen, Dan Arnold and Al Baer with net 70s, and Dr. Jerry Bernstein, Al Griesemer, and Ira Sichelman with 74s.

CONGRESSIONAL: Saturday's turkey tournament was won by W. B. Maroshek with 94—15—79. Lynn Orrison, R. O. Wissinger, and T. P. Bartle tied for a second with 74s.

Sunday's turkey tourney ended in a three way tie between Howard Adam, E. M. Becker and Dr. R. Greer. All had net 77s.

ARMY NAVY: Gen. W. C. James, 76—5—71, won first low net in the turkey tournament. J. P. Wade was second with a net 74 and Col. M. I. Shuford third with a net 75. The mixed blind bogey was won by Cmdr. and Mrs. J. W. Ramey, 193—50—143. Col. and Mrs. L. W. Pine were second with a net 160.

FORT DUPONT: Seven turkeys were won by contestants in the turkey tournament. Bob Suit and Al Griffith won the men's 18-hole medal play meet with net 72s. Joe Haskins and Frank Thomas tied for third with net 73s, and Bob Miller was fifth with a net 73½. Bill Ware won a turkey on the blind draw. Carol Hardy's 64—19—45, won the women's blind bogey turkey tournament.

ARGYLE: The "Women's Derby" ended in a four-way tie between Helen Sasscer, Audrey Gibson, Ossie Calwell and Eleanor Hackett with 31 each.

The men's blind bogey turkey tournament resulted in a five-way tie at 75 between Len Burrage, W. D. Confer, C. P. Lawrence, A. O. Dooley, Dick Mothe shead, G. M. Dunkel, and C. Turner.

WOODMONT: Turkeys were won yesterday by Nat Lurie, Steve Mittleman, Morrie Bildman, Mal Lewis, Sam Pocker and Jules Rendelman who had net 80s in the blind bogey and by Harry Rubin with a net 74, and Mel Ehrlich with a net 78.

ANACOSTIA: Bill Swan, Jack Rheingold and R. W. Lucier won turkeys with net 70s in the blind bogey.

EAST POTOMAC: John Kirby, 83—9—74, and Milton Logan, 74—0—74, won the turkey tournament with two-over scores. Earl Marcy was third with 81—6—75, and Bill Wetzell fourth with 87—8—79.

Cornell Coach James Injured In Car Crash

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 19 (AP).—Football Coach Lefty James of Cornell University was in a hospital today with a concussion from an automobile accident. James was driving alone to Harrisburg, Pa., last night when the car crashed at nearby Newfield. Details of the accident were not available.

Dr. Alexius Rachun, Cornell's team physician, said James was unconscious for about two hours, apparently unobserved at the roadside, but drove the car back to Ithaca. Dr. Rachun said that James would be able to return to football duties Tuesday and to direct drills for Saturday's game at Penn.

REDSKINS—From P. 15

Browns Win, 20-14, In Last 4 Minutes

ter and the alert Brownies promptly converted it into a touchdown.

On the first play after the kickoff following Groza's field goal, Justice fumbled on the Redskins' 20-yard line and Linebacker John the Browns.

Marion Motley, who gained 178 of Cleveland's 258 yards on the ground with his powerful bursts at tackle and guard, and Rex Bumgardner moved the Browns to the 4-yard line in two smashes.

There the Redskins dug in and held for three downs, but on fourth down Graham whipped a pass to End Dante Lavelli in the end zone for a touchdown.

Stung into fury, Gilmer passed to Justice twice and Saenz once, moving the Redskins to the Browns' 33. On the next play, however, Halfback Warren Lahr intercepted Gilmer's next pass to halt that drive.

But the Redskins got even in a hurry. After Motley had been held for no gain, Graham essayed a pass to Dopey Phelps near the sidelines. Haynes, limping all day long, streaked up and plucked it out of the air, and raced 40 yards down the sidelines—only a foot from the out of the outbounds stripe—for a touchdown.

Bill Dudley, playing with his right foot shot full of morphine to ease the pain from a badly wrenched ankle, kicked the extra point and the Redskins soon retired to their dressing room trailing a powerful Cleveland club by only three points, 10-7.

Dudley, who ran the ball only once all day, had missed a 22-yard field goal late in the first quarter and late in the fourth quarter he missed a 26-yarde which would have pushed the Redskins into a 17-13 lead.

Fifty-six seconds before the third period ended, the Redskins moved 57 yards in 10 plays for the touchdown which sent them into a 14-13 advantage. Gilmer connected on two passes to Joe Tereshinski and Hugh Taylor for 21 yards; and Justice, tossing a running pass from his halfback position, caught the Browns flat-footed with a 17-yard aerial to Saenz to put the ball on the 3-yard line.

Two plays later Goode smashed over tackle for the score. Dudley kicked the point to make it 14-13 and also to sting the Browns into action.

There were nine minutes to play when they launched their 80-yard scoring drive. Motley crashed for 21 on two plays and Graham passed 16 yards to Mac Speedie to put the ball on the Washington 42. Bumgardner got five.

Then Graham faked a handoff to Motley, who went barreling into the line, and gave the ball instead to Phelps who strutted end for 12 yards to the Redskins' 25-yard line. Two plays later Graham made a first down on the Redskins' 14 on a quarterback sneak on third down, Phelps, on the identical same play on which he gained 12 yards a moment before, scooted around end for the touchdown.

The Redskins still had time for a counterattack and Saenz's thrilling 71-yard kickoff return got them most of the way.

Washington's last move produced a short rhubarb on the field. Al Agase intercepted Gilmer's furth-down pass on the Redskins' 16 and dropped it. Before it hit the ground, Al Demao caught it and was promptly slapped down.

He was 4 yards short of a first down and the Browns took over. The Redskins argued that Agase had fumbled and Demao recovered, giving Washington the ball and a first down. The officials ruled Agase had merely deflected the ball.

The ruling, of course, stood.

Touchdown Club Honors Charney, Byrne, Matthews

Ralph Charney of Georgetown, Bill Mathews of Maryland Park and Bucky Byrne of Gonzaga, The Washington Post and Touchdown Club College, High and Prep School players of the week respectively, will be honored by the Touchdown Club at its weekly luncheon today at 12:30.

Also on the program are Coaches Bo Rowland of George Washington and Bob Margarita of Georgetown whose teams meet Saturday at Griffith Stadium. While Rowland and Margarita speak of their chances, a lie detector will record the truth of their statements.

Athletic Directors Jack Hagerty of Georgetown and Max Farrington of G. W. will also appear, along with assistant coaches from the two schools.

GW High And W-L Top Holiday Bill

Before the turkey gets its usual rough treatment Thursday on the dinner table, some of the area's scholastic rivalries will be settled.

Heading the list of series is the Washington-Lee-George Washington game, scheduled for 11 a. m. at the G. W. Stadium in Alexandria.

In other games, Bladensburg plays Hyattsville at College Park, Westminister is at Charlotte Hall, Mount Vernon meets Fairfax at Fairfax and Bullis travels to Annapolis to meet the Navy Plebes.

Play for Old Oaken Bucket

One of the oldest relationships in area high school football circles, W-L and G.W. have a series that began back in 1926. Since that time W-L's Little Generals have won eight games, while the Presidents have come out on top in four of the meetings. Two games ended in ties.

The game is played each year for the Old Oaken Bucket, but this time there's an unusual twist. They'll be battling for the new Old Oaken Bucket, since G.W.'s 13-12 triumph in 1949 was its third straight, thereby giving the Presidents permanent possession of the Bucket.

Washington-Lee is going all-out in its efforts to break the three-year George Washington charm. A parade with floats will be formed the morning of the game, and W.-L. supporters will march in a body through Arlington and into Alexandria.

Dixon Big Factor

George Washington's narrow margin last year was provided by Gnard Earl (Tubby) Dixon, who booted the ball over the goalpost and out of the park following the Presidents' first score. Tubby will be back Thursday, and the difference between the two schools is so small that Dixon again looms as an important factor in the Presidents' hopes for a repeat triumph.

Tailback Sammy Eberdt, who was the big gun in the Little Generals' losing cause in 1949, is the man for G. W. to stop. Last year, good-looking Sam passed to one touchdown and set up the other with three long passes. Coach Ken Batson is counting on Eberdt for another starring role Thursday.

Mount Vernon and Fairfax will be fighting for the mythical Fairfax County high school championship. Mount Vernon won last year's game, 22-12.

Super Service Upset In J. C. C. Opener

First day play in the Jewish Community Center's basketball league got under way with last year's champion, Super Service Trash being upset, 46-44, by Arcade Pontiac yesterday.

In other games Kingsman defeated the Dark Horses, 38-16; Ornstein Construction beat Columbia Tigers, 38-30, High G Paint won over Cardozo, 34-30, and the Beanbags squeezed by the Camatops, 31-29.

For Rams

Leahy Quitting Says Flaherty

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19 (AP).—Columnist Vincent X. Flaherty reported in a copyrighted story in the Los Angeles Examiner today that Coach Frank Leahy will quit his job at Notre Dame at the end of the season to take over as head coach of the professional Los Angeles Rams.

The story has been denied before both by Leahy and by Dan Reeves, president of the Rams.

Flaherty, however, said Leahy will announce his resignation following Notre Dame's season finale here on December 2 against the University of Southern California.

Flaherty said that besides becoming a stockholder and head coach of the Rams, Leahy will get a franchise for a beer distributorship in Los Angeles. The story said Leahy holds a similar franchise for Chicago and part of New York City.

Flaherty cited de-emphasis on Notre Dame football and bigger money as Leahy's reasons for quitting.

At his home at Michigan City, Ind., tonight, Leahy repeated that "all the rest of my coaching will be done at Notre Dame."

"That rumor has floated around before," Leahy said. "I think Mr. Flaherty has been misinformed.

"The only thing I'm thinking about now is the game with Southern California—and after that, spring training at Notre Dame."

Ohio State Loss Means New Scramble for College Football's No. 1 Tag

Hoyas' Charney Wins Week's Honors

GEORGETOWN'S RALPH Charney, an unsung soph who came through in a big way in the Hoyas' 21-14 upset of Holy Cross, is the College Player of the Week selected by the Touchdown Club and the Washington Post.

Ralph Charney

Georgetown's plight looked desperate early when Bugs Thompson and Dick Doyle, hitherto its top runners, went out with injuries.

The Hoyas needed a ball-carrier badly and Charney more than filled that need. He also doubled on defense and played all but three minutes.

Although he didn't score a point, Charney played a large part in all three touchdowns. In the fourth period, after a Holy Cross fumble ruined its tying threat, Charney was on the end of a perfect 63-yard pass play from Frank Mattingly. His great sprint into the end zone went for exercise when Georgetown was called offside.

Charney's key play—and it was the key play of the game—came in the second period after Holy Cross had tied it at 7-7.

Right in front of his bench at midfield, Charney made a daring catch of a Mel Massuco punt. Going full speed he grabbed it at his knees and never broke stride as he sped to the Holy Cross 21. Massucco made a great saving tackle to keep him from going all the way.

With Charney making 13 of the 21 yards in two tries, Georgetown soon had its second score. On its last touchdown, Charney made a big run of 30 yards and added another for 7. On the 81-yard drive for the first, he contributed runs of 19, 11 and 8.

The hard-running Pennsylvanian made 96 yards from scrimmage in the first half alone and wound up with 103 yards in 13 carries for a handsome 7.9 average.

Charney was handicapped early in the season by an appendectomy two weeks before it opened. Still, he hasn't missed a game and played good defensive ball against Miami and Fordham.

Buckeyes, Like SMU Hit by Jinx

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP).—College football's elusive and coveted No. 1 tag, a "kiss of death" that has changed hands four times in six weeks, came up for grabs again today, with a fistful of eager takers.

Ohio State's 'powerized Buckeyes, after a week on the shaky pinnacle, tumbled yesterday before a fire-eating Illinois team, dead bent on going to the Rose Bowl. The score was 14-7.

The Buckeyes thus met the fate that had befallen Notre Dame and Southern Methodist shortly after being designated as the best in these United States.

Only Army, which has held the top three times while fluctuating in favor, has not been affected. Here's how the No. 1 position has gone from week to week: Notre Dame, Army, Army, SMU, SMU, Army, Ohio State.

Army and another ranking contender for national honors, California, had their muscles softened by lightly-regarded adversaries and miserable weather yesterday but managed to bring their perfect records through the storms unscathed.

The Cadets downed Stanford, 7-0, in a rain storm at Palo Alto on a desperate third-period aerial thrust, Bob Blaik to Don Foldberg. The Rose Bowl-bound Golden Bears barely outslogged San Francisco in the mud at Berkeley, 13-7.

Oklahoma, Kentucky and Princeton, meanwhile, added to their football stature with smashing victories that undoubtedly will be reflected in the newest shakeup of the Associated Press' "top 10."

Oklahoma, second to Ohio State in last week's ratings, rolled over Missouri, 41-7. Kentcuky No. 5, flattened North Dakota, 83-0, as Vito Parilli flipped five touchdown passes. Princeton, No. 7, buried Yale under a record scoring avalanche for the series, 47-12.

Amid this vigorous jockeying for the national title, there were important developments on the bowl front with one major berth clinched and two others—the Rose—virtually put in the bag.

Texas' Longhorns captured the Southwest Conference title and accompanying Cotton Bowl bid by dumping Texas Christian, 21-7, while Rice was upsetting Texas A. and M., 21-13.

Here's how the four older bowls appear to shape up at the moment:

Rose at Pasadena—Illinois vs. California (each must win its final game to clinch it).

Sugar at New Orleans — Kentucky vs. Oklahoma or Southern Methodist. (Don't be surprised if Kentucky gets the nod before the big Tennessee game Saturday.)

Cotton at Dallas—Texas (definite) vs. Oklahoma or Tennessee.

Orange at Miami—Miami vs. Tennessee, Clemson or Wyoming.

Once-beaten Tennessee, 35-0 conqueror of Mississippi Saturday, takes on Kentucky this weekend at Knoxville. Bowl scouts will be plentiful in the stands.

High Prep Players of the Week

BILL MATHEWS
MARYLAND PARK

FULLBACK BILL MATHEWS' long gains Friday night gave Maryland Park a 13-6 triumph over Bladensburg, just about clinched the Prince Georges County League championship for his team, and brought Mathews The Washington Post and Touchdown Club High School Player of the Week award.

Bill Mathews

Mathews, a fullback, shook loose for sizable yardage almost every time he got his hands on the ball. He scored a touchdown on a 2-yard plunge, but the story doesn't end there. Not at all.

Some of his other runs were for distances of 42, 20, 35, 40 and 25 yards. The 25-yard gallop set up Maryland Park's other touchdown.

When he got hold of three kickoffs, he traveled for an average of 30 yards.

On defense, playing in the safety role, he came up to the line and plugged a good many holes before any real damage could be done.

His sparkling performance overshadowed some good work by Center Vance (Sonny) Deatherage, who was a demon on defense for Maryland Park.

The Mathews-Deatherage combination proved too tough for Bladensburg and enabled Maryland Park to close out its season with a record of six victories against only one loss.

JOHN BYRNE
GONZAGA

IT TAKES SOME pretty fine ball-playing for a lineman to be noticed when his team loses a 37-0 game, but Guard John (Bucky) Byrne of Gonzaga, performed so well as his team lost to St. John's yesterday you couldn't help noticing him.

Because of this, The Washington Post and Touchdown Club have selected Byrne as their Prep School Player of the Week.

John Byrne

Bucky, a 180-pound senior, made his last game for the Eagles a brilliant one. He played the entire first half, missed only one or two plays in the third quarter, and played the first 2 minutes of the final period, until a pain in his side forced him to retire.

It is significant that the Cadets could only boast a 6-0 halftime lead, and the fact that Byrne played the whole first half is not just co-incidental. He helped his backs pick up yardage with first class blocking, and his tackling on defense was of the rock 'em-sock 'em variety. In the last 6 minutes of the game, while Byrne sat on the bench with his ailing side, St. John's pushed across its final two touchdowns.

—BILL GILBERT.

Clayton, Ramos Fight Here Tonight

Local fight fans will get another look at hardhitting Luis Ramos tonight at Turner's Arena as the Puerto Rican featherweight tangles with Marshall Clayton, former All-Army lightweight champ in a 10-round main event.

Ramos will be giving away a few pounds to Clayton, but since he has a hard time making the featherweight limit, Clayton's advantage in that department probably will be slight.

In Ramos' last appearance locally he nearly flattened Charley Titone in the fourth round of their 10-rounder, only to lose on points.

Eddie Marshall and Johnny Pratt will renew their fistic acquaintance in an eight-round match. Two weeks ago the pair battled to a draw in a five-rounder that saw both absorb teriffic punishment.

Pratt was downed for nine-counts twice and Marshall picked himself off the floor three times.

In supporting bouts, Featherweights Alex Zambres and Eddie Gilchrist, and Irish Tim Dalton and Jimmy Sewell, lightweights, meet in five rounders. Coffey Wilkins and Eddie Giles, middleweights, open in a four-rounder.

Sturgess, Brown Win

CAIRO, Nov. 19 (AP).—South Africa's Eric Sturgess and Australia's Geoff Brown defeated Jaroslav Drobly, Egypt, and Rolando Delbello, Italy, 7—5, 6—3, in a tennis doubles exhibition match at Meadi Sporting Club today.

Colts Lead 20-0, Giants Win It, 55-20

Livingstone and Herb Rich juggled a Conerly pass and Livingstone finally held it for the interception on the Giant 35.

Two plays later, Tittle lobbed a 32-yard scoring play to end Hal Crisler, the old Redskin.

The Giants evidently had enough of that sort of thing and shifted to the T-formation with Auburn's Travis Tidwell at the controls. That's when they went on to get eight touchdowns.

Long gains broke the Colts' backs in nearly every instance. Before the half ended, Eddie Price got away for 37 yards to the Colt 32. Tidwell ran 19 more and Price finally bulled over from the 1.

Then the New Yorkers came out for blood after intermission and scored in the following order:

Price, great back at Tulane last year, rushed 57 yards to the Colt 16. Tidwell passed the last 5 to end Bob McChesney deep in the end zone.

Emlen Tunnell set up the next one with a 36-yard punt return to the Colt 24 and Tidwell again threw a scoring pass to McChesney.

After that, they just poureed it on the Colts, who plainly were out of gas.

Tidwell, himself, dashed 54 yards to the Colt 7 and finally went over on a quarterback sneak.

Frank Filchock, making his first appearance for the Colts, wasn't exactly sensational. He completed a short pass that gave the Giants another score. Receiver Rip Collins fumbled when hit and Bill Milner recovered on the Colt 30.

The Giants' Jim Ostendarp, a Baltimore Poly product, went over standing from in close. Eddie Price made it 41-20 when he took a wide pitchout and went 11 yards into the end zone.

Randall Clay made it more of a rout by intercepting a Tittle pass on the Colt 27 and galloping to the 3. The Giants let him take it over two plays later.

With a minute and 15 seconds left, the Giants rubbed it in a little more when Bob (Stonewall) Jackson, former North Carolina A. and T. back, went 57 yards from scrimmage.

Tom Thumb Car Racing Tonight At Uline Arena

A new indoor sport, Tom Thumb automobile racing, will open a two-night stand at Uline Arena tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

The Tom Thumb cars, three-quarters the size of midget automobiles, are powered to attain a 100-miles-per-hour speed on the straightaway and are expected to average 55 miles in competition.

Twenty-four big, midget, and stock car racing pilots will drive the racers on Uline's 1/11th mile concrete course.

Terp Shemonski Leads Conference Scorers With 66

Halfback Bob Shemonski, of Maryland, is the Southern Conference's scoring leader.

The "Brat" from Archbald, Pa., scored three touchdowns in Maryland's 40-0 rout of West Virginia Saturday to boost his total to 66—11 touchdowns—in nine games.

Shemonski, 170-pound junior, replaced Clemson Halfback Fred Cone, who scored two touchdowns and kicked one extra point in Clemson's 52-2 rout of Furman. Cone, who was leading Shemonski by one point Saturday, has scored 62 points.

Frye's Win, 14-6

Gil Buckingham scored two touchdowns to lead Frye's Florists to a 14-6 victory over the Irish War Vets in a 160-pound football game on the Monument Grounds yesterday.

Bears Win Seventh, 17-0, Over 49ers

39 and the big Bear fullback raced untouched for a touchdown.

Lujack, who booted both extra points, got off his 39-yard scoring shot to Kavanaugh early in the second period and that wrapped up all the point-making for the game.

The Bears' Jim Keane and Norm Standlee, former star fullback with the Bears and now a Forty-Niner player, were tossed out of the game late in the first half for "personal fouls" on the same play.

Middies Win Middle Atlantic Dinghy Regatta

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 19 (AP).—Navy's dinghy sailors won the three-day Middle Atlantic fall invitational regatta today, edging out Princeton by a close three-point margin on a cold Severn River course.

Navy won with 238 points over the three-day grind. Princeton, with 233, was followed by Kings Point Merchant Marine Academy with 217, then came Maryland, 212; Lehigh, 185; Georgetown, 181; Ohio State, 175; Tufts, 168; Rhode Island, 151; Hobart, 148; Rennselaer Poly, 111 and New York State Maritime College, 102.

Chester Peet of Georgetown and John Brown of Princeton each topped the individual winners in the "A" division with three wins

Santa Claus Bowl

OMAHA, Nov. 19 (AP).—The Brandeis of Omaha today won the Santa Claus midget football bowl championship with a 19-0 victory over the Lincoln (Nebr.) South Street Merchants.

Langdon Clinches 1st Place in Metro

The Langdon Lions clinched first place in the Metro football 160-pound league yesterday with a 33-0 rout of Carroll Council K. C. at Taft Playground. The Lions tallied three times in the first quarter, including a 55-yard punt return for a touchdown by Bucky Ecloff.

In another Metro League game, the Southwest Merchants beat Forest Heights, 7-0, at Jefferson Playground. Bob Decker went over from the 3 for the only score of the game in the last quarter.

block on the Eagles' Vic Lindskog about 10 yards from the goal line. Pat Harder added the second of two conversions and the Cards had their fourth win in nine games.

Philadelphia started out as if to repeat the 45-17 shellacking it handed the Cards in Chicago earlier in the season.

The Eagles went 41 yards on 10 plays for the first score six minutes through the first quarter. Steve Van Buren's running and Tommy Thompson's passes sparked the advance, with Thompson pitching to end Pete Pihos for the six-pointer. Cliff Patton converted the extra point and the Eagles were ahead, 7 to 0.

Late in the second period, Thompson started from his own 20 and advanced to the Cardinal 8-yard line. Hustling Frank Ziegler, the Georgia Tech speedster, who netted 113 yards for the day, highlighted the attack with a 52-yard scamper on a reverse. But the offense stalled, and Thompson called on Patton to boot a 17-yard field goal and a 10-0 lead that stood up at half time.

Chicago finally found the answer to the Philadelphia defensive alignment early in the third session. With Frank Tripucka, former Notre Dame ace, setting the offense in action, the Cards traveled to the Philadelphia 15.

The big ground gainer was a 43-yard aerial, Tripucka to Bob Shaw who made a great grab of a perfectly thrown pass on the Eagle 16.

Cardinal Coach Curley Lambeau sent Jim Hardy in to replace Tripucka. On fourth down, Hardy tossed 15 yards to Elmer Angsman in the end zone to pull the Cards back into the ball game. That ended the scoring as the two teams fought to a Mexican standoff the balance of the afternoon.

Stars on Wolff Show

Bill Mathews of Maryland Park and Bucky Byrne of Gonzaga, The Washington Post and Touchdown Club High and Prep School Players of the Week, will be interviewed on the Bob Wolff sports show at 6 o'clock tonight on WWDC.

What . . . no more individualists?

According to reports reaching us, the rugged individualist is rapidly becoming a rare species in this country. He is seldom to be encountered in business or at a cocktail party, so we are told. Instead, men of today fall into a pattern that is highlighted by reading Life magazine, viewing TV every night, driving a car without a clutch and enjoying the outdoors through a great big window that never steams or frosts the view.

Well, we believed all this. Thought it grand but lamented the idea that there was no hope for any of us being men like Theodore Roosevelt, Napoleon or even G.B.S. Yes, we believed all this until we cantered by The Men's Store's "name tie" display.

Here . . . for the first time . . . we saw ties depicting firemen scampering up ladders from your stomach to your chin. Footprints of weird animals marched right up your chest. We inquired. Found out that these latest ties were selling like hot cakes. That they made knockout Christmas gifts. Also, that not one "name tie" was like its brother.

Now we've decided there must be individualists around. Plenty of them.

"Live and Let Live"

GOVERNMENT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
DEPARTMENT OF VEHICLES AND TRAFFIC
WASHINGTON 1, D. C.

ADDRESS REPLY TO
DIRECTOR OF VEHICLES AND TRAFFIC

September 12, 1950

To the Chevrolet Dealers of the Greater Washington Area:

I have just learned with deep satisfaction that the Chevrolet Dealers of Greater Washington will insert safety messages in all advertisements in their forthcoming promotion campaign.

To my knowledge there is no better way of reaching the motoring public so effectively nor could any more worthwhile contribution be made at this time.

The fall of the year invariably marks an upsurge in the traffic death and accident rate. Thus every means of reaching the driver must be marshalled and utilized.

These safety messages will remind many motorists of the dangers of driving at this critical time of the year and all of us concerned with traffic accident prevention gratefully welcome them.

Sincerely yours,

Geo. E. Keneipp

CHEVROLET

Thank you, Mr. Keneipp, for your commendation of our collective efforts. As leaders in the automotive industry, the Chevrolet Dealers have always been deeply concerned about the safety of every man, woman and child who drives, rides or walks. And we feel sure that our Chevrolet Owners, whose cars we make, sell and service share this responsibility with us, and you. And we urge every Chevrolet Owner to take advantage of the Free Safety Check offered by all Chevrolet Dealers in the Washington area...our contribution to greater safety for all!

FREE SAFETY CHECK!

These parts of your car are vital, to your own safety, to the safety of others. They receive constant wear, are subject to unending strain. They need the regular attention of competent mechanics.

Your nearest Chevrolet Dealer will have his Graduate Mechanics check your car absolutely free. So don't delay—do it today.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

STORY: A pretty newlywed Government girl and her husband attended a reception at an embassy. Afterwards, she confided to him that she had been gently patted by a member of the ambassador's staff.

"And you slapped him, of course," cried the outraged husband.

"But I couldn't do that," she answered.

"And why not?" he demanded.

"Why don't you know—he has diplomatic immunity!"

PERSONALS: Leo Werts will be sworn in today as deputy director of Labor's Office of Defense Manpower . . . Also to take the oath today will be Clarence Osthagen, Commerce's new administrative assistant secretary. Both appointments are boosts for the career service . . . Frank C. Broadbent, intelligence officer for the Army's Adjutant General's Office, has been given the meritorious civilian award for outstanding service . . . Frank Brassor, the Civil Service official, is helping to organize the new Communist Control Board which has offices in the RFC building.

RFC: Another sizable cut in personnel is brewing for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Insiders hint the slash will wipe out the jobs of from 500 to 1000 employes. Meantime, the agency has a job freeze on; it's doing no hiring to replace employes who leave. It's already down to less than 5000 employes compared with a World War II peak of about 13,000.

ARTHUR MERRITT, former director of information, has been promoted to special assistant to Chairman Harber, and he's heading up the reorganization study of the agency. On Capitol Hill, however, there's a move on to junk RFC's 5-man board of directors and replace it with a single administrator.

NOTES: Elizabeth Trucksess is the new president of AFGE's Public Housing lodge. Vice presidents are Charles King, Evelyn Gliem, Joe Belay, and Iry Potts; Ethel Cornell is secretary; and George Obata is treasurer . . . The District chapter of the International Association of Public Employment Services has elected the following officers, all Labor Department employes: Stuart T. D. Morrison, president; Victor R. Daly and Albert D. Misler, vice-presidents; Jewell Bolling, secretary, and Helena M. Hines, treasurer.

ROUND-UP: The Forand subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee is planning public hearings soon on the President's proposal to cover Federal workers into the unemployment compensation system . . . Henry C. Iler, AFGE president, is seeking a new wage survey of the District's per diem employes. The study undoubtedly will be made after the military announces higher rates for its 30,000 per diems here and nearby . . . Jack Evans of Commerce, is the new chairman of the Interdepartmental Lithographic Wage Board, and Paul Wilson of the Army, is chairman of the board's evaluation committee. The board's objective is to fix uniform wage rates for Federal lithographic workers in this area.

SHAKE-UP? Another slap at the Civil Service Commission is being debated on Capitol Hill. The two plans under discussion would both take power from the Civil Service Commission and give more authority over personnel problems to the individual agencies. They are:

1. To give the agency personnel directors more power and prestige by law; the personnel chiefs would be better paid and they would report only to their agency heads. One plan would have them appointed by the President and be subject to Senate confirmation.

2. An alternative is to set up, by law, a committee of a dozen or more key personnel directors to help the Civil Service Commission make key personnel policies.

Neither plan is likely to get congressional approval any time soon. It's significant, however, that both are aimed at the commission, and the people behind them are outspoken in their criticism of the commission and many of its policies.

And that isn't all. Several members of a very powerful committee are reported to be thinking in terms of an all-out inquiry of the Civil Service Commission and Federal personnel policies generally.

Owners Shot On Refusal to Open Shop

Assailants Flee After Wounding Brothers Closing Liquor Store

Two brothers, co-owners of a liquor store, were shot but not seriously wounded early yesterday when they refused to open the store for two armed men.

Benjamin and Phillip Stein of 7432 Georgia ave. told police they were standing outside their store at 31 Pierce st. nw. about 12:30 a. m., after closing up for the night, when they were accosted by the two men.

When they refused to open up the store, as the two demanded, one of the men struck Philip Stein in the face with the butt of his gun and then each of the assailants shot once at the two brothers, police said.

Both were struck in the right shoulder. They were admitted to Casualty Hospital, where their condition was reported as not serious.

After firing a third shot, which went wild, the two men fled on foot.

Police described the men as Negroes. One, about 35 to 38 years old, was wearing a tan sport jacket, dark pants and a dark brown hat. The other, about 30, had a thin mustache and wore a dark sweater and pants but no hat, police said.

General Has Flat Tire But Who Changes It? A Pfc. Named Ruth

By Bill Brinkley
Post Reporter

The women are back in the driver's seat at the Pentagon.

For the second time in history—the first was World War II—Wacs are releasing male soldiers in the U. S. Army Motor Center "for active combat duty."

The girls, and a right sharp-looking crew they are, don't merely drive the cars. They wash them, clean the motors, check the tires and such.

Last week pretty, trim Pfc. Ruth Trickey, 25, had a general in the back seat when whoosh! a flat.

Ruth and the general both got out. Who changed the tire?

"Why, I did, of course," said Pfc. Trickey. "After all you couldn't ask a general to get his uniform dirty."

That's the way Ruth wants it. You don't start right off motoring generals around, either. You work up to it, chauffeuring lesser fry first.

"We treat the Wacs exactly the same as men," says Col. A. F. Haynes, commanding officer of the giant car pool. "We expect just as much of them—by the same token we figh' for them just as hard."

Haynes and Master Sergt. Herchell Brewster, top noncom at the center, are old Army hands but having women in their command is a new experience. Both have been pleasant surprised by the performance of the women drivers.

"I'm used to giving orders to men, but with women, you know how it is . . ." says Sergeant Brewster a bit bashfully. "You have to talk a bit differently. I'll say this now . . . I think they make good drivers, as good as men."

Ninety percent of the girls are under 21 and they hail from all over the United States. Colonel Haynes is proud of the fact that since the first Wacs started arriving in August only one has had an accident — "and that happened when someone rammed into her while she was pulled up for a red light."

All have had regular civilian driving experience but that doesn't satisfy the Army. They get an intensive course inside first, then are put to "riding out" around town with other drivers before being sent out alone.

One of the big problems is learning the Washington street plan.

"This is one of the craziest towns I've ever seen," says Pvt. Mozelle Shrader, 18, of Carlsbad, N. M., speaking of Washington traffic. "You think you're on one street, you keep driving straight—and suddenly find you're on another."

Pvt. Dora Poulton, 18, thinks the driving may be easier in Redmond, Oreg., but is looking forward to tackling Washington soon as her "riding out" tour is over.

Most of the girls seem to prefer the outdoor life of driving to desk jobs. Pfc. Trickey, for example, used to work "in stocks and bonds" in a New York trust company before entering the Army and seeing the world from the driver's seat.

She loves it.

Iowa Visitor Saves Wallet From Gunman

Glaring headlights and his own courage kept a visitor from Des Moines, Iowa, and his wallet united last night.

Visiting at 1311 28th st. se., Maurice Repass, 60, was confronted by a young man with a gun when he left the house to enter his car. He responded to the demand for his wallet with an emphatic refusal. The holdup was stalemated for a minute, until the headlights of an oncoming auto distracted the thief. When Repass swung a punch, he told police, the gunman fled.

Post Moves Three More Departments

Business Begins Today at L St. For Advertising, Circulation Depts.

The advertising, circulation and promotion departments and classified telephone room of The Washington Post will do business today from the sixth floor of the new Post building at 1515 L st. nw.

These departments, were transferred from the old building at 1337 E st. nw. yesterday in a 12-hour moving job planned to avert any interruption of service to the public.

The front counter, executive, accounting, personnel and purchasing departments remain temporarily in the old building.

Those who wish to bring classified advertising to The Post in person will continue to take it to the front counter in the main floor lobby of the E st. building. Back issues of the paper also may be picked up there.

Fmployment and other personnel department business will be conducted until further notice in the third floor annex of the old building

Executive and purchasing offices, with the exception of the business manager's, will remain on the third floor and the accounting department, on the fourth floor of the old building until further notice.

The office of John W. Sweeterman, business manager, was moved yesterday, temporarily, to the sixth-floor conference room at the new building. His and other executive offices will be on the seventh floor at the L street address when that floor is completed.

Mail for all departments of The Washington Post should now be addressed to 1515 L st. nw. The Post's phone number, National 4200, remains unchanged.

At 7 o'clock last night The Post's classified telephone girls hung up their receivers in the old building for the last time.

Promptly at 8:30 a. m. today the 24-girl staff begins using equipment that is the newest thing in classified telephone gear.

The modern, intricate phone system is designed to give Post classified advertisers the best and fastest possible service in relaying their advertisements to the newspaper.

One Killed, 2 Injured In N.E. Car Collision

Electrical Foreman Crushed Against Windshield; Wife In Serious Condition

DISTRICT TRAFFIC TOLL:
1950 deaths to date.....60
1949 deaths to date.....63
Total 1949 death toll.....71

One person was killed and two others were hurt, one critically and one seriously, in a two-car collision at New Hampshire ave. and Peabody st. ne., yesterday.

Pronounced dead on the scene at 3:45 a. m. was Arthur J. Boissoneau, 34, of 3311 Chauncey pl., Mount Rainier, Md., driver of one of the cars.

Admitted to Emergency Hospital in critical condition with compound fractures of the right leg and arm and head and chest injuries was the driver of the second car, Alvin I. Argo, 44, of 6110 Sligo Mill rd. nw.

Mr. Boissoneau

His wife, Mrs. Virginia E. Argo, 41, was admitted to Casualty Hospital with severe scalp lacerations and a fractured right arm. Her condition is serious.

Police said Boissoneau was driving south on New Hampshire ave. when he crashed head-on into Argo's car, traveling north on New Hampshire ave. and starting to turn left into Peabody st.

Boissoneau was hurled partly through the windshield. Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said yesterday he died of a crushed chest and abdomen.

An Army Air Force veteran and resident of Washington since 1938, Boissoneau was employed as an estimator and foreman for the R. A. Burgess Co., electrical contractors, 4306 Georgia ave. nw.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gladys Boissoneau, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boissoneau, of New Bedford, Mass.

A former Metropolitan motorcycle policeman, Argo is now employed as a safe mechanic.

Two persons were injured, neither seriously, in the collision of a private car and taxicab at New Jersey ave. and K st. nw. about 7:30 a. m. yesterday.

Admitted to Casualty Hospital with injuries to her head and legs, was Mrs. Roberta Hartsfield, 35, of 6 I st. ne., a passenger in the taxicab. Her condition is not serious. Her 5-year-old daughter, Imogene, was treated at the hospital for a slight head injufy and released.

The cab was driven by James T. Washington, 40, of 2519 12th st. nw. police said. The driver of the car, LeRoy Williams, 37, of 25 K st. nw., was charged with failing to yield the right of way to another vehicle and elected to forfeit $50 collateral, they said.

In Maryland, the driver received head injuries when an automobile ran off the road and turned over several times. The accident happened about 12:15 a. m. on Route 240, between Gaithersburg and Rockville.

The driver, Frederick Palmer, 24, Box 5822, Bethesda, Md., was taken to Suburban Hospital by the Gaithersburg Rescue Squad and admitted in undetermined condition. A passenger in the car, John Fuller, 29, of the same address, was shaken up in the accident but did not require medical treatment, members of the rescue squad said.

Woman Shot To Death, Mate Is Held

A woman, wounded by her husband on two recent occasions, was shot to death by him late Saturday night during a family argument, police reported yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dixon, 35, of 215 9th st. se., died of bullet wounds in the chest and abdomen, according to Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald.

Her husband, Arthur Daniel Dixon, 42, arrested a short time after the shooting in the 1300 block of 7th st. nw., has been charged with murder. He will appear at a coroner's inquest today at 11:30 a. m. at the morgue.

Police said after his arrest he admitted shooting his wife with a rifle and wounding her, once last May, and again in June. She refused to prosecute on both occasions, they said.

Saturday night's argument was over some checks they had cashed, Dixon told police. He said she wanted to spend the money for Christmas gifts, while he wanted to use it to pay some bills.

Dixon fired six shots at his wife from a .38-caliber revolver, then fled after shoving the gun in a dresser drawer, police said.

Customer Loots Store Safe of $800

A customer slipped into the back office of the Calvert Hardware Store Saturday afternoon and took $800 in cash from the safe while the proprietor worked in the front of the store, police reported yesterday.

Frank F. Healy, 47, of 4103 W st. nw., said the cash and $435 in checks were taken sometime between 3 p. m., when he delved into the safe to get some change, and 6:15 p. m., when the store closed. The safe was not locked, he said.

Both he and a clerk, Frank Matthews had been busy in the store, taking care of customers, during the afternoon, he told police. Neither noticed anyone slip in or out of the office, he added.

The office has a back door leading to the outside, but it was locked the entire afternoon, Healy said.

Stork Beats Ambulance By Seconds

Within the shadow of the Bethesda Naval Hospital, the stork evened the score for the Dunn Loring Volunteer Ambulance detail.

Just a few weeks ago, that unpredictable bird had volunteers of the Dunn Loring Va., Fire Department racing an "emergency maternity" case to Arlington Hospital. Split-second timing got the patient there just a few minutes before the baby arrived.

But Saturday about 5:30 p. m., Mr. Stork got his feathers all ruffled—this time he was reluctant to wait. An 8-pound, 7-ounce baby girl was born in the same ambulance between the Bethesda Naval Hospital gates and the admitting office. It was the first child and—she's hoping—the last "ambulance" baby for Mrs. James J. Donnelly, 614 Washington ave., Jefferson Village, Falls Church, Va.

The mother-in-law, Mrs. Alyce L. Moore, celebrating her 18th wedding anniversary the same day, was in the back of the ambulance, too, assisting as volunteer midwife.

"Sweating it out" up front were Drivers Donald J. Iliff of Dunn Loring, Va., and Anton E. Groff, assistant chief of the firehouse.

Marine Pvt. James Donnelly, the father, is stationed at Portsmouth, N. H.

The drivers estimated later: "Two more minutes and we would have made it. But the stork had its way. Now we're all squared off."

Police Save 2 From Capsized Sailboat

Two youths got a cold dunking yesterday afternoon when their sailboat capsized in the Anacostia River off Buzzard's Point.

Taken ashore by Harbor Police after 15 minutes were Charles Inglehart, 19, a student at Catholic University, and James McCullough, 18, of 44 Varnum st. ne. Neither suffered ill effects.

Youth Beats Watchman, 74, In Alexandria

An Alexandria school watchman was severely beaten and robbed by an intruder late Saturday night.

The watchman, Rozier Taylor, 74, of 214 N. Payne st., was admitted to Alexandria Hospital for treatment of a contusion to his left eye, bruises on the forehead and lacerations of the mouth.

He told police he was on duty about 9 p. m. Saturday at the Parker Gray School, Madison and Payne sts., when he heard the sound of breaking glass. He walked into the hall and saw a young man come up from the basement.

When questioned, the young man insisted he had an appointment to meet someone there, Taylor told police.

To prove his statement, he offered to show Taylor where his friend lived, police said. Taylor followed him about two blocks from the school, where he assaulted Taylor and robbed him of his wallet, containing $40 in cash and his watch, Taylor told police.

Police said a basement window of the school had been broken but nothing was taken from the school.

Engineer Corps Dead Honored at Pohick Ceremony

Engineer Corps dead of the Nation's wars were honored yesterday by the unveiling of a plaque at Pohick Church, the church of George Washington located on the Fort Belvoir reservation.

Maj. Gen. Douglas L. Weart, Fort Belvoir post commander, participated in another ceremony during the service at which duplicates of lost altar vessels of historical significance were presented. The vessels, a bread box and two wine cruets of sterling silver, were purchased from donations in Fort Belvoir chapels.

Post Chaplain David E. Kinsler delivered the sermon at the morning service attended both by Fort Belvoir representatives and area religious leaders.

Arlington Navy Officer Wins Award for Youth Programs

MODEL TEACHER—Navy Lieut. John B. Burton, honored by the National Aeronautical Association for his work in helping youth learn about aviation, explains a model plane to Dick Stanard, 5, of 4618 6th st. S., Arlington

For "inspiring and effective leadership in planning and carrying out" the Navy's 1950 Air Youth Education programs, an Arlington lieutenant will be awarded the National Aeronautic Association's annual award.

Lieut. John H. Burton, 32, holder of three Distinguished Flying Crosses, now with the Navy's Office of Information, Civil Liaison Division, will be presented the Frank G. Brewer award. Announcement was made by Edward C. Sweeney, vice president of the National Aeronautic Association.

Leaders in the field of education and youth selected Burton for his work in "implementing the Navy's policy of assistance to educators and youthful model aviation enthusiasts."

Burton helped make 20,000 model aircraft plans available to youngsters, open facilities of the Naval Air Station to youth in some cases, and set up radio-controlled bomb-dropping exhibitions and carrier events for "would-be aviators."

He worked through Capt. Rob Roy McGregor who heads the Civil Liaison Division.

A native of Arlington, N. J., Lieutenant Burton lives with his wife and three children at 5526 N. 10th st., Arlington, Va. A graduate of Rutgers University, he saw 30 months of combat service in the Pacific. Beside the Distinguished Flying Crosses, he held four Air Medals and two Presidential Unit Citations.

Mother Told Daughter Died in Skyline Tragedy

Mrs. Florence Danton, recuperating from wounds suffered in last Wednesday's assault-murder on Skyline Drive, was told yesterday that her 4-year-old daughter Lynn is dead.

Nurses at her bedside in Front Royal (Va.) Hospital said Mrs. Danton "seemed resigned" when she heard the news. Her doctor saidsaid the 32-year-old District woman may be moved to the District in a few days.

Charged with the murder of their child and the assault on Mrs. Danton, her husband, Andrew Danton, 34, is being held at the Petersburg Federal Reformatory. The former Census Bureau official and his family lived at 3650 9th st. nw.

Jeannette Macdonald Sings, Jack Tait Plays Piano Here

By Paul Hume

It was a strange but no unusual afternoon yesterday.

Constitution Hall was filled—the occasion was a concert. The occasion was seldom musical.

The Phillips Gallery, holding about one-tenth the number o listeners of the larger hall, also was full. There, too, was a concert. And the occasion was nothing but musical.

Jeannette Macdonald sang in Constitution Hall. Jack Tait played the piano in the Phillips Gallery. Miss Macdonald is beautiful to behold. Her clothes, outside my department, are stunning. Her hat, her curtsy, her constant smile—all these are pleasing to the eye.

To the ear, Miss Macdonald has become a difficult thing to endure. In her soft tones, she has charm. But she tries to sing music, most of which is beyond her, vocally and artistically. For that matter, there is little evidence of musicianship in Miss Macdonald, but she has not made her name and fame as a musician.

Yet when she attempts to set before an audience several of the greatest songs in history (Morgen by Strauss, and music by Wolf, Brahms, and Dvorak) she places herself in inevitable competition with singers who are also musicians.

The large jewel that flashed from her throat dazzled many as its radiance reflected the spotlight held on her. Would that her voice could have dazzled too!

Her opera arias were Juliet's Waltz Song and Micaela's aria from Carmen. In addition to Lieder mentioned, she sang Scotch and Irish folk songs, and French lyrics by Rabey, Debussy, Hahn and Delibes, and an English-American group.

We may envy Miss MacDonald's drawing ability. But for music we will take the piano playing of Mr. Tait.

His program began solidly with the Chaconne of Bach, four sonatas of Domenico Scarlatti, and an unknown page by the Russian septuagenarian, Nicholas Medtner.

Tait has the fleetness and light coloring for Scarlatti, and for many passages of Bach's towering music. He played the Busoni arrangement, which is the best of the various transcriptions. His Scarlatti was a thorough joy.

In Bach, and in the larger moments of music generally, the talented young pianist needs to cultivate a tone of greater depth and variety. He could be an unusual colorist on the piano, which today we need more than ever.

But what a pleasure to see and year a young man so wrapped up in music that he needed no built-up glamour of lights, dress, or anything but a true gift for his instrument, and a substantial understanding of music.

Gross receipts in Constitution Hall were around $7000. The Phillips Gallery concerts are free. Washington is fortunate to have a variety of places for different kinds of entertainment.

Treasury to Show Film

United Synagogue Honors 3 Congregations...

The Washington Post

"DISTINGUISHED ACHIEVEMENT"—Receiving Solomon Schechter awards yesterday on behalf of their congregations are (at left) Rabbi Baruch Treiger of Reno, Nev.; Rabbi Milton Fleischer of Baltimore, and Rabbi Samuel Penner of Seattle, Wash. (right). With them (third and fourth from left) are Maxwell Abbell of Chicago, president of the United Synagogue of America, which made the awards, and Samuel Rothstein of New York, honorary president of the United Synagogue. Presentation was at the Willard Hotel

America's tradition of separation of church and state was recommended to the citizens of Israel yesterday by the United Synagogue of America.

The conservative Jewish group declared in a resolution that "the association of religion and politics is contrary to the best democratic traditions."

The group—composed of more than 400 congregations across the country—said it favored "the extension of these ideals to the State of Israel with the hope and prayer that the present involvement of religion in politics shall be unravelled . . . that all citizens in Israel shall find . . . a full expression of their religious ideals free from political pressure."

Urge Bible Broadcasts

In the final day of its five-day meeting, the convention also recommended "to the United States Government that there be included in the programs of the Voice of America appropriate Biblical readings daily in order that the religious basis of democracy be carried to the world."

The more than 600 lay leaders also indorsed the action of the Rabbinical Assembly of America in adopting a "self-draft" to meet the need for Conservative chaplains in the armed forces.

In the closing business session, Maxwell Abbell, of Chicago, president of the Abbell Hotel chain, was elected national president of the group.

3 Congregations Cited

He is one of the owners of the Willard Hotel where the meetings were held. He succeeds Samuel Rothstein, of New York City, who was named honorary president.

The convention also cited three congregations for "distinguished achievement" during the past two years.

Winners of the Solomon Schechter award were: Congregation Chizuk Amuno, Baltimore; Herzl Conservative Congregation, Seattle; and Temple Israel, Reno.

Renovation Of D.C. Church Celebrated

An estimated 1200 persons celebrated the completion of the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany's $150,000 rehabilitation project yesterday.

Its rector, the Rev. Leland Stark, observed the event by pointing out that "more important than the dedication of the fabric of the church is the rededication of ourselves to Christ and His church."

"There is more involved in this than just experiencing some vaguely warm feeling or sentiment toward God," he said. "Something special is called for, namely, the rededication of our talents, time and our means in the workhouse of God."

The rector also participated in a ceremony dedicating the great chandelier of the church to the memory of the late Dr. Charles W. Sheerin, rector from 1942-48.

For the past year, craftsmen have worked on the redecoration of the century-old church, as well as the refurbing of its physical structure, parish hall and office.

The Rev. F. B. Harris Recalls 26-Year Service

The Rev. Frederick Brown Harris recalled his 26 years as pastor of Foundry Methodist Church, 1500 16th st. nw., yesterday.

The 67-year-old minister spoke on Paul's word, "When I Came Unto You . . .," a phrase which sent him back across the yesterdays to the November Sunday in 1924 when he first came to the Capital.

"Since then," Dr. Harris reminisced, "together we have shared the boom of national prosperity, the depths of depression and the heartaches of global war and all its poignant anxieties, upsets, losses and tragedies."

Dr. Harris, who is also chaplain of the United States Senate, remembered too "the disappointments and frustrations of these postwar years with new tyranny threatening all the precious things we hold nearest of hearts."

However, the veteran pastor held out a hope.

"We hope that the United Nations may prove the beginning of an era when finally all men shall learn to live in safety and cooperation on this one world whose salvation depends on the practice of brotherhood. . . ."

Irene Boyle Retiring; British Embassy's Loss Is Long Island's Gain

By Marie McNair

AS the lion is to the unicorn and Yorkshire pudding is to roast beef, so is Miss Irene Boyle to the British Embassy.

But now, after serving almost two decades as social secretary at the embassy, Miss Boyle has announced her decision to retire. She'll go to Long Island to be with her long-time friend, American-born Lady Lindsay, widow of Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to the United States from 1930 to 1939.

It was Lady Lindsay, in fact, who brought Irene Boyle to Washington as her social secretary. And when Sir Ronald returned home, Miss Boyle remained, to serve as secretary for almost half a dozen Ambassadors, and to become a member of the embassy staff with the rank of attache. Two years ago she was awarded the Order of the British Empire for her faithful and loyal services to the Crown.

Irene Boyle has an austere type of beauty—clear hazel eyes and silver hair always beautifully coiffed. She's never lost her British reserve. Her outward calm, and poise are a bit frightening at times, unless you know her friendly nature beneath. It was once said that she got more Christmas cards than any other woman in Washington.

Her firmness and her tact came to the fore that June week in 1939 when the Ambassador and Lady Lindsay entertained at a garden party in honor of King George and Queen Elizabeth. A carefully culled group of 1400 had been chosen to attend. Three times that many had expected to be invited and there were many and varied high-pressure methods used to get invitations. The situation was a delicate one, but Irene Boyle met it with the finesse of a seasoned diplomat.

AMBASSADOR AND MRS. DAVID BRUCE in Paris are losing their social secretary and Washington is winning her back. She's Letitia Baldrige, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Malcolm Baldrige, who will entertain at a "welcome-home" cocktail party for her next Saturday at their home, 2101 Connecticut ave.

Miss Baldrige, who has been for two and a half years at our embassy in the French capital, returned on Thursday aboard the Ile de France. She's a Vassar graduate, attended the Geneva University in Switzerland and is an expert on the stenotype dictation machine. She speaks French perfectly.

NOW, AS HOLIDAY TIME draws near, comes the time for cotillions, balls and dances, and what is quaintly known as The Assembly.

Invitations are going out this weekend for the second annual Christmas Assembly dinner dance at the Sulgrave Club on December 28. This subscription party was inaugurated by a group of parents, for boys and girls in the last two years of prep school and boys in the first two years of college. As the boys and girls pass the age limit, sponsors are replaced by other parents with sons and daughters who have reached the age quota.

Committee members this year are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Carusi, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clifford Folger, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher M. Granger, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Nolen, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Stenhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Wigglesworth, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Wilson and Mrs. Francis Winslow.

NOTEBOOK NEWS: Marvin Braverman, recently in the limelight through rumors that he and Margaret Truman would wed, won a washing machine for a Bronx housewife this week. Mr. Braverman's face appeared on the "Top of the News" TV program Thursday morning. The housewife was reached through a telephone call by the announcer. "What does he do?" she was asked. "Lawyer" was the answer, and the washing machine was the reward.

Mildred Douglas, daughter of Justice and Mrs. William O. Douglas, who once made front-page news when she was found working as a soda jerker, has another job now. It's part-time work in the city library at Walla Walla, Washington, where she's a senior at Whitman College, majoring in economics and business administration.

Every week is book week for Mildred. Her favorite author, of course, is her dad, who wrote "Of Men and Mountains."

Mrs. Clark McIlwaine, who spent last summer at Newport, likes it so well that she's bought a house there. It's called Snug Harbor, is on fashionable Bellevue ave., and is known as the Baldwin Villa. With her for several months this year was her son-in-law and daughter, the Marquess and Marchioness of Milford Haven.

There's no other place like Washington for Herbert Bursley, a native son, who has resigned his post as Ambassador to Honduras, and will soon be heading home. A desk at the State Department is waiting for him.

Appeal Made For Fabrics And Clothing

By Dorothea Cruger

THE BEST PART of Christmas is the sharing. Sharing the season's joy with friends and family, AND sharing it with others who for some reason or another are less fortunate than ourselves. As the greatest season of giving comes around again, two organizations are reminding us of the need that exists in other parts of the world, and how much Christmas will mean to us if we share it with these needy.

An appeal for gifts of clothing and fabrics for the children and young people of Germany has been issued by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Under the auspices of the General Clay Fund, the Federation has arranged to send parcels to the German Youth Activities centers in Germany in time for Christmas.

Warehouse space has been reserved at Fort Myer for the parcels, which should be received there by December 10. Especially needed are cotton, rayon, woolen and other fabrics, cotton and woolen yarn, plus needles, thread, crochet hooks with which to work. Even scraps can be put to good use. Send parcels to General Clay Fund, Fort Myer, Va.

CARE IS CONTINUING to send food and clothing parcels to needy areas in Asia and Europe. Many of these parcels will go to friends and relatives of U. S. donors, while other "undesignated" parcels will be shipped to needy persons whose addresses were given to the agency. According to CARE, the countries where the need is the most critical this winter are Japan, Israel and Yugoslavia.

A special Christmas feature offered by CARE is the Holiday Package, which contains a whole turkey, weighing 7 lbs., coffee, butter, a plum pudding and other "trimmings" for a yule feast, for $15.50.

Other packages include the budget food parcel at $5.95, which contains coffee, sugar, rice, meat, etc., and baby food parcels, and special area boxes for Germany, Britain, the Far East, Israel and other countries. Contact CARE, 1013 Dupont Circle Building, Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Karrick Heads Concert Box Campaign

Mrs. David B. Karrick was appointed chairman of the box committee for the January 14 concert of the British pianist, Clifford Curzon, for the benefit of the Scholarship Fund of the Friday Morning Music Club Foundation. The announcement was made by Mrs. J. Horace Smithey, president of the club. The concert will be held in Constitution Hall.

Serving with Mrs. Karrick on the committee are Mrs. Clinton S. Raynor and Mrs. E. Milton Colbin, jr. Mrs. Jack Bryan is overall chairman of the concert campaign.

This is the second annual effort of the club to raise money for scholarships. $1000 was recently awarded in a national contest to a young Philadelphia violinist, Diana Steiner, who also appeared last Thursday as soloist with the National Symphony Orchestra.

The Curzon event is one of the regular recitals of Patrick Hayes' concert season. The Friday Morning Music Club is cosponsor of the concert.

Trumans Draw a Full House

EIGHT MOTORCYCLE POLICEMEN, a dozen Secret Service and twice that many policemen stationed along the route, were security measures used to guard President and Mrs. Truman when they attended the National Democratic Women's tea yesterday in their honor.

In addition, a fire engine was alerted. The clubhouse, recently redecorated and fireproof, had a clogged flue.

Before the President and First Lady arrived with their daughter Margaret, little groups of people gathered on street corners around the clubhouse at New Hampshire ave. and Q st. At 4:30 p. m., a half-hour before the Presidential party arrived, guests had filled the hallway of the club and had queued up outside on the brownstone steps.

Mrs. Fred Morrison, president of the club, wearing a deep blue velvet frock with cut-out yoke, chose a tiny cloche to match with pale pink lacquered feather clusters at each side. Mrs. Truman's black gown had a single revere of hyacinth blue velvet and her hat was of the same shade. Margaret, in a pleated black frock, wore a tiny black hat and veil sparkling with rhinestones.

MEMBERS OF THE Cabinet and their wives, and officers of the club assembled first in a small drawing room and were the first to go down the line. There were Attorney General and Mrs. J. Howard McGrath, Mrs. Dean Acheson, Mrs. Oscar Chapman, wife of the Secretary of the Interior, in a metallic cloth blouse of rose, green and gold over a black skirt (Mr. Chapman was in Chicago for an American Red Cross meeting); Mrs. Charles Brannan in trim black with white satin hat; the Postmaster General and Mrs. Jesse Donaldson, and Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer, and Mrs. Sawyer, with her auburn hair upswept, no hat, and wearing a slim black taffeta suit.

Then there were President Truman's Special Assistant Averell Harriman, and Mrs. Harriman, topping her navy blue frock with a head-hugging white hat fringed with soft feathers. The ladies had been asked to pour tea and coffee, the group also including Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, whose cerise hat had ostrich tips for trimming; Mrs. Joseph Davies in a hat of palest pink, and Mrs. Borden Harriman wearing a gay red velvet hat like a helmet.

IN THE THRONG of 600 members and husbands crowding the drawing rooms and the dining room, I saw Secretary of the Senate and Mrs. Leslie Biffle, pretty Mrs. John Steelman without her husband, who had flown down to see his brother in Tennessee and was due home last night; Miss Frieda Hennock, Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Frank Pace, President Truman's Air Force aide, Brig. Gen. Robert Landry, and Mrs. Landry; Capt. and Mrs. Francis Ulen, the Robert Freers and the Norman Littells, Admiral and Mrs. Clark Woodward going on to Mr. and Mr. Frank Redikers' cocktail party; Mrs. Ellen Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Jouett Shouse, Mrs. Joseph Casey, Mrs. Jackson Davis, Mrs. Montfort Moodie, Mrs. Lorton Sims, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Edwards and Deputy Postmaster General and Mrs. Vincent Burke.

FROM THERE to the Sulgrave Club, to the tea dance given by Mr. and Mrs. James H. Purdy and the latter's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Hunter Drum.

Mrs. Fred Britten, for one, was rejoicing in the revival of the dansant, so much a part of Washington's social life many years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davies had come from the Democratic Women's tea; so had Mr. and Mrs. James L. Houghteling, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Shears and Mrs. Carroll Cone.

The hostesses were hatless, Mrs. Purdy in straight black taffeta frock with orchids at the neckline; Mrs. Drum wearing Christmas red with wide neckline and ballerina skirt, vastly becoming to her bright brown eyes and deep brown hair.

On the dance floor or watching from the sidelines were Gen. and Mrs. Wade Haislip; Gen. and Mrs. Lewis H. Brereton, in the ballroom; Gen. and Mrs. Virgil Peterson, Gen. and Mrs. Franklin Babcock, Mrs. Davies Fitch in a red capeline hat with slashed brim, Mr. and Mrs. James McSherry Wimsatt, Mrs. George Thorpe, Mme. Vladimir Rybar, Mr. and Mrs. Pinkney Love, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Coffin and Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Holdrege.

THEN THERE were Mrs. Randall Hagner squired by George Williams, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Alexander, Mrs. Henry Flood, Mrs. Frank Slingluff, Mrs. Douglas Hatch, Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brewer Montgomery, Gen. and Mrs. John N. Greely, Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim and Mrs. Irene Caldwell.

Mrs. Edward Treglown in a soft-as-silk pale blue beaver was introducing the designer of the hat, Mary Goodfellow, in private life her sister-in-law, Mrs. Richard Doane.

Mr. and Mrs. James Souby were there and still others were Col. Claire Hardy, Capt. and Mrs. John P. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Felix de Weldon, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hill, jr.

MRS. FRANCES STAHL entertained at tea yesterday for the committee chairman of the Washington Opera Guild. Miss Claire Frances Stahl assisted her mother in receiving. Among those invited were Mrs. Virginia Rollwage Collier, Mrs. Hollis Imes, Mrs. T. Lindsay Howell, Mrs. Bernath Phillips, Mrs. Gardner Luce, Mrs. Carl Ellingson, Miss Dorothy Remington, Mrs. Morgan Reynolds, Miss Marjorie Eaton and Mrs. Ernest Bryan.

THE SECRETARY OF LABOR and Mrs. Maurice Tobin celebrated their eighteenth wedding anniversary yesterday in Miami Beach, Fla. and were guests of honor at a dinner at the Roney Plaza, given by Col. Ira M. Hamilburg, chief military aide to Gov. Paul C. Devers of Massachusetts. Governor Devers shared honors with the Tobins and served as master of ceremonies. Senator and Mrs. Francis Meyers were abong the guests and others were State Senator Charles Taylor of Massachusetts and William F. Hurley, president of the Boston city council. The Tobins are Bostonians.

MRS. O. K. LaROQUE, wife of a board member of the Home Loan Bank, entertained at luncheon on Saturday in the Madison suite at Wardman Park Hotel in honor of Mrs. Frederick Fries Bahnson of Winston-Salem, N. C.

Among the guests were Mrs. Lindsay Warren, Mrs. David Blair, Mrs. Charles Murphy, Mrs. Vance Weaver, Mrs. Nathan Townsend, Mrs. Copus Maynick, Mrs. John Carroll, Mrs. Joseph Graham and Mrs. Henry T. Bahnson of Baltimore, daughter-in-law of the guest of honor.

FORMER REPRESENTATIVE and Mrs. Charles Dewey entertained at luncheon yesterday for their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Byron Smith, who are visiting them from Lake Forest, Ill.

Other guests were Capt. Henry Wilkin, RN, and Mrs. Wilkin, newcomers to Washington; Mr. and Mrs. David Edward Austen, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Porter and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen V. C. Morris.

Another luncheon party yesterday was that of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Richard Hall Jeschke, who entertained for their niece, Miss Agnes Kemp Devereux, and her fiance, Clay D. Blair, jr.

Santa Offers Old Favorites

By Alleis C. Wilson

SOME OF THE ARISTOCRATS among imported toys are now residing on the shelves of the large toy departments. For the first time in more than a decade, toy buyers from this country have been able to travel to Europe to select extra special delights for the current set of toy-age youngsters.

W. C. Krapick, toy buyer for Woodward & Lothrop, visited the Old World toy centers last spring and secured a wide selection of unusual toys from Italy, Germany, Switzerland, France and England. Among them are realistic dolls, Swiss music boxes, large stuffed animals (including elephants and donkeys for politically-conscious Washington), miniature soldiers, costume dolls, furry mechanical animals, wheel toys and hosts of others.

Many of these will be completely new to today's small fry because they are nearly a half-generation too young to have enjoyed the pre-World War II toys from Europe.

KATHE KRUSE DOLLS—These are really portraits of small children in the family of the originator, Kathe Kruse. Molded in the likeness of grandchildren, children and nieces and nephews, they are each named and dressed like their human counterparts. Above, Alice, Martin and Cathleen. The dolls range in price from $16.95 to $35. The less expensive ones have painted hair, the others have human hair.

MARGARET STEIFF TOYS—The work of the originator of teddy bears—Margaret Steiff—is being carried on by her descendants who operate a factory, Germany producing teddy bears and many other soft plush toys. Pictured here are the ones large enough for a small child to ride. A St. Bernard dog, stout enough for Alpine rescues, is $25. A medium-size bear costs $35. And the jumbo-size elephant, complete with bell and blanket, is $85.

ENGLISH DOLLS—Made of felt, they include story book children as well as young moderns. The well-dressed larger doll shown here at right costs $12.95, and will make a favorite companion for almost any fashion-conscious young doll collector.

IT'S ENCHANTING—This Swiss music box at left is shaped like a small chalet in the Alps. When the roof is lifted the box plays. Price, $6.95. Another music box is the carved picture of the interior of a Swiss cottage. It is wound by pulling a short cord, $10.95.

ENGLISH TOYS—An English-made sewing machine is just right for young seamstresses. Hand-operated, it actually sews with a loop stitch. Boxes of miniatures made with fine attention to detail will delight all little boys. The sets include groups of soldiers, cowboys, zoo animals and farm animals. Cowboy group shown is $1.50. Larger sets sell for up to $6.95.

Eye Color Gives Life To the Whole Face

By Ann Lawrence

BLANCHE GAVE TWO reasons for never having used eye make-up. First, she thought it would make her look older and give her face a "hard" look. And in the second place, she declared that "it just seemed like too much trouble to put it on."

Yet, with her red-blond hair and ruddy complexion, with lashes and brows so pale they were almost invisible, her face had an all-one-color look that was both monotonous and aging.

To add color to the eye area would give the eyes themselves more sparkle and make them seem larger.

FIRST, THE EYEBROWS were carefully shaped into an arched line, with only the hairs from the underside of the brow pulled away. This enlarged the whole eye area, as it "lifted" the brow from the eye itself. To foreshorten her nose—again, to make her face seem more oval—the brows were tweezed away from the bridge of the nose, but no hairs were removed from the far corners of the brow.

In fact, when the eye pencil was feather-stroked on to each fine hair, the corners were slightly extended. This brought color out to the sides of the face and relieved the solid breadth of space.

In choosing an eyebrow pencil color for Blanche, we looked at three different pencils. "But they're all brown," she exclaimed. "What's the difference?"

WE EXPLAINED THAT although all pencils are labeled simply "brown," there are actually three shades of brown; red-brown, blue-brown and yellow-brown. You have to look carefully to determine which is which. A red-brown pencil would only have accented the florid complexion tones we were trying, with all her make-up, to play down. A blue-brown pencil is more flattering to ash blond or white hair. The yellow-brown would give enough contrast between hair and brows and would also blend harmoniously with her powder foundation.

Because her lashes are so pale and short, although quite thick, color was needed from the roots to the tips. Applying mascara to the tips was a simple enough job and Blanche found that she could do it easily, just by steadying her arm on her elbow and working with very little mascara on her brush. Each lash was brushed with color, from the root out to the tip.

BUT TO GET THE COLOR down to the roots, she needed a trick—and practice. The trick is quite easy: Simply take a well-sharpened eyebrow pencil and holding it horizontally along the edge of the lid, pencil lightly at the very bottom of the eyelid, where the lashes start. Then with the tip of your little finger, push the color down onto the roots. If the eyebrow pencil is not soft enough to blond easily, dip it first into some cream.

This is not the easiest make-up trick in the world, but Blanche learned it in a few moments and she agreed it was one of the most effective for adding brilliance and luster to her eyes.

The subtlest touch of eye shadow, in a soft blue-gray shade, was the final touch—the shadow blended on with the forefinger, and spread lightly from the center of the eye, up and out to the edge of the eye socket.

Blanche's comment on the eye make-up: "I don't look so tired and washed-out anymore."

Still Full Skirts For Those Who Prefer

If you like full skirts better, or if your figure simply can't take a slim sheath, for goodness' sake buy a fuller-skirted dress! There's nothing in the fashion book that says you must be sheep and follow fashion as slavishly as all that.

Fuller skirts still have their place in fashion. The number that I see in the collections of our best American dressmakers proves that. Also every Paris couturier still showed some fuller skirted dresses. They had to—too many of their private customers wanted them.

I myself know several women who countermanded their early orders for slim sheaths and bought dresses with easy fullness instead. Don't be afraid to do likewise if that's what you like!

Korean Service Wives Hold a Monthly Reunion

Fifteen service wives who were evacuated from Korea two years ago had another of a series of monthly reunions November 15 at the Watergate Inn.

The 15 are the partial "membership" of a very unofficial club consisting of wives of officers and enlisted men from all the services who were recently in Korea. Various hostesses from the group entertain other members once a month at a luncheon, this being the second of the present season and presided over by Mrs. Jesse B. Schooley and Mrs. Malcolm F. Gilchrist.

All wives of servicemen in Korea are invited to join, Mrs. Schooley said.

Among the guests at the reunion was Mrs. Orlando Ward, wife of the general who commanded the Sixth Division.

Pioneer Women Celebrate Silver Jubilee

Oscar Ewing Lauds Program

LOW PRODUCTIVITY, ignorrance, disease and poverty are the four horsemen of communism, Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing told D. C. Pioneer Women at their silver jubilee banquet celebration last night in the Mayflower Hotel.

Drawing a parallel between the welfare work of Pioneer Women in Israel, and President Truman's Point Four Program for all undeveloped areas of the world, Mr. Ewing warned that "it is not enough for a nation to have courage and determination" to survive. Not even the principles of democracy are enough.

"Today we have learned the hard way that no nation is strong unless its people are strong—unless they are healthy and adequately fed and housed, with a decent opportunity to improve their standard of living continuously," he said, adding that the same truth applied to the United States as to Israel.

PIONEER WOMEN, who have sponsored health, education and youth projects in Israel, are giving the whole world an example of how to tackle universal problems of underdevelopment, Mr. Ewing said.

Over 600 members and guests of the organization filled up the grand ballroom of the Mayflower to hear Mr. Ewing's address and to participate in the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration.

Presiding was Mrs. Murray Frank, chairman of the Silver Jubilee Committee. The program was opened by Mrs. Morris Golden, president of the Council of Pioneer Women of Washington.

GUESTS OF HONOR were two women leaders from Israel, Reba Idelson, a member of the parliament, and Mrs. Elisheva Eshkol, leader of the labor federation Histadrut.

Greetings on behalf of the Israel government were extended by Ambassador Moshe A. Tov, member of the Israel delegation to the United Nations and special emissary to the Latin American countries. Mrs. Ray Levitt of New York, national vice president of Pioneer Women, greeted the guests on behalf of the organization's national leadership.

SITTING ON THE dais as guests of honor were Assistant Secretary of Labor Philip Keiser, FCC Commissioner Frieda Hennock, Dr. and Mrs. Walter C. Lowdermilk, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, former United States Ambassador to Norway; Dr. Moshe Keren, Counselor of the Israel Embassy, and Mrs. Keren; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Freilicoff, veteran Labor Zionists in Washington, and others.

STARRING AT THE SILVER JUBILEE celebration of the Pioneer Women yesterday were (left-right) Moshe Tov, Israeli delegate to the U. N.; Mrs. Murray Frank, jubilee chairman, and Oscar R. Ewing, Federal Security Administrator. Mr. Ewing was guest speaker

Down Mexico Way, Folks Learn to Like Enchiladas; Here's How to Make 'Em

AMONG THE MOST FASCINATING foods in our country are the dishes of the Southwest, where the Mexican influence makes itself felt. Having enjoyed these hot-with-pepper treats during the war, M. S. writes:

DEAR ANNE:

During the war, I ate enchiladas which were covered with a melted cheese sauce and grated onion. I have recently seen an enchilada recipe in another paper but it doesn't sound like those I ate. Do you have a recipe for such a dish? Any other Mexican recipes would be appreciated. M. W., Washington.

PHOENIX ENCHILADAS

1 pint red chili sauce
Salt
12 tortillas (see below)
1 cup chopped onions
3 cups grated cheese
1½ cups chopped green olives
Shredded lettuce

Melt 2 tablespoons fat in a skillet and add the chili sauce and salt to taste. Cook slowly about 5 to 10 minutes and set aside but keep hot until needed. Heat remaining fat in another frying pan. Fry 1 tortilla at a time, turning over 2 or 3 times to make it both hot and flexible, then dip in hot chili sauce. Place flat on a dish and sprinkle onions, cheese, and olives across center. Roll and arrange in serving dish. Keep hot. When all are prepared, sprinkle with more cheese, onions, olives, and shredded lettuce and serve hot. This serves 4.

TORTILLAS
(Corn Cakes)

Tortillas are traditionally made by hand, a technique acquired by long practice. The following method is said to be a practical one for the inexperienced.

1 15-ounce can hominy
1 tablespoon corn meal
2 tablespoons cold water

Drain hominy, put through fine food chopper twice. Add corn meal and water and mix well. Roll dough with hands into small biscuits about 1½ inches in diameter and ½ inch thick. Cover a breadboard with a moist napkin. Place biscuit on napkin and cover with another moist napkin. Place a second breadboard on top of upper napkin and exert an even pressure upon the board until biscuit has a wafer-like thickness. When the napkins are carefully removed, biscuit will have become perfectly round with smooth edge. Place on extremely hot, slightly greased griddle. After 2 or 3 minutes turn with pancake turner. When slightly browned, remove and place between cloths to keep warm. Makes 12 tortillas.

A number of other Mexican recipes are found in "The United States Regional Cookbook," by Ruth Berolzheimer (Halcyon House.) You can probably find this in a public library. Perhaps readers from Texas and points west will be kind enough, too, to suggest a book they like on Mexican cookery.

DEAR ANNE:

I am seeking a bamboo shade for my kitchen window, size 55 inches wide and 48 inches long. Can you or your readers advise me where to seek one? I have tried several downtown department stores and am told they do not fit to size. Mrs. B. A., Greenbelt, Md.

These can be ordered through interior decorators or through one of the Connecticut ave. stores that specializes in modern furniture. Check firms listed under "Interior Decorators" in the yellow telephone book.

DEAR ANNE:

In reply to the query of Mrs. J. L. F., of Falls Church, Va., in your column recently, as to where garbanzos may be bought, they can be bought at an Italian counter on the 5th street side of the 5th and K sts. market. They are known in English as "chick peas" and are sold at this counter as "ceci," the Italian name. The Spanish name, as she indicated, is garbanzos.

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT Court for the District of Columbia. In the matter of the acquisition of Lot 57 in Square 753 in the District of Columbia. District Court, Docket No. 3259. Order for surrender of possession and citation to respondents. Upon consideration of the petition of the United States of America and the declaration of taking filed herein on the 8th day of November, 1950, by Charles M. Irelan, Attorney, Lands Division, Department of Justice, acting under the instructions of the Attorney General of the United States at the request of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, seeking the condemnation of Lot 57 in Square 753 in the District of Columbia, as more particularly described in the petition for condemnation and declaration of taking herein, for the public use, that is to say, for the suitable development of the park, parkway and playground system of the National Capital, and it appearing to the court that the public purpose for which the land in this proceeding is to be acquired requires that the United States have possession of the above land and premises forthwith, it is by the court this 8th day of November, 1950, adjudged and ordered that J. Ninian Beall, trustee, Continental Building, 15th and K Streets NW.; Rizel O. Belt, trustee, Union Trust Building, 15th and H Streets NW.; Stanley T. Ewell, trustee, 1415 K Street NW.; Cyrus E. Houston, 623 2nd Street NE.; Louise Houston, 623 2nd Street NE.; Walter Miller, trustee, 1415 K Street NW.; Third Realty Corporation, c/o Norman Bernstein, 1415 K Street NW.; all the foregoing of the City of Washington, District of Columbia, being the parties named in said petition; and in the event that any of the foregoing persons is deceased, the heirs, alienees and devisees of such person; and all persons having or claiming to have any right, title, interest or estate in the land hereinbefore described or to be entitled to compensation in respect of the taking of the same for public use, and all persons occupying or in possession of the same be, and they are hereby, required to surrender possession of the land above described to the United States of America on the 15TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1950. And it is further adjudged and ordered that said parties be, and they are hereby, required, cited and admonished to appear in this court on the FOURTH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1950, at 10 o'clock a. m., to answer this petition and make claim for the compensation to which they deem themselves entitled; provided, however, and it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published once a week for three consecutive weeks in The Washington Post, a newspaper of general circulation published in the District of Columbia, and also once a week for three consecutive weeks in the Washington Law Reporter, the first of said publications to be not later than the 13th day of November, 1950; and it is further ordered that a copy of this order be served before the return day hereof by the United States Marshal for the District of Columbia, or his deputy, upon the above-named persons and corporation. JENNINGS BAILEY, Judge. A true copy. Test: (Seal.) HARRY M. HULL, Clerk. By H. B. DERTZBAUGH, Deputy Clerk.

Filed Oct. 23, 1950. THEODORE COGSWELL, Register of Wills, D. C. Clerk of Probate Court.
UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT for the District of Columbia holding a Probate Court. In re Emma Meyenberg, deceased. Administration No. 75878. Order fixing new date for trial and providing for publication. The notification as to the trial of the issues in this case relating to the validity of the paper writing dated the 5th day of August, 1948, purporting to be the last will and testament of Emma Meyenberg, deceased, having been returned as to the Anne Lee Memorial Home, Alison Scott Hanson, George C. Reinhardt, Elizabeth Hanson Pope, Judith C. Hanson and Celia C. Hanson, infants, and Mrs. Francis Hoague, their custodian, "not to be found," it is by the court, this 23rd day of October, 1950, ordered that said issues be set down for trial on the 11TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1950, and that this order and the substance of said issues be published once a week for four successive weeks in the Washington Law Reporter and twice a week for the same period in The Washington Post, the substance of said issues being as follows: One: Was the paper writing filed in this Court and bearing date the 5th day of August, 1948, the last will and testament of Emma Meyenberg, deceased? Two: Was the said paper writing dated the 5th day of August, 1948, purporting to be the last will and testament of Emma Meyenberg, deceased, executed and attested in due form, as required by law? Three: Was the said Emma Meyenberg at the time of the making and subscribing of the acknowledging by her of the said paper writing of sound and disposing mind and capable of executing a valid deed or contract? Four: Was the said paper writing dated the 5th day of August, 1948, obtained, or the execution thereof, or the subscription thereto procured from the said Emma Meyenberg, deceased, by fraud or deceit practiced upon the said Emma Meyenberg by Lotta M. Dorroh or any other person or persons? Five: Was the paper writing dated the 5th day of August, 1948, obtained, or the execution thereof procured from the said Emma Meyenberg, deceased, by the undue influence or duress, or coercion of Lotta M. Dorroh or any other person or persons? BURNITA SHELTON MATTHEWS, Judge. A true copy. Attest: (Seal.) ELLA G. BROWN, Deputy Register of Wills for the District of Columbia, Clerk of the Probate Court.

WHEATON AREA—Lot ½ acre with trees, level; near schools, transp., shopping. Call WI. 8907.

500 ACRES located about 4 blocks beyond the District line in the zone of the new South Capitol St. Bridge. 100 acres already sold. This bridge is operating now with a capacity of 50,000 automobiles a day. Sears & Roebuck has just bought a large tract over here for a department store and I understand that they are negotiating for another big tract on another road leading right into my property for another department store. The Hot Shoppe has just bought a little over an acre right near my acreage for $50,000. Shopping centers on the Virginia end of the 3 bridges are worth a million dollars an acre. When I built Chevy Chase, D. C., some of the land I paid $3000 an acre for is now worth 2 million dollars an acre. I made a modest profit but my customers made the big profit. There is no reason why this property in the South Capitol St. Bridge area when the shopping area is completed will not be worth from one to two million dollars an acre someday. Fulton R. Gordon, owner, reach me at OL. 4408. Brokers' attention.

ACREAGE, SALE 75

MARYLAND

IT SEEMS like sitting on the top of the world. I am on a big hill, setting back 500 feet from the Congressional Club on River rd. This hill is about 600 ft. wide, about 1000 ft. deep and furnishes the finest setting for a home in this part of the United States. It gives you a thrill every time you turn in to the gate to see the beautiful white house on the hill. It looks like Mt. Vernon, although it has a better setting than George Washington's house in Mt. Vernon. People stop at the gate and take pictures of the property. It is so beautiful. This property is not for sale. It is my home. I have another 40-acre hill adjoining it that has as fine a setting for a home as this hill. That's where they ought to build the White House. The present house where President Truman lives has a very poor setting—it is flat, you can't make a nice setting without a hill—therefore the President should live on the adjoining hill to mine and use the present White House for his office. This adjoining and other hills can be had as an entirety at $6500 an acre. That is what it cost me when you figure taxes and interest for the 22 years I have owned it. Fulton R. Gordon, owner, reach me at OL. 4408. Brokers' attention.

Berlin Paper Hits Opera Production Of Russian Work

BERLIN, Nov. 19 (AP).—The Soviet Control Commission's official newspaper furiously denounced the Communist-controlled opera company in East Berlin today as "unfriendly to the great Russian people."

In a scorching front-page editorial the Taegliche Rundschau charged that the East Berlin premiere of "Ruslan and Ludmilla" last Friday had been mishandled from start to finish. The opera by Russian composer Mikhail Glinka is based on a fairy tale by Alexander Pushkin.

"The whole production carried the stamp of decadence," the Soviet organ complained. "In a series of scenes, unhuman ghosts instead of people appeared on the stage. The ballet moved in half-darkness like pale shadows covered in ashes."

D. C. Barber Shop Quartets Defeated By N. J. Harmony

The second and third best quartets in the mid-Atlantic States district of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., belong to Washington.

The high-ranking aggregations are the Singing Squires and the D. C. Keys, who finished behind the Molloaires of Penns Grove, N. J., in the regional contest at the George Washington High School in Alexandria Saturday night.

Voices in the second place Squires quartet belong to Lou Simms, tenor; William Shanahan, lead; Dean Snyder, baritone; and Elton Woolpert, bass. The D. C. Keys feature Mickey Beale, tenor; Vincent Gengerich, lead; Jesse Nussear, baritone, and Edward Place, bass.

Winchell Got That Cadence From Ben

By Tex McCrary and Jinx Falkenburg

FOR 16 YEARS, Ben Grauer sold lotion to the audience Walter Winchell collected every Sunday night—the highest compliment Winchell ever paid anybody was to borrow his audience from Ben. A case of osmosis.

Grauer

Milton Berle inherited more than a voice from Ben—Milton fell heir to a whole career: "In the beginning," says Ben, in a voice weaned on headlines and commercials, "I was a child actor . . . played the sissy in 'Penrod.' I was getting set for a vaudeville act with an actress named Elizabeth Kennedy—I was to play the role of a brash office boy, doing a parody on the balcony scene from 'Romeo and Juliet.'

"At the last minute, my parents decided it would be best for me to stay in school—but my mother didn't want to leave the act in the lurch, so she called up a friend of hers:

"'Sandra,' she said, 'What's your little boy Miltie doing?' Said Sandra, 'Nothing much.' And that's how the team of Kennedy & Berle was born—Milton Berle's first big act in show business!"

At the top of a less lucrative career than Berle's, Ben can look back over 20 years of covering the launching of ships from the "trigger pit" beneath the keel—broadcasts from a diving bell—announcing the program of a 16-piece orchestra from a plane—political conventions and historic elections—and giving away the first "big money" over the air:

"The program was 'Pot O' Gold,' the prize was only $1000 . . . and there were six months of conferences with the Treasury Department beforehand, to decide whether or not it was a lottery. Movie business all over America slumped the night 'Pot O' Gold' hit the air—people were scared they might be phoned and they wouldn't be home to answer!"

MILLIONS OF AMERICANS have felt Ben's voice tingle their spines, but he hit maximum intensity the time he aimed a whole network at a single hunted criminal—the kidnapper of the Lindbergh baby. Ben broadcast a baby's formula to Bruno Hauptmann . . . the baby was already dead.

Newsdealers will tell you that the Morro Castle fire at sea off the Jersey coast sold more papers on the news stands than Pearl Harbor—but no newspaper captured a tenth of the excitement that Ben Grauer caught, by grabbing the first soaking survivor to swim ashore: "I pulled him into a phone booth and called N.B.C. in New York . . . the engineers there patched the phone connection into the network—completely illegal. I'd never try that today, and even if I should try, no network would carry it. That was a good interview—quality was lousy . . . but nobody was listening for quality."

For Ben, television has robbed viewers of a special pleasure—imagination: "I'd hate to have an illustrated edition of 'Treasure Island' on my bookshelves . . . I'd like to dream up the looks of Long John Silver in my own mind's eye. And the best 'Hamlet' I ever saw, I didn't really see at all—it was the radio version years ago, with all the scenery bursting in your own brain . . ."

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Now Maybe Bill Can Be A Baseball Umpire

Several times I have gone to my doctor and said: "Doc, I think I've got something in my eye." Each time he's examined me and pronounced: "There's nothing in your eye. You just have a touch of conjunctivitis."

The other day I dropped into his office determined to beat him to the proper diagnosis. "I think it's a touch of those conjunctions again," I said.

"No," he countered after an examination. "You have something in your eye that's scratched it up pretty well."

Today I'm wearing a black patch over one eye, and discovering that the temporary (I hope) loss of half of my sight is mighty inconvenient.

In walking or driving a car I find that my judgment of speed and distance have been impaired, as has my sense of balance. Even worse, there's a blind spot on one side that can be overcome only by learning to turn the head more than one normally does.

In the supermarket Saturday night, for example, I bumped into the same woman three times. I think she was getting ready to haul off and crack me one—patch or no patch.

The worst of it is that tonight, at Hyattsville High School, I'm slated to help judge a beauty contest. It looks like my one good eye is going to get a thorough workout.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

I'm interested in your occasional comments about television, because in our house we've found that it has changed our whole way of living.

My husband and I are ashamed to admit it, but in the year we've owned a TV receiver we haven't read a single book, and have seen only five movies. By the time we've finished the daily papers, there isn't even time to read any of the 11 magazines we get—because we're busy with the television set.

Now we don't see how we could live without it, particularly since we have a 3-year-old daughter who keeps us tied to the house.

Mrs. H. E. Nickey,
2868 S. Buchanan st.,
Arlington, Va.

Dear Mrs. Nickey:

There's no denying that television has been a powerful force in changing American leisure time habits.

But I suspect that its permanent effects have been greatly exaggerated.

Radio was supposed to ruin the phonograph record business. And for a while the record people actually did experience some hard times. But today they're doing more business than ever.

The movies, it was predicted, would wreck the legitimate theater. But the Depression hurt the stage far more than Hollywood ever did, and prosperous times brought a heartening revival in that field.

Every new invention causes changes and dislocations. But eventually we learn how to incorporate these new things into an orderly, balanced existence. And I'm sure TV will be no exception.

We already have statistics to show that after the first year of ownership, most families renew their interest in reading, movies and the various other activities temporarily pushed aside by the new toy.

Meantime, television is serving to keep many families at home nights—and together. And that's no catastrophe in my book. Bill.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Puppies." (Tower 5271.)

"Housebroken male kitten." (Lincoln 3-5620 after 9 a. m.)

"Six-week-old pups, mixture shepherd and hound; fat, healthy, sleep out." (Indian Head 3094.)

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

W. M. Devine of 234 F st. nw. says that my crack about not having had a bath in years not only served to introduce a debate regarding tubs versus showers, but also recalled to his mind a humorous advertisement.

It was used "many years ago by the Pears Soap people," he says, and I'll have to take his word for it, because it was obviously too long ago for a young fellow like me to remember.

At any rate, the billboards showed a hobo writing a testimonial letter which said: "Four years ago I used Pears Soap, and since then I have used no other."

CLUB STUFF

At the last District Liners meeting, Poet Jay Aitch and Leonidas "Santa Claus" Beall somehow got to discussing the drinking habits of Scotsmen.

"How much Haig and Haig do you suppose a Scotchman can drink?" asked Jay.

"Oh," replied Beall with a Santa Claus twinkle in his eye, "I'd say 'any given amount.'"

THIS IS WASHINGTON

Excerpt from the remarks of CAA Administrator D. W. Nyrop at the Monument Toastmasters Club dinner meeting the other night:

"I'm told that, in a town like this, it's comparatively easy to get guest speakers, and perhaps a bit more difficult to get distinguished guests. The real problem is getting an unoccupied banquet room."

Federal Civil Defense Plans Lag

By Drew Pearson

With Russia now building up a stockpile of approximately 28 atomic bombs and with the cold war turned into a hot war in one part of the world, the Federal Government is lagging far behind American cities in preparing against atomic attack.

PEARSON

As of today, President Truman still has not appointed a chief for civil defense, and present civil defense planning is temporarily in the hands of Stuart Symington's brother-in-law, likable but inexperienced J. J. Wadsworth.

Meanwhile, the American Municipal Association has prepared a confidential survey of civil defense plans showing considerable criticism of Washington for dragging its feet. The survey also shows that 150 key cities are going ahead with their own defense plans, with two cities—Norfolk, Va., and San Mateo, Calif., claiming to be 75 percent ready for atomic attack. Manchester, Conn., estimates it is 70 percent prepared and Uniontown, Pa., 65 percent.

Meanwhile, many large cities, such as San Francisco, San Diego, Schenectady and Wichita, have hired fulltime civil defense directors, while other smaller towns—Niagara Falls, N. Y., Jackson, Mich., and Wilmington, N. C.—are relying on volunteer directors.

Uniontown, Pa., has organized its beauty shops as first-aid centers in case of emergency. San Angelo, Tex., is ready to draft its taxicabs and bus system for emergency evacuation. El Paso, Tex., has made a pact with Juarez across the Mexican border for mutual aid in case of atomic attack.

Evacuation Centers

A few smaller cities near big cities are voluntarily setting up machinery to handle evacuees. For example, Bloomington, Ind., is preparing to care for evacuees from near-by Indianapolis and Louisville. Kingston and Oswego, N. Y., also regard themselves as evacuation depots for bigger New York cities.

Evacuation plans also have been worked out by San Diego and Southgate, Calif., Mount Vernon and New Rochelle, N. Y., Dearborn and Wyandotte, Mich., Salisbury, N. C., Atlanta, Ga., Fargo, N. D., and Newton, Mass.

One of the best-prepared cities is Schenectady, N. Y., which has even figured the bridge loads and clearances on emergency, escape routes from the city.

At least three cities—Seattle, Chicago, and Washington, D. C.—have staged mock bombings to test their civil defense systems. San Diego, Calif., and Revere, Mass., are using television to explain civil defense to the public. Many other cities, such as St. Paul, Minn., Richmond, Calif., and Auburn, N. Y., are putting out their own disaster manuals.

The chief complaint from the cities is lack of coordination and cooperation from the Federal Government. Though only 50 percent of the cities commented on civil defense needs, "31 percent believed the primary deficiency is lack of detailed information and plans from the higher level of Government. Responsibility for lack of information was generally laid upon the Federal Government rather than the State Government. . . .

"Many cities feel keenly the lack of training manuals. Many felt that the Federal Government has been inordinately slow in producing material. Criticism of State-local relations hinges generally upon the lack of guidance in the coordination of local civil defense programs and irritation induced by the duplication of State and local civil defense efforts."

Paradoxical Act

Few people realize all the problems Senator Pat McCarran has created by his hurriedly written, so-called anti-Communist law.

For instance, Romula Betancourt, ex-president of Venezuela and long-time resident of the United States, recently flew to Havana to organize a Western Hemisphere peace conference in support of the United States. Betancourt, who ranks among the 10 top men in Latin-American prestige, wanted to offset the phony Communist propaganda for peace. However, his government is now a dictatorship, which, under the McCarran Act, cannot send its citizens to the United States of America.

So when Betancourt went to the American Embassy in Havana to apply for a re-entry visa, he was denied one under the McCarran Act. Finally, the State Department permitted this good friend of the United States of America to come to Washington for 30 days only to close his house, then move to Havana permanently.

The State Department is also disturbed because Emilio Suri Castillo, speaker of the Cuban House of Representatives and secretary general of the powerful Cuban sugar workers, has now been denied a visa to the United States because he was once a member of the Communist Party for a brief period in the 1930s.

The paradoxical fact is that Speaker Castillo is the author of Cuba's own anti-Commie law, which he wrote partly at the request of American officials.

But now, under the McCarran Act, Castillo can't come to Washington.

Lady on High Court?

It seems a little early to talk about it, but female admirers of Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, first lady ever to be Assistant Secretary of Defense, have another promotion in mind for her. They want her to be the first woman ever appointed to the Supreme Court.

IT'S LIKE Christmas morning every morning! . . . at suburban Washington's Great Toy Show . . . The Hecht Co. Silver Spring. Youngsters squeal with delight at the eye-popping treasures. Moppets dash from the walking dolls to the talking dolls, to the new-baby dolls. They gaze in open-mouth wonder at the shrieking, rumbling, smoking trains. Cow-pokes speak knowingly of the most-wanted features in guns, in chaps. Young acrobats straddle bikes and trikes for size. There is so much to see, so many wonderful toys to pick from, that shopping at The Hecht Co. Silver Spring is as much fun as a holiday. Santa is here, of course, for confidential communications. The Disney windows are a special treat. Shop Monday and Friday, 12:30 to 9:30 P.M. Parking space adjacent to the store. Downtown shoppers will find the same fascinating goings-on at our F Street Store.
